LATE STOCK BREAK IS ONE OF SHARPEST OF THE YEAR

Selling for Both Long and Short Accounts Sweeps Into Market in Last Hour.

DECLINE IN WHEAT AMONG FACTORS

Active Shares Generally Driven Down 2 to 13 Points — Radio Makes New High Early.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Stocks suffered one of the sharpest breaks since the first of the year today, as heavy selling for both long and short accounts swept into the market in the last hour of trading, driving active shares generally down two to 13 points. Operators for the rise made a few efforts to turn the list upward during the day, but met with increased offerings on rallies and finally withdrew.

Sales in the last 50 minutes exceeded 1,100,000 shares, sending the total sales for the session up to 3,661,070.

The market has found progress difficult since the first of the month, after the sharp upturn in late January, and there has been a growing feeling in conservative circles that the improvement in business has been thoroughly discounted for the time being. The sharp break in the grain markets yesterday was a blow to speculative confidence, and further declines in the Chicago Pit today resulted in renewed unsettlement in the share market.

Profit-Taking Advocated.

Several commission houses have been advocating the taking of profits in preparations for a technical reaction for more than a week, and although bulls have continued to lift individual shares higher, speculative sentiment has grown highly uncertain. While confidence in the ability of leading shares to show further appreciation over the next several months remains unimpaired, market observers are veering to the opinion that tangible evidence of marked business recovery must appear before the upward trend can be resumed.

Credit conditions were scarcely a factor in the trend of the market. Call money held at 4½ per cent at the loan post, but was in ample supply.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending Feb. 19, were announced by the Federal Reserve Board after close of market as $3,494,000,000, representing an increase of $44,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Analysis of the report shows loans for own account increased $38,000,000, loans for account of out-of-town banks decreased $2,000,000, and loans for account of others increased $9,000,000.

Rails Are Heavy.

Selling of the rails was particularly heavy. The January earnings reports are to appear in the next few days. The report yesterday of car loadings for the first week of the year, shows a fair-sized decline. New York Central lost 7 points, and Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash, Delaware and Hudson and Lackawanna, 5 to 6.

National Lead closed 13 points lower, despite the declaration of a $3 extra dividend. Such leading issues as American Can, American Telephone, Johns Manville, Westinghouse Electric, U. S. Steel, American Tobacco and Eastman Kodak closed off about 4 to 7 points.

The wheat market continued to feel the influence of large stocks abroad. Reports of Russian exports, weakness of foreign markets and favorable weather over the winter wheat area, combined to send futures to new low levels for the season, although the decline was less drastic than yesterday's, closing prices showing losses of about 1⅛ cents. Corn, on the other hand, rallied slightly, reflecting smaller receipts and better demand. Cotton futures closed steady.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 11C, 13C and 13C.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY TO SELL POWER HOUSES TO REDUCE BANK LOANS

Hopes to Realize $3,000,000 or More—Considering Offer Solicited From Union Electric — Now Buys 90 Per Cent of Power Used From Union and Would Buy All.

The St. Louis Public Service Co. is considering the sale of its power generating plants and substations to the Union Electric Light & Power Co., to get money to make a substantial reduction in the amount of its large collateral bank loan.

At the request of the Public Service Co., the Union Electric Co. has made an offer for the properties, and this offer is being considered by the directors of the street car company. A directors' meeting to act on the matter will be held next Tuesday. The fact that negotiations are under way was confirmed by Louis H. Egan, president of Union Electric, but he would not disclose the details pending consummation of the deal.

It is understood, however, that the Public Service Co. expects to realize between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 from the sale, which would make a substantial reduction in the bank loan if it were all applied to that purpose. The amount of the loan is $9,844,663.33. It was originally made in 1928 for one year and when it came due on Feb 4, 1929, was renewed for one year. It is understood that it has not again been renewed pending completion of the sale of the power properties which would enable the borrower to make a payment on it.

Similar Action in Louisville.

It will be recalled that a few days ago the Louisville Railway Co. aided the refinancing of its bond indebtedness by the sale of its power plants and substations for $3,000,000. The same expedient has been made use of by other street railways.

In consideration of the purchase of the plants Union Electric undoubtedly would require the street railway company to contract [illegible] Electric. This probably would have no effect on the public through rates, since the Public Service Co. already buys 90 per cent of its power from Union, producing only 10 per cent in the plants it proposes to sell.

The Public Service Co.'s large bank loan was incurred in connection with the purchase of the property by the promoters from the receiver in 1927. These promoters, as the Reorganization Committee, had issued to themselves $6,000,000 of the United Railways 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, part of a total issue of $36,000,000 due July 1, 1934, which they pledged for a loan of $4,100,000 to be used in retiring certain other bonds in the process of buying the company.

Earnings 15 Per Cent.

After the new company took over the property on Dec. 1, 1927, it obtained possession of $9,000,000 more of the first mortgage bonds by offering for them $400 cash and a gold note for $275 for each $1000 bond. The cash to pay for these bonds was borrowed from banks with the bonds as security, the amount of the loan being 66 2-3 per cent of the face of the bonds.

At the time the bonds were selling around 85. Since then they have declined and recent sales have been around 70, the latest bid quotation being 69½.

This latter loan was consolidated with the one for $4,100,000 for which $6,000,000 bonds were deposited as security, and the whole was handled through the First National Bank in St. Louis, being participated in by a number of banks in St. Louis and New York. The present market value of the bonds, based on bids, is very little above the amount of the loan.

Whether reduction of the loan was suggested by the bank could not be learned. President W. W. Smith of the bank would not discuss the transaction.

The present financing problem of the Public Service Co. is a direct outgrowth of the obligations assumed by the promoters in buying the company, and is not due to any deficit in current earnings. The company is paying out of current revenues all its bond interest, interest on all loans and notes, preferred stock dividends, taxes and operating expenses. In 1929, as was told in the Post-Dispatch Jan 31, the company's earnings for common stock over and above these items, were $660,400, or at the rate of 15 per cent on the cash the purchasers paid for the common stock, which was $12.50 a share.

Directors of the Public Service Co. are Stanley Clarke, president; J. K. Newman, A. T. Perkins, S. W. Greenland, H. S. Priest, A. L. Shapleigh, J. Sheppard Smith, W. W. Smith, Mark C. Steinberg, F. O. Watts, George W. Wilson, Hugo Wurdack and H. V. Stephens. Three of these, Watts, Stephens and W. W. Smith, also are directors of the First National Bank.

HOUSE INVESTIGATION OF CHAIN BANKING

Mellon, or Assistant, Will Be One of First Witnesses Before Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—An investigation into group, chain and branch banking will be started by the House Banking Committee next Tuesday, with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon or one of his assistants, and J. W. Poole, Comptroller of the Currency, as the first witnesses.

The committee, in executive session, decided to meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week until the study is completed. Other witnesses will be the Governor, or members of the Federal Reserve Board, representatives of Federal Reserve banks and other individuals from the banking industry.

The inquiry is expected to have a bearing on whether concentration and centralization of banking resources should be limited by law, as has been demanded by some members of Congress.

FOR INQUIRY INTO FUTURE SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN BILLS

Norris Proposes to Get Details of Expenditures in Next Primaries and Election.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Appointment of a Senate committee to investigate campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates in the approaching primaries and election was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska.

The resolution was referred to the Senate Elections Committee. It called for a far reaching examination into the expenditures and "influences" employed in Senatorial primaries and conventions.

MRS. LINCOLN'S SISTER DIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 20.—Mrs. Ben Hardin Helm, widow of the Confederate General, and only surviving sister of Mary Todd Lincoln, wife of Abraham Lincoln, died at her home near here today. Mrs. Helm, who was in her ninety-fourth year, had been in apparently good health until about 10 days ago, when weakness of the heart developed.

Her three children, Ben Helm, Miss Katherine Helm, and Mrs. Walter Lewis, were at her bedside. Mrs. Helm possessed many heirlooms, personal letters and historical records connected with the martyred President and his wife, and for several years her home has been a mecca for literary people and tourists interested in Lincoln traditions.

DRY LAW IGNORED IN ST. LOUIS, HOUSE COMMITTEE HEARS

"U. S. GRAND JURIES HESITATE TO ACT"

Residents of County Discuss Bootleggers and Prices Freely, He Avers, and See No Wrong in It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The wets continued their assault on the prohibition laws before the House Judiciary Committee today with testimony that the dry laws are not enforced in the city of St. Louis or in St. Louis County.

George H. Williams, a former United States Senator from Missouri, told the committee, which is considering a number of bills for modification or repeal of the prohibition laws, that the Circuit Attorney at St. Louis, in announcing his candidacy for office, said he would not enforce the Volstead act.

It made no difference what was said about prohibition, Williams continued, nullification was a fact to be observed and not discussed.

The witness explained to the committee that through his connection with the Board of Children's Guardians of St. Louis, which has full charge of matters affecting the delinquent young, he had been a close observer of the effects of prohibition in that territory.

[illegible]

Williams said Federal grand juries "have not been quick to indict" on prohibition cases. The foreman of a recent Eastern Missouri District Federal grand jury had declared that indictments for violations of the eighteenth amendment would not be returned, he said, and the Judge had thanked the jury and excused it.

It was always understood, Williams added, that neither the Circuit Attorney nor the Prosecuting Attorney would attempt to enforce the eighteenth amendment.

Williams asserted that in St. Louis County there had developed a business whereby wealthy manufacturers of alcohol were hiring farmers and others to "take the rap" for them in the Federal Courts when confronted with charges of violations of the prohibition laws. He accused the Federal authorities of permitting this condition to continue, and added that public opinion against the dry law was so strong that the situation was tolerated.

The former Senator said that the people in his neighborhood openly discussed their bootleggers and the prices demanded for liquor without feeling in any way that they were doing anything wrong in violating the law. Many of these persons, he testified, were substantial citizens.

Not Bound by Law.

Williams said the people in his part of Missouri felt they were not bound by prohibition laws because they were not consulted and their consent was not sought when the Eighteenth amendment was adopted.

He was asked by Representative Sumners (Dem.), Texas, to explain what he meant and he declared that the eighteenth amendment was the first and only one that increased the power of the Federal Government and deprived the people of their rights.

Williams then charged that there were a lot of members of Congress who were politically dry but who were personally wet.

Sumners questioned Williams as to whether he found among his friends an attitude of resentment against the dry laws.

The witness replied that many of them violated the prohibition laws as a protest and because of their resentment to them.

Never Submitted to Owners.

Williams said if the position were sound that the national government had only the powers the people give it, "then the eighteenth amendment was never submitted to the owners of this Government.

"If it was necessary," he continued, "to submit the original constitution of the United States to the people then it was just as necessary to submit an amendment of the Constitution to the people."

He said he would challenge any member of the committee contending the amendment was valid as a result of its submission to and adoption by state legislatures.

Asserting that the purpose of the

DIRECTORS' BOARD MEETING HELD UP; ROBBERS GET $200

WHEN THEY LEAVE, VICTIMS PURSUE

Captured After Several Shots Are Fired — Say They Are Salesmen Out of Work and Desperate.

Thirteen investment brokers, lawyers and business executives participating in a special board of directors meeting at the office of the Associated Motor Terminals, 117 South Broadway, were rudely interrupted, cursed, lined against a wall and searched by two armed and masked men today.

The robbers, two unemployed soap salesmen, had an automobile parked outside, but were chased so closely by several employes and directors they had to pass up the vehicle and continue on foot. Two policemen joined in the pursuit, several shots were fired, the robbers were captured and part of the loot was recovered.

Among those held up at the directors' meeting were Oliver J. Anderson and Harry F. Stix, heads of brokerage houses; J. Porter Henry and E. M. Grossman, attorneys; Emmett M. Myers, E. T. Stanard, E. H. Bunnell, George Graham, L. T. Vierheller, A. C. Hellman, M. Jones, William King and T. H. Ward.

Robbers Blunder Into Meeting.

King and Ward are president and vice president of the Associated Motor Terminals Co., which [illegible] garages promoted by King, including the Broad-Wal Garage, which adjoins the office. The other garages are the Seven-Wal, Sev-Mor, and Jefferson-Plaza.

Unwittingly the soap salesmen-robbers stumbled into the special directors' meeting at 11 o'clock. Entering the front office they demanded the previous day's garage receipts, much as did two men who obtained $769 in a holdup there last Nov. 29. The cashier told them the money had been banked.

Forcing their way into a glass-partitioned rear office where the directors' meeting was in progress, the robbers seemed surprised to find the 13 directors and financial advisers in earnest discussion. Trembling with nervousness as they pointed revolvers and held handkerchiefs over their faces, the robbers demanded money.

Got About $200 in All.

Director Myers, who had $175, handed the robbers $2 and they did not ask him for more. Vice President Ward hid his purse and $20 behind a radiator. After lining the 13 men against a wall and making a half-hearted search of several, the robbers backed out. They took $80 from four employes and searched some desks before departing. Altogether, they stole about $200, Ward estimated. The employes held up included two who were taking notes at the directors' meeting.

Hotly pursued as they ran from the office, the robbers separated, with police shooting at their heels. One, wearing a red sweater, made the mistake of running into a blind alley, then attempting to hide himself in a closet on the second floor of a vacant building at Eighth street and Clark avenue. Arrested, he said he was Frank Storm, 24 years old, living at the Ednell Hotel, Newstead avenue and Olive street.

Second Man Caught at Hotel.

The second robber got away, but police went to the hotel and arrested another guest, James Maury, 25, who had just come in. Both men admitted the holdup, insisting it was their first crime, police reported. They said they owed a hotel bill and could not make a living selling soap.

Credit for their capture was given to Vice President Ward, Secretary Howard A. Davis, J. W. Ward, a salesman; Charles Bierman, another employe, and Patrolmen Thomas Ganley and William Donohue. Although several directors besides Vice President Ward followed the chase, they disclaimed credit for the capture.

JUDGE REBUKES 26 MEN WHO AVOID JURY SERVICE

Thinks Many Who Plead Conscientious Scruples Against Capital Punishment Were Shamming.

Twenty-six men who escaped jury service in a murder trial today by asserting that they had conscientious scruples against capital punishment were rebuked from the bench by Circuit Judge Calhoun after a man with an arm in a sling, suffering with blood poisoning, waived exemption and volunteered for service in order to complete the necessary venire of 47 men.

Charles H. Sommer, 6002 Cabanne avenue, president of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific Railway Co., was the last availble man on the panel of 73, with one more man needed. "I haven't slept for three nights, and I might as well be on your jury as anywhere else," he said. He was accepted with the assurance that he would be stricken off when the trial jury of 12 men was selected.

"I believe that some of you have grounds for scruples," Judge Calhoun told the disqualified men, "but my opinion is that most of you are merely shamming."

The trial was that of Lyman Wilbur, who shot his former wife at her home, 1820A Chouteau avenue, last Sept. 25.

RADIO COMMISSION RENAMED BY HOOVER FOR NEW TERM

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—President Hoover today nominated the present Radio Commission in its entirety to serve for another term.

The Radio Commission, which the President is retaining, is composed of Chairman Ira E. Robinson and Commissioners Sykes, Starbuck, Saltzman and Lafount.

The terms of the radio commissioners will expire at midnight on Feb. 23. Under legislation extending the life of the commission, President Hoover found it necessary to appoint an entirely new commission.

The nominations had hardly reached the Senate before Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, told the Senate "there are men there who haven't any right to be on that commission."

"They shouldn't be there," said Wheeler, "because of their attitude toward the radio trust has been entirely on the side of the trust in trying to turn over all the clear channels to this trust." However, Wheeler indicated he favored Chairman Robinson's reappointment for a two-year term.

MERCHANT BANKER REPORTED MISSING FEARED ABDUCTION

Charles W. Pershall, Head of Granite City Grocery Concern, Disappears on Way to Elks 'Club.

Charles W. Pershall, president of the Tri-City Grocery Co. and vice president of the First National Bank of Granite City, disappeared last night after leaving his home to go to the Elks' Club there. Granite City police expressed the belief he had been kidnaped and was being held for ransom.

If that theory be correct, extortionists are expanding their field of criminal operations, as heretofore only gamblers have been abducted. In the last three months, abductions of four gamblers have been reported. The first three, active in East Side gambling circles, were released after paying ransoms totaling $68,000, according to information reaching investigators. The fourth, Jacob Hoffman, St. Louis bookmaker, kidnaped Tuesday night, still is missing.

Said to Be Wealthy.

Pershall is 52 years old and said to be wealthy. A man of methodical habits, he followed a daily routine which varied little. As was his custom, he left his home in Granite City, 2019 Delmar avenue, at 8 o'clock, for a stroll to the Elks' Club, a few blocks away, where he nightly played cards with friends. The club is next door to police headquarters.

When he failed to return home, his family became alarmed. Inquiry at the club disclosed that he had not arrived there.

His sons, Samuel and Walter, associated with him in conducting the grocery business and the 16 chain stores it operates in Madison County, are engaged in a private search in addition to having enlisted the aid of police on both sides of the river. Samuel said a "substantial reward" would be paid for information leading to finding of his father.

The sons told police Pershall enjoyed good health and they doubt-

SKIPPER DESCRIBES FIGHT WITH STORM

Capt. Melville Says City of New York, Severely Battered, "Couldn't Have Stood Much More."

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1930, by the New York Times and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

This story is published exclusively in St. Louis in the Post-Dispatch. All news articles from the Byrd party or from special correspondents assigned to it will appear only in the Post-Dispatch in this city.

ABOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, Ross Sea, Antarctica, Feb. 19.—Admiral Byrd's ship, the City of New York, left the Bay of Whales at 9:30 o'clock this morning (2:30 p. m. Wednesday, St. Louis time), with members of the Little America party and their scientific records, bound for home.

The night had been raw and cold and the bay covered with a dispiriting fog. But with the coming of the sun, the mists were swept away and those who had lived for more than a year on the barrier and those who had come to take them home had a final glimpse of the white cliffs gleaming white and forbidding in the sun.

The hours since the ship arrived have been so busy, so much has been going on in the rush to get materials aboard; that they seem like days. It is really only a short time since the ship's masts were seen above the frost smoke that covered the harbor last evening.

The weather-beaten and ice-sheathed ship, glistening in the fading sun, meant letters and home and the way back to civilization.

Landing of the Ship.

The ship came on up to the ice dock at the west side of the bay, where a little group of men waited, for it was far ahead of schedule and as it neared them an arm was waved, almost diffidently, and somebody waved back from the ship. Then, as the ship came closer a voice called across the water.

A little nearer and we could distinguish the faces of men we knew. Capt. Melville on the bridge, who had taken his ship safely through one of the worst passages an Antarctic ship ever had; Bendik Johanssen, mate and ice pilot, who had picked the leads through the pack; man after man who had been on the trip down last year and who had stuck to the ship to bring the expedition home.

The ship was no sooner alongside the ice than gear which had been piled there was tumbled aboard. It came over the side in a steady stream, records and scientific gear first, then personal baggage and finally the other things which were piled up in the 'tween decks hold until it was full to the hatch.

All night the loading went on and by breakfast time this morning it was finished except for a few things which did not long delay the ship. There was need for haste for the season is getting late and the ice pack has not disappeared this year.

Breakfast and Mail.

Breakfast was a sadly interrupted meal, because the mail was distributed then. There were bags and bags of it. It had been piled in Admiral Byrd's cabin to keep it dry and it seemed as if there would be no end to the letters and bundles. Some of them had been sorted into bags and men staggered away from the door with bags they could barely lift.

What a mail day! There will never be another like it for most of us. And even then there was not time at first to read; men grabbed a handful of letters, scanned the handwriting hurriedly and then stuck them into their pockets until the ship would be at

TOLD TO ANSWER CHARGE HE FAVORS POWER INTERESTS

F. E. Bonner, Secretary of Federal Board Given Till Monday to Reply by Senate Committee.

ACCUSED BY HIS FELLOW EMPLOYES

Board Also Asked About Questioned Items — Hoover Personally Urges Reorganization.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, was ordered today to prepare detailed answers to charges of maladministration against him at the end of a three-hour hearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

The committee adopted a resolution offered by its chairman, Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, which directed that the Power Commission produce a list of all projects in which its accounting department questioned items involving more than $5000. The resolution also called for the names of applicants for developing permits.

A detailed explanation of the time elapsing between applications and the granting of permits also was demanded. Couzens said after his resolution was adopted that further investigation off the commission would be held up until Bonner returned with the statistics.

Bonner, who had been charged with allowing utilities groups to pad valuation estimates and with favoring the power interests was excused until Monday.

Hoover Urges Action.

The Senate committee began its general investigation of the Power Commission Monday and at a breakfast today President Hoover urged Couzens to push legislation which would reorganize the commission. The chief executive indicated he wanted it made a permanent commission along the lines of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Bonner, in his testimony, said the charges made against him by William King, commission accountant, and Charles Russell, commission secretary, were baseless. He contended that much of the trouble had been caused by "newspaper propaganda" and added that some of the power companies had been "persecuted." Pressed for the names of companies, he mentioned the Niagara Falls Power Co. and the Rocky Mountain Power Co. The latter is an applicant for the Flathead power site in Montana.

The President told Couzens that the Power Commission as it is now constituted was of no particular value either as an advisory or as a regulatory body. This being the case, it was said at the White House, the President desired early legislation to remedy a situation which in his opinion should receive prompt attention.

Bonner, a slender, gray-haired man, spoke calmly as he took the stand but hardly had he begun to read a statement before Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, interrupted to ask if it had been prepared in advance. Bonner answered that it had been because he had no assurance that he would be permitted to testify.

Bonner said it had developed that a large part of the Commission cost determination work could be absorbed by the staffs of the departments of War, Agriculture and Interior, asserting the results were more trustworthy than if an accountant were sent out from Washington.

"Naturally," he added, "this disturbs some personal ambitions and the plan encounters opposition in the accounting division."

"Fancied Padding of Accounts."

Bonner said there had been an inclination to pick out for publication "isolated instances of fancied padding of accounts." He continued that there also had been a tendency to try the case in the newspapers before the licenses had been heard.

Both King and Russell testified that power concerns added improper items to their valuations and that these included lobbying expenses.

Bonner said some criticism directed at the commission implied that it should be more active in rate regulation. He asserted that the commission's authority in this matter was strictly limited and added there had been no occasion "to invade this field."

Much of the criticism directed at him, he testified, had been because he broke up the "stagnation of the accounting division" and "began to get a little action."

Bonner completed his prepared statement and committee members began questioning him about accounts of power companies accepted by the commission.

"Not less than 80 per cent of construction cost estimates," Bonner said in response to a question, "represent clear-cut items of construction costs." About the remaining 20 per cent "there might be different interpretations."

Asked about valution estimates of the Clarion River Power Co., Pennsylvania, Bonner said charges against the concern were "entirely premature."

After Bonner said a preliminary power permit had been granted to the company, Dill (Dem.), Washington, referred to reported charges against the concern of padding valuation estimates. The Washington Senator inquired if, in view of the charges, Bonner "would favor granting a license?" The secretary replied that he did not want to give a "curbstone opinion."

Recommended by Merrill.

Bonner said he became executive secretary for the commission seven years ago and previously had done field work for it. Inquiries as to who recommended him, caused a sharp exchange. The witness finally testified that he had been recommended for his present post by O. C. Merrill, his predecessor, and Assistant Secretary Dixon of the Interior Department.

Asked about a conference in which Charles A. Russell, solicitor, maintained he was told to tell William V. King to "lay off" the power companies, Bonner said Russell was "sometimes called into conference."

Wheeler asked if M. O. Leighton, reported to be a power company representative, told Russell what to do and Bonner said he did "not recall it."

"What did Leighton say to Russell?" Glenn (Rep.), Illinois, asked "He discussed some of the problems," answered Bonner.

King "Too Meticulous."

"Do you agree with Leighton?" asked Pine (Rep.), Oklahoma, "that King had been too meticulous about accounts?" "I do," Bonner answered.

Asked who Leighton was, Bonner said he "represented power companies in contracts with the commission."

After Bonner had said the power companies had been "persecuted," citing newspaper articles, he was pressed for specific instances. The witness responded by saying the case "at Flathead Lake." He was referring to the Flathead power project in Montana for which applications are pending by the Rocky Mountain Power Co. and Walter Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer.

Wheeler then went to the question of secrecy, asking why the commission should invoke it on data surrounding applications for permits. "That," Bonner said, "is a rule of the commission that has stood the test of time."

INSURANCE FIRM RECEIVERSHIP

Federal Reserve Co.'s Stockholders File Second Petition.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 20.—Expressing no confidence in a new Board of Directors now in control of the $10,000,000 Federal Reserve Life Insurance Co., intervening stockholders today filed a new petition in District Court, asking for a receivership for the concern.

The action followed a ruling of Judge W. H. McCamish, who last Saturday granted a motion ousting State Attorney-General William A. Smith from litigation in the case. Smith had opposed a receivership on the ground that the company was solvent, although he was a party to a suit filed by Fred R. White, Wyandotte County Attorney asking such action. Allegations contained in the original suit, including the assertion that more than $1,000,000 had been misappropriated by the Federal Reserve company officers, were re-iterated in today's petition.

Shot Dead From Auto on Street.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—Roy Moore, 23 years old, was shot and killed on a street corner here early today by assassins who fired at him from a motor car and sped away. Police think the slaying was caused by a gang dispute.

SOVIET AVIATORS TO ESCORT BODY OF EIELSON HOME

State Department Gives "Unqualified Approval" to Request to Make Trip to Fairbanks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Dan A. Sutherland, Congressional Delegate from Alaska, announced today that the State Department had approved a request that Russian aviators be permitted to escort the bodies of the aviators, Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, from the spot in Siberia where they were bound to Fairbanks, Alaska.

Sutherland took to the State Department a request from Mayor de la Vergne, of Fairbanks, Alaska, that Commander Slitonov and his mechanic of the Russian junker plane be permitted to escort the American aviators from Siberia, where their bodies were discovered.

He said the department had given its "unqualified approval."

America has never recognized the Soviet Government and therefore the permission was deemed necessary.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Feb. 20.—Word that the body of Carl Ben Eielson, noted Polar flyer, had been recovered from the wreckage of his plane, 90 miles southeast of Cape North, Siberia, Tuesday, was sent by wireless to Fairbanks last night by Joe Crosson, one of the American flyers who conducted the search.

Eielson's body, together with that of Earl Borland, his mechanic, were placed aboard an airplane while resquers awaited favorable weather to leave the Siberian northland for Alaska. Borland's body was found a week ago today. The two flyers were killed Nov. 9, when their plane crashed on a little island in a frozen lagoon.

Crosson, at the ice-bound fur trading motorship Nanuk near Cape North, to which Eielson and Borland were flying when they crashed, reported that Eielson's body had been found 200 feet from the fuselage of his wrecked plane and under less than one foot of snow, the wind having swept the spot nearly clear.

Crashed With Terrific Force.

Eielson's body lay about 150 feet from that of Borland indicating that their plane crashed with terrific impact. Wreckage of the plane, found Jan. 25 by Crosson and pilot Harold Gillam after a long search, was scattered over a wide area. The motor, near which Borland's body fell, was hurled 100 feet from the fuselage, while one wing was found 200 feet from the point at which the plane struck.

A searching party headed by Commander Slipenov, Russian pilot, found Eielson's body. Borland, whose wife and two small children live in Alaska, will be buried in Seattle, while the body of Eielson will be taken by his father, Ole Eielson, to Hatton, N. D. The elder Eielson now is in Alaska awaiting the return of the body.

American members of the relief expedition expressed high praise for the aid given by the Russians. A message was sent to President Kemeneff of the Arctic Commission at Moscow requesting permission for Slipenov to accompany the bodies to Fairbanks.

Most Noted Air Feat.

Eielson's most noted exploit was a flight on April 15, 1928, across the top of the world from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen, a distance of about 2000 miles, with Sir Hubert Wilkins.

Wilkins and Eielson flew over the top of the world more than a month in advance of the dirigible, Norge, piloted by Gen. Umberto Nobile of Italy on a flight from Spitzbergen to the North Pole. Two years earlier Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd Jr., flew from Norway to the North Pole and return in an airplane. A few days after the Byrd flight the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition in a dirigible crossed the North Pole on a cruise from Spitzbergen to Alaska.

Wilkins and Eielson made their explorations in the Antarctic during the fall of 1928. With Crosson, an engineer and a radio operator, they flew from Deception Island to 71:20 south latitude, crossing Graham Land and establishing the fact that it was not a peninsula of the Antarctic continent, as most maps showed at that time. This was the first flight in the south frigid zone.

Eielson was 32 years old and Borland 28.

Forged Anne Stillman's Name.

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 20.—A lumberjack, Patrick Tremblay, formerly employed by Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, wife of James A. Stillman, New York banker, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of forging her name to two checks for $60 and $200. Tremblay offered no defense and was remanded for sentence. Mrs. Stillman said she did not know how Tremblay obtained the checks or learned her full name.

BOASTS KILLING OF EIGHT MEN WITH POISON

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 20.—James Baker, 25 years old, a former employe of the Guggenheim Laboratory, New York, was arrested last night and held here for New York police after he was said to have confessed the killing of eight men in the last four years.

Baker's eight victims were dispatched by poison. The poisonings, he said, were in widely scattered places—Bombay, Hamburg, New York, Houston, the Philippines, and aboard a ship bound for South America.

Baker was arrested on a farm three miles west of Farmington, a suburb where he had been working since last summer.

The killings, Baker stated in his confession, gave him "a funny sort of mental satisfaction."

The specific charge on which Baker is held is the poisoning of Henry S. Gaw, a night watchman at the Guggenheim Laboratory in New York, Dec. 28, 1928.

Baker told the officers he was born and received his early education at Warren, O., leaving home when 16. He got a job on a freight steamer and followed the sea for several years.

"I was always interested in poisons and usually carried some around with me," he said. "In 1924 I was in Houston, Tex. I happened into a sailors' restaurant and sat down beside a man. He had a cup of coffee in front of him. While he was looking away, I had a sudden impulse to put some poison in his coffee. He died almost at once. I learned afterward that his name was Honeycut."

Baker said after this first experience he had other unexpected impulses to poison persons, "no one in particular, but just anyone who happened to be near."

In 1926 Baker said he poisoned a man in Hamburg, Germany, and in 1927 poisoned a Hindu in Bombay, India.

While going down the Atlantic Coast on a vessel bound for Venezuela, Baker said he put poison in the coffee, causing the whole crew to become ill. Three men died, he said. In the spring of 1928 Baker said he poisoned a man at Iloilo, P. I., a small seaport town on Panay Island.

The poisoning of Gaw took place shortly after midnight Dec. 27, 1928, Baker said. Once again the poison was put in coffee. This time, Baker said, it did not have the desired effect, so he placed some more on the barrel of his revolver and put it down the man's throat, holding it there until he died. At this juncture, Baker said two truck drivers entered the laboratory and he held them up and tied them. He said he had intended to kill them but one of them pleaded that he had a wife and children.

Baker had a revolver on the handle of which eight notches were cut.

Detective Thomas A. Smith of New York was responsible for tracing Baker. Smith had been sent to Detroit to bring back a prisoner. While there a Detroit detective incidentally mentioned to him that there was a man working on a farm on the outskirts of town whose actions were suspicious—that he appeared to be hiding.

Smith went to the man's lodging during his absence and gained admission to his room. Searching his effects he found a newspaper clipping of a man's photograph which the landlady said was a picture of her roomer. Returning to New York with the picture, Smith checked through the "wanted" sheets and found that the picture was that of Baker. Detroit authorities were notified and the arrest followed.

Details of New York Murder Which Prisoner Confesses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The murder of Henry Gaw, for which James Baker has been arrested in Detroit, was discovered on the morning of Dec. 27, 1928. Elmer Mayhew and Chester Macauley of Baltimore drove up in a truck to the Guggenheim Brothers' Laboratory at 202d street and Tenth avenue, with a load of tear gas. They rang the bell at the gates which were opened and they drove in. Once they were inside the man who had opened the gates drew a revolver and after slugging them, bound them securely and left. Police found the body of the night watchman, Gaw, on the floor beside a table on which were two coffee cups. His hands were folded and a torn telephone book lay on his chest. The files of the laboratory had been rifled but a check determined that nothing of value was missing. Suspicion centered on Baker who was missing and his description was broadcast throughout the country. An autopsy showed Gaw had been poisoned.

FORMER HOTEL OPERATOR HERE HELD FOR $600 STOCK FRAUD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 20.—George T. Thompson, president of the George T. Thompson Hotel Co., which operated the Marquette Hotel in St. Louis until it was sold under foreclosure a month ago, and former manager of Hotel Chase there, was arrested here today on a warrant charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses.

The warrant, issued at Hermann, Mo., after Henry Plummer, a farmer, had complained to Prosecuting Attorney Graf, charges Thompson sold $600 worth of stock representing it as stock in a Hermann hotel but delivered stock in the Thompson Hotel Co. George Gillard and Harry Wolken of St. Louis also are named in the warrant.

Thompson recently leased the new Greene County Tavern, constructed by a Springfield company, and has been selling stock in an operating company. He declined to make a statement.

BURNS TO DEATH IN HER HOME

Woman Trapped as She Tries to Save $647.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EAST PRAIRIE, Mo., Feb. 20.—Trapped when she tried to save $647 on the second floor of her home, Mrs. M. M. Blaese, 63 years old, burned to death at noon today when the roof collapsed and buried her under the debris.

The body was recovered later, the tin box which contained the money in currency and gold, lying nearby.

FLYERS TAKE OFF FOR PANAMA

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—Three officers and a non-commissioned officer of the Army Air Corps, who left Miami at 6:10 a. m. today in a tri-motored transport plane for a non-stop flight to Panama, did not announce their destination during their overnight stay here, according to officials of Pan-American Airways. The flyers did not register at the company's air port on arrival last night, and left today after having their plane serviced.

Byrd Sails For Home, Leaves Two Planes Behind

sea and there would be time to look them over at leasure.

Just before Little America was finally deserted Admiral Byrd and Capt. Ashley McKinley hauled down the flag which had flown over the camp ever since the sun came up, and saluted.

Obliged to Leave Planes.

Then Admiral Byrd turned toward the hill on which lay his two planes which carried him and his men to the South Pole and on other flights and with a wave of the hand, half salute and half farewell, turned away from them. He hated to leave them, but there was no way out of it. They perched on the hill top, wide wings outspread against the sky, like two giant birds resting for a time.

(It is presumed there was no room for the planes on the ship. The expedition's other vessel, the Eleanor Bolling, is available to bring out the planes if weather permits.)

During every moment of leisure in loading, the men of the two groups, those who came down on the ship and those who had been ashore this last year, chattered of things in which they thought the others would be interested, tales of amusing things that have happened, of the trip down from the pack, of the trail and flights.

But perhaps the most interesting to us was the story of the ship. It bore marks of her fight with the ice all along her sides.

The sheathing was cut and scarred where blocks of ice had hit the ship in the gales and holes were punched right through the bulwarks at the deck line. There was no doubt that it had been in a rough passage and, as Capt. Melville said, "One more day and we would have had to turn north and run out of it. She couldn't have stood much more."

Skipper Pleased With Ship.

But both Capt. Melville and Johanssen were enthusiastic about the ship. They doubted if another vessel could have stood the battering it received and come through it.

Admiral Byrd was as pleased with the way the crew had handled the ship and stuck by the guns in difficulties. He spoke of it again and again as he looked over the bark. It has a new bridge this year.

"We got along well until we got almost through the pack," said Capt. Melville. "The first 25 miles of the pack were rather bad; heavy old ice, but we struck a lead that was on our course and we followed it. It kept on opening up, and we got through all right until the seventh, when the gale began which lasted all the way to the barrier. It started with a blizzard, and when it was not blowing great guns it was snowing.

"New ice was forming fast also, and through the latter part of it we ran through a lot of that and slush. The swell increased and I figured we were near open water. Finally we came out at night with the gale blowing nearly a hurricane. I have been around the Horn several times and I never saw such seas as those.

Ice Chunks Thrown About.

"To make matters worse, big pieces of ice were being thrown about. They lifted high above the rail of the ship when the seas roared alongside and I admit I was a little nervous about them. If the ship had fallen off and some of these chunks had come aboard, they might have sunk us.

"Finally we decided to turn tail to the storm and run for shelter. It took nearly an hour to get around, but we made it and then ran three hours to the northwest until we got back into the pack and slush ice and hove to in a clear space in the lee of the ice.

"The next day, the eighth, the gale began to moderate a little and we made our way out and again started south. We had to run through 16 miles of pack and slush again before reaching open water and came out in about longitude 177 degrees east and latitude 69 degrees, 15 minutes south.

"From that time we have seen only a few scattered bergs, but we have had no observations from the eleventh until the sixteenth.

"The ship began to ice up on the thirteenth. Of course we had some ice before that, but it was not serious. From then on, it began to gather in earnest.

27 Inches of Ice.

"The crew worked all the time, chopping and smashing it from the sides, from every place they could reach. There was 27 inches of ice on the poop deck when we reached shelter, so you can imagine how much we gathered. It was worst forward, for there we could not get at it.

"The seas came over solidly and went aft, and the ice increased until there was a mass around the martingale which a man could not put his arms around. There must have been 20 tons on the headgear of the ship alone and that weight made her stick her nose into every sea. I was afraid we might lose our headgear and if that went it would pull our masts over. It was a tough time.

"In these days all we could do was keep her head into the wind, even with the engine full ahead, and with no solar observations and the compass acting crazy as it always does in these latitudes, it was hard to tell where we were.

"But it was a blow on the 15th when we sighted land to realize how far we had blown off our course. I know it has happened before under such conditions but just the same I was disappointed. The weather cleared soon and then we saw the high peaks of what turned out to be Ross Island.

View of Mount Erebus.

"My only consolation for being so far away from Little America was that I was able to see Mount Erebus, for I have always wanted to see it. It is a magnificent mountain.

"Once in under the lee of the land, we got to work chopping away the ice and must have cleared 200 tons off her. Even now, as you see, there is ice all along her sides and the ropes are like iron bars and the blocks frozen solid. Running along under the barrier we got rid of the worst and then made good time. But it was a rough ride while it lasted."

A series of soundings was also made along the whole face of the barrier by Ralph Shropshire and many samples taken from the water and bottom. The series of soundings, indeed, runs all the way from Dunedin.

As the Byrd expedition reached the Bay of Whales on Dec. 25, 1928, it was actually there 13 months and 25 days.

NEGRO, 20, GETS LIFE AS HABITUAL CRIMINAL

Leroy Winston, 20-year-old Negro, 3429 Franklin avenue, was found guilty of robbery in the first degree under the habitual criminal act by a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court yesterday. The penalty is imprisonment for life.

Two Negroes robbed Jake Gentle of $118 last Oct. 31, in his cigar store at 2333 Franklin avenue, one of them striking him on the head with a revolver. Gentle identified Winston as the one who struck him. The other has not been apprehended.

Winston testified he was working in a restaurant at the time of the robbery. He was sentenced to two years in prison in March, 1928, when he pleaded guilty of robbery, and was released last April.

QUESTIONS WOMAN ON CHARGES MADE AGAINST ATTORNEY

Counsel for George J. Gillespie Unable to Pin Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon to Specific Points.

SHE TESTIFIES SHE WEPT FOR 17 MONTHS

Wrote to Governor, Mayor and Many Others About Affair With New York Water Board Head.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Details in the picture Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, in her $574,165 damage suit, has been sketching of George J. Gillespie Sr., well known lawyer, as a schemer who kissed her and then stole her law clients, was added to today by three women.

Taking the stand as prosecution witnesses, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Patterson, Mrs. Lillian Franklin and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chapin, all members of the Junior League, told today of their one-time acquaintance with Mrs. Brandon which they severed in 1925 when her difficulties with Gillespie first came to public notice.

Mrs. Brandon charges that his denial of their engagement, which she had printed in the papers in that year, and his weaning away of her clients has injured her to the extent of more than $500,000.

After the three women had told of meeting Mrs. Brandon in war work and continuing the acquaintance until 1925, Mrs. Brandon herself took the stand and claimed credit for "putting the motion picture business on its feet." She served for a time as editor and scenario writer for a film company.

"Put Movies on Their Feet."

"Did you ever tell Mr. Gillespie that you put the motion picture business on its feet?" the attorney for Gillespie asked. "Incidentally," she replied. "I told him I had really turned the tide in favor of the motion picture industry at a time when it was most needed."

"Did you state it was the first time in history that the motion picture industry was put on the map?" "That is the substance of what I did."

Admits Writing Letter.

Mrs. Brandon testified yesterday that she rad written a letter stating that the death of Gillespie's wife should be investigated.

The assertion was made under cross-examination, and Mrs. Brandon added, "Her body should be exhumed and examined." She said Gillespie's wife "stood in his way to the de Lamar millions."

This suggestion brought to a melodramatic climax three days of vituperation poured upon the president of the Board of Water Supply by the woman who calls herself "the watchdog of poor little Alice de Lamar," the $10,000,000 heiress.

Mrs. Brandon persisted yesterday in her championship of "poor little Alice," although she had heard Miss de Lamar say that Gillespie had never defrauded her as far as she knew, and although when pressed Mrs. Brandon could think of only one $100 item to question in Gillespie's dealings with the heiress.

Heiress' Testimony to Be Given.

The testimony of the heiress, who is in Florida, was taken last autumn, and will be introduced in the trial.

Gillespie helped Mrs. Brandon get a job as assistant corporation counsel after she worked with him in a political campaign in 1921, and succeeded her as Miss de Lamar's attorney.

Through intimacies which he told her committed him to marriage, because of his religious principles, she maintains, she became plighted to him with the understanding that it was "just a matter of a few days or weeks" until the death of the invalid wife.

Two days before Mrs. Brandon announced her engagement, immediately repudiated by Gillespie, on March 15, 1925, she talked to Cardinal Hayes about their relations.

Letter to Cardinal Produced.

To refute the implication that Cardinal Hayes had approved her course, Gillespie's counsel yesterday produced in court a letter which she wrote to the Cardinal at that time, telling him that the action she was about to take was not the result of their interview.

The repudiation, Mrs. Brandon declared, caused her to be "jeered at and spat upon" as an insane woman by persons who believed "scurrilous rumors" spread by the man she has denounced as "a hypocrite, a religious impostor." She was dropped by her friends of the Social Register, who "repeatedly told me that they thought I was crazy."

"I couldn't stop weeping for 17 months," she declared. "I am living a living death." Doctors who are still treating her for "nervous prostration" have told her she must put Gillespie out of her mind and cultivate hobbies, Mrs. Brandon said.

Made Charges in Many Letters.

The reference to Mrs. Gillespie's body was made in cross-examination which disclosed Mrs. Brandon to the jury as a prodigious letter writer and pamphleteer.

NEGRO, 20, GETS LIFE AS HABITUAL CRIMINAL

Leroy Winston, 20-year-old Negro, 3429 Franklin avenue, was found guilty of robbery in the first degree under the habitual criminal act by a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court yesterday. The penalty is imprisonment for life.

Two Negroes robbed Jake Gentle of $118 last Oct. 31, in his cigar store at 2333 Franklin avenue, one of them striking him on the head with a revolver. Gentle identified Winston as the one who struck him. The other has not been apprehended.

Winston testified he was working in a restaurant at the time of the robbery. He was sentenced to two years in prison in March, 1928, when he pleaded guilty of robbery, and was released last April.

HOOVER INVITES COOLIDGE TO DEDICATE ARIZONA DAM

Gila River Project Named for Former President Who Is in California.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—President Hoover today dispatched a telegram to former President Coolidge, now in California, asking him if convenient to go to Arizona and dedicate the Coolidge Dam.

The dam, which is on the Gila River in Arizona, was constructed during Coolidge's administration and named in his honor. The dam supplies water for one of the largest reclamation projects ever built by the United States Government.

L.L.LUCKENBACH COUNTER SUIT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—Lewis L. Luckenbach, vice president of Luckenbach Steamship lines, has filed suit for divorce here as a counter to the divorce action instituted by his wife in New York some time ago. Luckenbach names William J. Hanley as co-respondent. Hanley is said to be a resident of New York.

Mrs. Luckenbach's plea for divorce seeks custody of their 9-year-old son, whom she said her husband had taken to Florida with a young woman to whom he is paying attentions. Luckenbach at Key West later denied that his son was there, declaring he was in school in Massachusetts.

QUESTIONS WOMAN ON CHARGES MADE AGAINST ATTORNEY

SHE TESTIFIES SHE WEPT FOR 17 MONTHS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Details in the picture Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, in her $574,165 damage suit, has been sketching of George J. Gillespie Sr., well known lawyer, as a schemer who kissed her and then stole her law clients, was added to today by three women.

Taking the stand as prosecution witnesses, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Patterson, Mrs. Lillian Franklin and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chapin, all members of the Junior League, told today of their one-time acquaintance with Mrs. Brandon which they severed in 1925 when her difficulties with Gillespie first came to public notice.

Mrs. Brandon charges that his denial of their engagement, which she had printed in the papers in that year, and his weaning away of her clients has injured her to the extent of more than $500,000.

After the three women had told of meeting Mrs. Brandon in war work and continuing the acquaintance until 1925, Mrs. Brandon herself took the stand and claimed credit for "putting the motion picture business on its feet." She served for a time as editor and scenario writer for a film company.

"Put Movies on Their Feet."

"Did you ever tell Mr. Gillespie that you put the motion picture business on its feet?" the attorney for Gillespie asked. "Incidentally," she replied. "I told him I had really turned the tide in favor of the motion picture industry at a time when it was most needed."

"Did you state it was the first time in history that the motion picture industry was put on the map?" "That is the substance of what I did."

Admits Writing Letter.

Mrs. Brandon testified yesterday that she rad written a letter stating that the death of Gillespie's wife should be investigated.

The assertion was made under cross-examination, and Mrs. Brandon added, "Her body should be exhumed and examined." She said Gillespie's wife "stood in his way to the de Lamar millions."

This suggestion brought to a melodramatic climax three days of vituperation poured upon the president of the Board of Water Supply by the woman who calls herself "the watchdog of poor little Alice de Lamar," the $10,000,000 heiress.

Mrs. Brandon persisted yesterday in her championship of "poor little Alice," although she had heard Miss de Lamar say that Gillespie had never defrauded her as far as she knew, and although when pressed Mrs. Brandon could think of only one $100 item to question in Gillespie's dealings with the heiress.

Heiress' Testimony to Be Given.

The testimony of the heiress, who is in Florida, was taken last autumn, and will be introduced in the trial.

Gillespie helped Mrs. Brandon get a job as assistant carporation counsel after she worked with him in a political campaign in 1921, and succeeded her as Miss de Lamar's attorney.

Through intimacies which he told her committed him to marriage, because of his religious principles, she maintains, she became plighted to him with the understanding that it was "just a matter of a few days or weeks" until the death of the invalid wife.

Two days before Mrs. Brandon announced her engagement, immediately repudiated by Gillespie, on March 15, 1925, she talked to Cardinal Hayes about their relations.

Letter to Cardinal Produced.

To refute the implication that Cardinal Hayes had approved her course, Gillespie's counsel yesterday produced in court a letter which she wrote to the Cardinal at that time, telling him that the action she was about to take was not the result of their interview.

The repudiation, Mrs. Brandon declared, caused her to be "jeered at and spat upon" as an insane woman by persons who believed "scurrilous rumors" spread by the man she has denounced as "a hypocrite, a religious impostor." She was dropped by her friends of the Social Register, who "repeatedly told me to my face that I was crazy."

"I couldn't stop weeping for 17 months," she declared. "I am living a living death." Doctors who are still treating her for "nervous prostration" have told her she must put Gillespie out of her mind and cultivate hobbies, Mrs. Brandon said.

Made Charges in Many Letters.

The reference to Mrs. Gillespie's body was made in cross-examination which disclosed Mrs. Brandon to the jury as a prodigious letter writer and pamphleteer.

She wrote to the Pope, the Governor, the Mayor, to priests, to Gillespie's clients, pouring forth her charges. She told Thomas Hughes Kelly, a client, that Gillespie had "forged his personality, just as a crook might forge a signature." She sent letters to newspaper editors and included clippings on which she had typed in red ink.

On one clipping about the fake Lord Beaverbrook, who victimized women, she wrote that "Slippery Gillespie, the sanctimonious sheik, claims a million victims under oath." She based this, she said, on his statement in repudiating their engagement: "If any one of a million women made that statement I couldn't have been more surprised."

"And you concluded from that that it meant he had victimized 1,000,000 women?" she was asked. "I knew it," she replied.

Felt the Pope Should Be Told.

She wrote to the Pope, she said, because "innumerable Catholic women felt that His Holiness, the Pope, should know about Gillespie."

"Did you know that he was one of the directors of St. Patrick's Cathedral?" the defense lawyer inquired. The witness answered: "Shocking and terrible, the blackest disgrace that could fall on any church."

A pamphlet containing her charges, which had two editions but which Mrs. Brandon would not admit reached a circulation of 25,000 copies, was sent throughtout the country to lawyers, and to all Supreme Court justices in this city. Gillespie got one on Christmas, 1928, inscribed to "Geo. Jackass Gillespie, the dirty dog."

Mrs. Brandon did not take kindly to cross-examination.

Among other things, it developed that Lieut. Brandon, who, she said, came back from the war suffering from "war shock" so that she had to get a divorce, had never been much farther than Yaphank. It was soon after the divorce that she met Gillespie and she began to love him "whenever he first represented that he was sent from heaven to console me for the loss of my mother and husband. He was a pretty fast worker."

"You're not so slow yourself, are you?" suggested Kiendl.

ed that his disappearance was due to any illness. The grocery concern, they added, is financially sound.

Premonition of Kidnaping.

"My father frequently expressed fear of being kidnaped," Walter Pershall said. "This may have been because of holdups at some of our stores in Granite City, Madison, Venice, Edwardsville and Alton. One store manager was told by robbers: 'We don't want your money, we want Pershall's.'

"Father was fond of bridge and sometimes played at the Elks' Club until 2 o'clock in the morning. Occasionally he had a policeman walk home with him."

A native of Granite City, Pershall has been with the grocery company for 14 years. He has a wife, two daughters and three sons. He is described as 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 175 pounds. Last night he was wearing a fedora hat, striped suit and checkered topcoat.

KIDNAPED GAMBLER IS STILL MISSING

No word has been received from Jacob Hoffman, the missing bookmaker, according to his brother, Carl Hoffman, who conducts a handbook in conjunction with his St. Nicholas cleaning and dyeing shop at 7 South Broadway.

Jacob Hoffman conducted a cigar store and handbook at 111 North Broadway, in partnership, according to his brother, with D. D. Murphy of the Mississippi Valley Showmen's Association and the D. D. Murphy Shows, Inc., which occupy the second floor. In a holdup at the Showmen's Association quarters Tuesday night, five armed and masked men held up and robbed 20 men and then drove away with Jacob Hoffman.

Questioned about rumors that a ransom ranging from $15,000 to $30,000 had been demanded, Carl Hoffman today said: "I positively have not heard from Jake, directly or indirectly, and I've been sitting up every night hoping to hear something. I suppose whoever took Jake would get in touch with me or Murphy if they wanted money."

Murphy could not be reached.

The Hoffman brothers were described in one quarter as "big shots—no payoff too big for them to handle." Carl Hoffman, however said: "I don't know what those kidnapers expect to get from us—we haven't got much."

BRIDE AND HUSBAND SHE SHOT TO DEATH

MRS. BERTHA MILLER.

CHARLES MILLER.

Mrs. Bertha Miller Declines to Testify at Inquest but Son Tells of Man's Threats.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today against Mrs. Bertha Miller, who nine days ago married her star boarder, after he had served a Workhouse term for disturbing her peace, and yesterday afternoon shot and killed him at her home and boarding house, 2019 Cherokee street. Her bond was fixed at $2500.

The husband, Charles Miller, had not been employed since last November, prior to which time he was an orderly in a hospital. He was 28 years old. Mrs. Miller is 33. She had been a widow for 12 years until she married Miller.

Her two children by the first marriage, Norvell Wondell, 14, and Veldean Wondell, 13, saw Miller shot to death and corroborated their mother's statement that he had mistreated the family and threatened to kill his wife and himself. Another corroborating witness was Mrs. Miller's 14-year-old nephew, Gilbert Bell, 2102 Wyoming street, who was playing with the Wondell children.

Declines to Testify

Mrs. Miller, who had been locked up overnight while the children were cared for by relatives, declined to testify at the inquest. She wept as her son took the witness stand and testified in her defense. Asked why he described Miller as the star boarder, the boy replied: "Well, he lived at our house and ate there, but he didn't pay his board and never worked."

The boy's testimony was similar to Mrs. Miller's story to police, which was as follows:

"We were all in the kitchen about 5:30 o'clock when Miller threatened to kill me and himself. He had been quarrelsome all day and for the three previous days, too. He walked into a first floor bedroom two or three times and asked me to come in. I refused because I was afraid he meant to kill me. He was mumbling constantly to himself.

"Finally he went upstairs to a bedroom where he knew I kept a revolver in a chifforobe. As a precaution against his getting the revolver, I had moved it to a sewing machine drawer downstairs. While he was upstairs, I got the revolver from the sewing machine.

"I walked to the foot of the stairs as I heard him coming down. When he was three or four steps from the bottom, I fired at him and he tumbled the rest of the way. I fired because I thought he was about to carry out his threat to kill me."

Shot in the Abdomen.

Mrs. Miller had shot her husband in the abdomen, causing death in a few minutes. When police arrived, the body was on the floor at the foot of the stairway. The revolver was found on top of a gas range, where Mrs. Miller had placed it.

"I met Miller last October," Mrs. Miller explained. "He visited me at my home frequently until November when he moved in as star boarder.

"He was always abusive and frequently demanded that I chastise my children or he would beat me. Last Jan. 21 I had to call the police and have him arrested for disturbing my peace. On my testimony, he was fined $50 in Police Court and, being unable to pay the fine, served 17 days in the workhouse instead.

"When he got out, he asked to be taken back, pleading that he would reform and get work. I took him back, and on Feb. 10 we were married. But he was worse than ever."

STOPS COLLECTION OF GARBAGE UNTIL SUIT IS DECIDED

City Suspends Service—Householders Requested to Dispose of Refuse by Burning or Burying.

Garbage collections were suspended today pending a decision by Circuit Judge Pearcy in the injunction suit to restrain the city and Hog Haven Farms, Inc., from carrying out a five-year contract for the disposal of garbage beginning today.

The old contract with Charles L. Rea, expired yesterday with the delivery of the day's collections at the foot of Chouteau avenue. With the injunction hearing in its fourth day, a temporary restraining order prevents the similar delivery of garbage to Hog Haven Farms under the new contract.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks ordered the cessation of collections late yesterday when it became apparent the hearing would not be concluded. Brooks and City Counselor Muench said today that Rea was willing to continue taking garbage temporarily but pointed out that such an arrangement would be a violation of the Hog Haven contract. Should the injunction be granted, they said, an emergency contract could be made for garbage disposal.

"No Alternative for City."

"The Department of Streets and Sewers has no alternative in this matter," Brooks' announcement said. "The citizens of St. Louis are asked not to place their garbage in the alleys or at the curbs with the expectation that the cans will be emptied, until we are relieved from this restraining order, or until the city has had an opportunity to take such other appropriate steps as may be possible under the circumstances."

Health Commissioner Starkloff said he saw no menace to public health in the abandonment of garbage collection, inasmuch as flies and mosquitoes do not breed in cool weather. He suggested that current accumulations be burned or buried, preferably burned.

The city's garbage averages about 170 tons a day at this time of the year. Under the expired contract Rea received 74 cents a ton and transported the garbage to an island hog farm about 50 miles downstream. The new contractor would receive 34½ cents a ton and would move the garbage to his East Side farm, two miles downstream, opposite Sidney street, saving this city about $28,000 a year as against the old rate.

Defense Testimony Begun.

The injunction suit to break the new contract was brought by a group of South Side householders, organizations and business men who spent two days in laying their complaints before the court. Defense testimony by city officials and Hog Haven officers began yesterday and continued today.

The injunction seekers sought to prove that the farm would be a nuisance if the city's large output of garbage were unloaded there. Witnesses testified that during the last two summers, when the wind was from the north or east, noxious odors and hordes of insects drifted into the South Side district, although the farm was operating on only a relatively small scale. More than 30 witnesses were produced by Edward W. Foristel, counsel for the complainants, whose home stands on the South Broadway bluffs.

Yesterday the defense presented about 15 residents of Monsanto, Ill., an industrial village in which part of Hog Haven is located, who testified that the odors from the farm had not annoyed them.

Sues W. K. Henderson for $50,000.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 20.—The Texas Anti-Chain Association today filed suit in Federal Court here against W. K. Henderson of Shreveport, La., and KWKH, his radio broadcasting station for $50,000 damages alleging Henderson had circulated false and defamatory statements concerning the association. The suit is the outcome of a controversy between Henderson and the Texas Anti-Chain Association, although both are conducting a fight on chain stores.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATH OF PAIR KILLED BY GAS

Coroner Finds Man and Woman Were Asphyxiated When Boiling Coffee Puts Out Flame.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the deaths of George J. Barth, carpenter, and Mrs. Anna Becker, with whom he lived. Their bodies were found yesterday in their gas-filled two-room flat at 1043 Ann avenue. The jury found that Barth and Mrs. Becker were overcome, after a coffee pot on the gas stove had boiled over, extinguishing the flame.

Barth's wife, Mrs. Emma Barth, from whom he was separated, and who lives at 3836A Botanical avenue, testified she had not seen her husband for a year. A son testified he had recently seen his father and the latter was apparently in good health and spirits. Barth was 54, Mrs. Becker 45.

SETS FOUR SPEED RECORDS FOR AIRPLANES IN ONE DAY

Flyer Averages 152 Miles an Hour Over 625-Mile Course, Carrying Load.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—Four new world speed records for airplanes carrying added weight were set here today over the beach course by Lee Shoenhair of Akron, O.

After setting new records for the 100 and 500 kilometer courses (about 62.5 and 312.5 miles, respectively), carrying 2204 pounds added weight, Shoenhair took his monoplane around the course to break the world mark for 1000 kilometers (about 625 miles) with the same added weight. His new record of 152.702 miles an hour surpassed by 15.6 miles an hour the mark set by Apillard and Campian of France.

The speed of 152.702 miles an hour broke the world's record for carrying 1102 pounds added weight for the distance of 1000 kilometers.

Starting his task shortly after dawn today, Shoenhair first exceeded the world mark for the 100-kilometer course, carrying 2204 pounds added weight, at 175.997 miles an hour to surpass with the old record of 160.280 held by Capt. H. S. Broad of England.

Next, the pilot tried the same added weight over the 500-kilometer course, setting a record of 168.114 miles an hour.

On Tuesday, Shoenhair broke two world marks for speed with added weight. He flew the course in 185.452 miles an hour, carrying 1102 pounds, over a 100-kilometer route. He also averaged 171.228 miles an hour for 500 kilometers with the same load.

REPORTS THEFT OF $40,000 IN DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY

Jacob Crohn, a New York jewelry salesman, reported to police yesterday that he had been robbed recently in Oklahoma City, Ok., of a trunk containing $40,000 in diamonds and jewelry by two Negroes, who removed the trunk from the rear of a hotel.

BODY OF WOMAN EXHUMED; DOCTOR AND HUSBAND HELD

Autopsy Discloses Mrs. Edna Carter, 17 Years Old, Died After Illegal Operation.

Anonymous information received by Coroner Dever led to the exhumation yesterday of the body of Mrs. Edna Carter, 17 years old, and following an autopsy the arrest of Dr. H. Fancourt Miller, 3410 North Broadway, who was in attendance on the young woman at the time of her death, and Morris Carter, 701 Ponce avenue, the husband. Both are at liberty under $5000 bonds pending the outcome of an inquest tomorrow.

The autopsy was performed by Dr. Sol Frankel, a member of the Coroner's staff, who signed a statement setting forth the cause of death as "septicemia following an abortion." Septicemia is blood poisoning.

What Death Certificate Said.

According to a death certificate filled out by Dr. Miller, Mrs. Carter died of septic pneumonia, following an abcess of the appendix. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he performed an appendectomy on the young woman, Feb. 4, last, and said he also performed another operation earlier the same day.

"I admit I did that," he said, "but I deny that I operated on the young woman at my office on Feb. 2 as is charged against me. The charge is a mistake—a false accusation. My death certificate stated that the patient died from septic pneumonia resulting from the appendicitis operation. I believed and I still believe that to be the case.

"The appendicitis operation I performed was an emergency. It was done about 10 or 11 o'clock at night, at the Christian Hospital, 4511 North Newstead avenue. When the inquest in this case is continued tomorrow, the interne who assisted me in the appendectomy will be on hand to testify that the operation was performed."

"I Can't Be Known."

Mrs. Carter died Feb. 12 at the hospital and was buried last Saturday in Friedens Cemetery. Dr. Miller's death certificate was filed in regular order and was passed by the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Then, as a result of an unsigned letter to the Coroner, the exhumation was ordered. The informant stated in the communication, "I have to work for a living, and for that reason, I can't be known. I would lose my position."

At the start of the inquest yesterday, Carter, a laborer, 21 years old, testified that Dr. Miller had performed an operation on Mrs. Carter. He declined to testify, however, as to the nature of the operation, and the inquest was continued. The Carters were married four months ago, according to testimony.

Officials at the hospital declined to state whether any operations had been performed on Mrs. Carter by Dr. Miller. Coroner Dever, however, said the autopsy disclosed Mrs. Carter's appendix had been removed.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND ENGLISH; SERVES MONTH AS JUROR

Disclosure Made in Mail Fraud Trial When Cuban Prevents Verdict.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—After John Cruz, a Cuban, had spent more than a month listening to evidence as a juror in the Utah Lead trial in Federal Court and 27 hours in deliberation with his fellow jurors only to reach no verdict because he was the one dissenting voter, it was discovered yesterday that he could not understand English.

United States Attorney Tuttle then announced he was beginning an investigation of the jury situation.

The disclosure came after the jury in the trial of Charles Beadon and seven other persons charged with mail fraud in the sales of Utah lead stock had been dismissed by Federal Judge Woolsey. The jurors, because of Cruz' one dissenting vote, announced a disagreement. When Assistant United States Attorney Mintzer began to question Cruz on his reasons for holding out, Cruz called for an interpreter.

Then it was disclosed that Cruz had been called as a jury candidate "just after the Government had exhausted all its peremptory challenges and was helpless." He had, however, answered satisfactorily questions put to him in the jury box.

The juror was taken before the Federal grand jury today for questioning.

ST. LOUISAN FOUND DEAD IN AIR CHUTE AT HOTEL

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 20.—Jake C. Steinberg, 60 years old, of St. Louis, representative of the Rosen-Brandt Co. of New York, was found dead in an air chute of a hotel here today. A screen had been torn on a window in his room on the eighth floor.

Steinberg was supposed to have been killed in a fall last night. Employes of the hotel reported they heard something hit the roof of the air passage several hours before midnight.

The body was discovered by Steinberg's secretary after she had reported for duty this morning in sample rooms which he had opened at the hotel about five weeks ago.

H. C. KIRKPATRICK TELLS OF ECONOMIES

Only Extravagance 5-Cent Cigars, He Says; Paid $37,000 in Insurance Premiums.

Halley C. Kirkpatrick's only extravagance was smoking 5-cent cigars, he related in Bankruptcy Court today, when he was questioned about items amounting to $330,000 in less than five years, charged to his personal account on the books of the bankrupt Kirkpatrick Bros. investment brokerage business.

The firm, which had headquarters at 1120 Locust street, went into bankruptcy last May. Of the $330,000 charged to Halley Kirkpatrick's personal account between 1925 and the time of the bankruptcy, it appeared that $119,000 represented a "wash" transaction connected with the organization of the Kirkpatrick Finance Co., an affiliated concern. This left $211,000 unexplained.

It appeared that Kirkpatrick withdrew about $67,000 in cash, and that the rest of the amount charged against him represented his personal bills which the firm had paid, entering a charge against his personal account. He said that about $37,000 went to payment of insurance premiums.

"Where did all the money go?" Kirkpatrick was asked. "Did you lose it on the races, or poker, or the stock market, or spend it for drink?"

"I don't know anything about playing the market," Kirkpatrick replied, "I am not a drinker, and I don't play cards. My only luxury is this," and he waved an unlighted cigar, adding that it cost a nickel.

His brother, Thomas S. Kirkpatrick, left the city soon after the failure, and, according to Halley Kirkpatrick, went to Paris, then returned via the Panama Canal, and is now in Los Angeles.

CAP IDENTIFIED AS ONE WORN BY GROCER'S SLAYER

Second Hand Clothing Dealer Says Man Traded It In Day After Murder.

A cap identified as one worn by one of the three men who killed Henry Muehlenbeck during a holdup of the grocery at 701 South Broadway Feb. 5, has been given to police by Tony Heideburg, second hand clothing dealer at 711 South Fourth street.

Heideburg said a young man had traded it for a felt hat the day after the murder. It occurred to him later that the youth answered to the description of one of the men who killed Muehlenbeck, he said.

Declares St. Louis Has Nullified the Dry Law

amendment was to make people stop drinking, he argued the dry law was as nearly nullified as it applies to most of the country as were the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments in the South.

Old World Doctrine.

Williams insisted the eighteenth amendment should have been submitted to the people, holding that Congress could derive added power only from the people. Failing to do this, Williams asserted, Congress "revives the impious doctrine of the Old World that people were made for Governments and not Governments for the people."

"In the section of the country where I live," he went on, "neither the State nor national prohibition laws are observed or enforced."

He added men in that area, innocent of "any overt act" had gone to jail and that "many of our best citizens make wine and beer in their homes and purchase hard liquor from bootleggers without any consciousness of criminal guilt whatsoever."

"For the first time in human history, through prohibition," he continued, "we have financed the worst—the most desperate—the most arrogant criminal class the world has probably ever known."

He contended the criminal class favored prohibition and added that many of the best people in America also favored prohibition.

"We thus find that the best and the worst elements of our society are linked together in a political partnership for the enforcement of the Volstead and Jones acts," he said. "What an incompatible and unholy alliance! Of course, it was unintentional."

If Really Enforced.

Frederick R. Coudert Sr., New York lawyer, was the next to testify. He predicted that the Government would be overthrown at the polls or civil war would result from a "real effort to enforce prohibition."

He said if the Government made a severe effort to enforce the law by ordering the army and navy out to see that it was enforced, "you would have to make accommodations for between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 of the 120,000,000 citizens."

A direct and honest effort to enforce the law, he said, would bring about the consequences of either placing half the population in jail for liquor violations or in a civil war.

"Millions of people will no longer be treated as law breakers," he declared, arguing that there was serious unrest over the situation.

Congress Wouldn't Dare.

Congress, he continued, would not dare bring about actual enforcement because it "knows that it won't be done, cant' be done and that it is not being done."

He said prohibition had resulted in the nation losing the ground gained toward temperance before its enactment. He described it as a "fad, a notion, a religious dogma."

Coudert contended the eighteenth amendment had proved futile.

"There is no enforcement of the law, either in the State or Federal courts in New York State," he said. "As time goes on there will be less serious effort to bring about enforcement. Prohibition enforcement in New York by the Federal Government is a farce, because the people resent the spirit of the law."

Coudert said he did not think modification would effectively restore "our constitutional balance," insisting "matters of concern and sumptary personal habit" must be left to the states. He added he would regret to see the humiliation of nullification of the amendment and advocated its repeal instead.

Now and Then.

Under questioning by Representative Bachmann (Rep.), West Virginia, the witness contended there were now in New York City 10 speakeasies to one saloon before prohibition.

Ralph M. Shaw of Chicago, was the next witness. He argued prohibition laws had impeded temperance.

Before prohibition, he said, young women resented the attentions of an inebriated man, even his own fellows ostracized him if the offense was flagrant.

"But nowadays," Shaw said, "the taboo is gone. It is expected that all social engagements, where two or three are gathered together, both the adults and the young of both sexes, will have their flasks and drinking to an excess is expected, not criticised. You can buy a cocktail shaker in every notion store in the land."

Benedict Crowell of Cleveland, a former Assistant Secretary of War, then testified that the people of that Ohio city were "overwhelmingly wet."

The people believe, Crowell continued, that the evils which prohibition has brought are worse than those which brought prohibition about. Arrests for drunkenness in Cleveland, he asserted, had increased 1000 per cent since prohibition, and the police department had not changed its policy or basis of making arrests on that charge. Whereas commitments to the Correction Farm were 2949 in 1920, he said, they had increased to 10 900 in 1929 and that of these, those committed for drunkenness were 349 in 1920 and 7488 in 1929.

The report of the public health department of the city, Crowell said, deplored the dreadful condition of those who were committed to the farm. He quoted it as stating that 53 per cent of those sent there were suffering from delirium tremens.

Calls for One Party.

Dr. Samuel Harden Church of Pittsburg, president of Carnegie Institute, was called after the noon recess. He raised the contention that the Republican and Democratic parties virtually had become amalgamated into "one immense prohibition party," and said a new political party should be formed to seek repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Dr. Church said that "the situation has led to the proposal that a new political party shall be created, to be calle dthe Liberal party, which in addition to preserving and extending those economic and humane principles on which our American civilization rests, shall dedicate itself to the immediate repeal of the prohibiton amendment and all the laws that support t."

It also should dedicate itself, he said, to divorcing "the Government from every form of religious dictation; reject every law that rests upon a religious basis; seek to the dissolution of every society that aims to subordinate any portion of our citizenship because of

ROBBED BY NEGRO HE USED TO GET LIQUOR EVIDENCE

Man Who Says He Is Prohibition Agent Held Up With Own Revolver After Buying Drinks

"Perchmouth" knew all the Olive street speakeasies and Mark Weiser, who later said he was a prohibition agent, gathered evidence against several places after he met the Negro at Thirteenth and Olive streets last night and offered to buy him a drink.

Bartenders would call "Perchmouth" by name and shove two glasses across the bar without quesion when he and the white man entered. "Perchmouth" would drink his; Weiser kept his drink for evidence, he said.

In an hour they had traversed four blocks and Weiser reached into his pocket for a notebook to record evidence. The butt of his revolver protruded from a shoulder holster. "Perchmouth" seized the weapon, held him up taking $45, and ran. Weiser reported later to Lieut. Ulrich at Police Headquarters.

Giving his name first as Joe Harris, Weiser, on correcting the name on police records, said he used the fictitious name to facilitate his work. He lived at 3619 Shenandoah avenue, he said, and requested that no report be made.

Policemen arrested Eddie Brooks, 29-year-old Negro, at 1507 Chestnut street this morning, when he promptly answered to the name, "Perchmouth." The Negro, they said, readily admitted taking Weiser's revolver, explaining that he had a fondness for firearms when he drank excessively, but denied that he had taken any money from Weiser.

A warrant charging Brooks with robbery with a deadly weapon was issued at the Circuit Attorney's office today The Henry law provides a minimum sentence of 10 years for the offense.

DRY LAW IGNORED IN ST. LOUIS, HOUSE COMMITTEE HEARS

race or creed; and banish from Washington every hypocritical preacher who comes here demanding a law that shall make the morals and manners of other people as good as his own."

"When we seek to uncover the forces which oppose a constructive policy of adjustment we find there are some twenty religious organizations," Dr. Church asserted, "which have presumed to exercise dictatorial powers in the realm of law-making.

"Among these societies is the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Morals, its most influential voice that of a medieval ecclestiastic who is put forward to us as a pattern of public morals, although recently exposed as a bucketshop gambler, but pausing in his travels last week along enough to cable from Europe his instructions to amend the existing law so that every man who takes a drink shall go to prison.

"Rich Man's and Lord's Sunday."

The witness spoke of "the Lord's Day Alliance, composed of rich men who ride in their automobiles, play golf and see the moving pictures at their clubs—all on Sunday—while withholding these innocent pastimes from the masses of the people under threat of fine and imprisonment.

"Then there is the Anti-Saloon League, which advances money for the election of some of our lawmakers and bribes them by giving them fees for lectures on the temperance question. Then the Ku Klux Klan, organized to prevent the election of any Catholic, Jew or Negro to any office; and, strange as it may seem, that society has elected many men on such a principle as that and is still a powerful political force."

William L. Cheney, editor of Collier's, declared prohibition was a complete failure and that the American people had shown a great ingenuity in devising methods of providing liquor.

"Minnesota 13," he said, was the name of a whisky used in that State by the drinkers. In Colorado, he testified, Leadville corn was much in demand, while the bootleg business, he added, had helped the South Carolina farmers to dispose of their corn. Florida, he declared, probably was as wet as New York.

In Kansas raw alcohol is used, he said, to spike beer.

Advocates of repeal of the eighteenth amendment did not have an opportunity to present all of their witnesses today, but will be permitted to complete their argument next week beginning Wednesday.

Missing Since Feb. 11.

POWER DAMS AS AID TO FLOOD CONTROL

Speaker at Drainage Congress Suggests U. S. Aid Financing by Official O K.

Reservoirs as an aid to flood control were discussed at length in the opening session today of the National Drainage, Conservation and Flood Control Congress—organized as the National Drainage Congress in 1911 and incorporated under the new name in 1930—at Hotel Jefferson.

The topic has been discussed with growing interest in sections remote from the Lower Mississippi since early last fall. The Mississippi Valley Association's flood control resolution here in November pointed to reservoirs. Reservoirs mean dams, and dams of the sort indicated mean power.

As Post-Dispatch readers may recall, the planners of the $325,000,000 flood control project under way on the Mississippi below Cape Girardeau on which $50,000,000 already has been spent, and which last summer with "levees only" demonstrated effectiveness against floods of secondary importance, describe "the reservoir theory" as "an ideal one when it fits," but of primary benefit on the tributaries, although, when dams are "constructed for their own purposes they provide an additional factor of safety to the Lower Mississippi." Government surveys of tributaries for navigation, irrigation, power and flood control are being completed.

A "benevolent attitude" of Government toward power projects of aid in flood control was called for by Thomas R. Tetley, New York hydraulic engineer, who detailed plans for a hydro-electric dam on the White River at Branson, Mo., which would create a lake 65 miles long.

ACQUITTED OF LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT

William McCarthy Testified He Did Not Know His Truck Killed Man.

William McCarthy, 28-year-old chauffeur of 1600A North Seventeenth street, was found not guilty today of leaving the scene of an accident in which a man was killed. A sealed verdict was opened by Circuit Judge Calhoun. McCarthy, several weeks ago, was acquited of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the same accident.

On Sept. 24, Dan McCarthy was killed by a Columbia Terminals Co. truck in front of 2115 South Seventh street, about 7 p. m. William McCarthy was the driver of the truck. He did not stop after the accident, and was traced through the truck license. McCarthy contended that he did not know his truck had hit anyone and that he drove on only because he was unaware an accident had occurred.

The jury reached its verdict last night.

NEVADA SILVER MINE CLOSED

Tonopah Co. to Await Improvement of Market, Manager Says.

By the Associated Press.

TONOPAH, Nev., Feb. 20.—On orders from Philadelphia headquarters the Tonopah Mining Co.'s oldest mine in this district suspended operations yesterday after operating 29 years. With a capitalization of $1,000,000 the company has paid dividends totalling $16,725,000 and paid off preferred stock amounting to $380,000.

Horace A. Johnson, manager, said the suspension is temporary pending improvement of the silver market as the mine reserves are not impaired. The mill, he said, will continue to operate on custom ores. Production has averaged $90,000 a month.

Fined Because Lottery Fails.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Feb. 20.—Because an automobile she raffled failed to net any money for a sanitarium, the ostensible beneficiary, Mrs. Marion Heineman, club woman, was fined $500 for operating a lottery and ordered to pay the sanitarium the price of the machine, $568. Her husband won the car.

6 HURT IN PLANE CRASH IN FLYING HERE TO AIR SHOW

Canadian - American Air Lines Ship From St. Paul Wrecked in Clump of Trees Near St. Charles.

The pilot and five passengers were injured, one seriously, when the City of Winnipeg, monoplane of the Canadian-American Air Lines, Inc., crashed into a clump of trees at the edge of an emergency landing field, two miles southwest of St. Charles, at 7 o'clock last night.

Andrew P. Nelson, St. Paul salesman, is at St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Charles, with internal injuries and a fractured right arm. Other passengers cut and bruised, were discharged from the hospital after emergency treatment, two leaving on a bus bound for Kansas City, the others coming to St. Louis.

They were Norman G. Warsinski, Minneapolis, president of the Canadian-American Air Lines; H. D. Putnam, Minneapolis, pilot; Harry Wilcox, Minneapolis, and George E. Gere Jr. and Don Stearns, both of St. Paul.

Leaving St. Paul about noon yesterday to attend the International Aircraft Exposition here, the plane made several stops for fuel, the last at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Pilot Putnam said. Finding his gasoline low, he was attracted by a beacon indicating the emergency landing field.

Putnam circled the field, headed into a southwest wind and approached the field from the side skirted by trees. As he flew at a low altitude because of poor visibility, the right wing struck an oak tree, sending the plane to the ground nose first, its heavy engine burying itself half way into the ground.

The crash was heard by Edward Buse of St. Charles who was driving along the highway. He summoned other motorists and with their aid took the men to the hospital. Guards were placed about the plane last night to protect it from the crowd attracted to the scene.

Found Hanged in His Room.

Paul Knitzler, 65 years old, was found dead yesterday hanging from a door lintel in his room at 3709 North Broadway. The landlord told police Knitzler had been in ill health.

CAPACITY TRAFFIC ON AIRPLANE LINES AFTER CUT IN FARE

Speakers at the Show Say This Proves Fear Is Not a Factor Among Passengers.

Fare and not fear was the obstacle in the development of air traffic volume, air transport operators agreed yesterday at one of the meetings held in connection with the International Aircraft Exposition, which began its sixth day at The Arena today.

"Every line in the country that has lowered its rate is filled to capacity daily and many find it necessary to turn down from 10 to 60 passengers at each point along the route," Clarence E. Fleming, traffic representative for Southwest Air Fast Express, told the other operators. "It took our organization just two days after we cut the rate to 5 cents a mile to realize why we had not been filling our ships previously."

Other transport representatives agreed with Fleming, but they also were unanimous in stating that the present low rate, which in general approximates rail fare plus Pullman, cannot be continued if the operators ever expect to show a profit. Careful consideration will be given to a new rate, which will still be attractive to the public and at the same time provide a profit. The operators also agreed that it would be profitable to develop air express.

Gasoline Tax a Burden.

State gasoline taxes in 19 states were declared "prejudicial to the best interests of the development of the air transport industry," by the operators. Companies operating in states which tax aviation gasoline were requested to take whatever steps seem advisable to bring about a revision of present laws.

The committee on aeronautical education recommended a general one-term aeronautical course for academic high schools, to be given as an elective course, and the building of models and the combining of certain aeronautical subjects in established courses, such as physics, mathematics and economics, in junior high schools. Instructural material for the elective course in academic high schools should include types of aircraft, regulations, flight records, operating facilities and similar matter, the educators agreed. The committee report also stated that the aeronautical courses now offered in colleges and universities are beneficial and that additional information should be made available to university students through the assistance of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

Attendance at the air show yesterday totaled 14,000 persons. On the four previous days about 80,000 persons viewed the exhibits.

Maj. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, arrived yesterday afternoon and attended the joint banquet of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers last night.

Walter E. Schmidt-Rex, passenger traffic manager for the Deutsche Luft Hansa, also arrived for a conference with transport operators. Schmidt-Rex is in the United States to interest American tourists in air travel when they visit Europe.

Two afternoon flying events in Forest Park were scheduled in connection with the show—a parachute jump from an altitude of about 20,000 feet by J. J. Dunkle, Cleveland expert, and an effort to establish a record for loops for women pilots by Miss Mildred Kauffman of Kansas City, Mo. Approval for Dunkle's proposed jump was given by the Aeronautical Chamber because of his known ability.

Chamberlin Delayed.

Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, who left New York yesterday in a Baby Crescent, a small monoplane, intending to arrive here last night, was forced to stop at Indianapolis, being held back by strong head winds.

Herbert Fahy, test pilot for the Lockheed-Vega Co., Los Angeles, Cal., and his wife, Claire, who are attending the show, announced plans for a round-the-world flight to start from Detroit about June 1. Mrs. Fahy is also a pilot and will assist her husband at the controls of a special Lock-heed-Vega plane. Fahy hopes to circle the globe in about 12 days, as compared with 21 days required by the Graf Zeppelin.

A "flivver" plane made in Cincinnati was flown over Forest Park yesterday in an economy test, staying up one hour and 17 minutes on two gallons of gasoline. The ship has a two-cylinder, 30-horsepower engine.

Executives attending the show and associated meetings will be the guests of the Industrial Club of St. Louis at a banquet at Hotel Chase tonight. Maj. John Berry, manager of the Cleveland Municipal Airport, will be the principal speaker. Local speakers will be Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Harold M. Bixby, Maj. Albert Bond Lambert and Stanley Clarke, chairman of the Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce.

Earl J. Smith, assistant to the president of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, spoke on "Aircraft for Business Uses" at a luncheon of the Kiwanis Club in Hotel Jefferson today.

NEWARK-BUENOS AIRES FLIGHT IN SIX DAYS

Actual Flying Time for 6700-Mile Trip Is 52 Hours, 15 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 20.—Establishing a new record of approximately six days between Newark, N. J., and Buenos Aires, Lieut. Clement McMullen and Will White arrived here at 3:04 p. m. yesterday. Their trip started from Newark last Friday.

The aviators said they were convinced that their flight had proved the feasibility of rapid mail communication between the two continents and that it would have an important effect on future development of air traffic.

In the trip from Newark to Buenos Aires the men covered 6700 miles in an actual flying time of 52 hours and 15 minutes. This gave an average rate of speed of more than 128 miles an hour.

They said that their Lockheed plane, which was powered with a Pratt-Whitney Wasp motor that had been credited with 450 hours of flying time before the flight started, behaved perfectly all the way.

There was an enthusiastic reception for the Americans when they ended their trip at the Argentine army flying field, El Palomar. Besides aviation officials of this country, they were met by John C. White, Charge d'Affaires of the American embassy; Capt. Edmond C. Fleming, American military attache, and Lieutenant-Colonel Antonio Aguilar, the Mexican military attache.

Officers attached to the El Palomar Field escorted them to the mess hall, where toasts to the aviators were drunk in champagne. The formal welcome was voiced by Capt. Victoriano Martinez Delegria.

MUSCLE SHOALS BIDDER PAID FOR FARM PROPAGANDA

ASSERTS FEDERATION AUTHORIZED ACTION

Witness Failed to Give This Testimony Before Senate Agricultural Committee Two Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, testified today before the Senate Lobby Committee that the American Cyanamid Co. had paid for distributing publicity prepared by him in regard to Muscle Shoals legislation.

Previously Gray had testified that he had been authorized by the federation to advocate the proposal of the Cyanamid company to lease the power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals.

Explaining the arrangement, he told the committee the publicity referred to was handled more than two years ago by the National Agricultural Co. He added that he did not know what it cost until W. B. Bell, president of the Cyanamid company, testified recently before the House Military Affairs Committee, that the expense was $1000.

The publicity, he testified, advocated the Cyanamid company proposal.

Explains His Duties.

Chairman Caraway asked Gray why he had declined to answer certain questions before the Senate Agriculture Committee two years ago. Caraway continued that Gray had testified that he had paid the $7000 for publicity while Bell said later before the House committee that he had paid for it. Gray responded that he did not think he had testified as quoted by Caraway. He added he had declined to answer the questions two years ago because they related to publicity not handled by himself.

Gray said his duties consisted of attempting to get bills passed in Congress which the Federal advocated and in attempting to defeat other bills. In addition, he said he attended to Federation business before the Agriculture, Commerce War and Interior departments.

The policies of the Federation, he explained, were determined by the approximately 1,000,000 members, acting through the board of directors and the Legislative Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—One or more members of the Senate Lobby Committee will be sent to Tennessee to take the testimony of J. W. Worthington, executive secretary of the Tennessee River Improvement Association unless Worthington's health improves sufficiently to permit him to testify here concerning his activity in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation. The committee also is eager to examine Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman, as soon as possible.

The committee wants to question Worthington concerning a memorandum disclosed yesterday, indicating that President Hoover, when Secretary of Commerce, tried to bring opposing private interests into agreement regarding disposition of the power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals.

Huston Headed Agency.

The hearings have shown that the Tennessee River Improvement Association is a lobbying and propaganda agency, formed and financed to keep Muscle Shoals out of Government operation. Prior to his election as Republican national chairman last year. Huston was president of the association, and circularized members of Congress in behalf of the Madden-Wright bill, under which the Government would turn Muscle Shoals over to the American Cyanamid Co., an electro-chemical manufacturing corporation.

Examination of Worthington's records has disclosed that the private interests opposed to Government operation of the Shoals plant were handicapped in their campaign by dissension among themselves as to which would get the property if the Government decided to give it up. Accordingly, efforts were made to persuade the power companies, especially the Alabama Power Co., to agree that the Cyanamid Co. should have the plant, allowing the power interests t odevelop a plant at Aurora dam.

The committee wants to question Worthington concerning a memorandum disclosed yesterday, indicating that President Hoover, when Secretary of Commerce, tried to bring opposing private interests into agreement regarding disposition of the power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals.

Huston Headed Agency.

The hearings have shown that the Tennessee River Improvement Association is a lobbying and propaganda agency, formed and financed to keep Muscle Shoals out of Government operation. Prior to his election as Republican national chairman last year. Huston was president of the association, and circularized members of Congress in behalf of the Madden-Wright bill, under which the Government would turn Muscle Shoals over to the American Cyanamid Co., an electro-chemical manufacturing corporation.

Examination of Worthington's records has disclosed that the private interests opposed to Government operation of the Shoals plant were handicapped in their campaign by dissension among themselves as to which would get the property if the Government decided to give it up. Accordingly, efforts were made to persuade the power companies, especially the Alabama Power Co., to agree that the Cyanamid Co. should have the plant, allowing the power interests to develop a plant at Aurora dam.

Memorandum Found.

Yesterday the Senate Committee found a confidential memorandum addressed to Huston by Worthington, and dated July 25, 1927. It should be explained that the Mr. Bell mentioned in the memorandum is president of the Cyanimid Co., and that John H. Bankhead is a Democratic candidate for Senator from Alabama. The memorandum was as follows:

"Perhaps I had better explain a little more in detail to you that I told Mr. John H. Bankhead that you and I in the fall of 1925 did our utmost to bring the power and chemical groups together, and we made a dismal failure, and I further explained to him that Mr. Hoover attempted to do so later, and that Mr. Hoover even undertook to bring these interests together through Mr. Owen D. Young and failed.

"With the advantage of Mr. Bell's absence, I hope to get Bankhead to really find out from the Alabama Power Co. what they will, under pressure, finally agree to. In other words, we will disclose through the Bankhead connection every possible phase of the case as far as the power companies will show their hands. More about this when I see you."

Note on Aurora Dam Project.

Subsequently, in 1929, there was an interesting memorandum from Worthington to Huston, relating to the Aurora dam project, and outlining the steps that were necessary to finance it. It appeared that the bankers to whom application had been made, insisted that before they would finance the Aurora dam project they must be assured that the Government would not operate Muscle Shoals, since in the latter event there would be competition between the privately owned and the Government operated plants.

Worthington wrote Huston to "remember that the bankers say they cannot go forward with the financing unless F. J.—" and named a number of conditions to be met, one of which was that Muscle Shoals must be devoted to electro-chemical manufacturing rather than to the generation and sale of power, since that would bring it into competition with the projected plant at Aurora dam. The memorandum concluded with the following suggestion from Worthington to Huston:

"If you find it advisable, I wish you would say to the President that I would be glad to discuss the engineering problems on the Tennessee River immediately before him, and I would like to do so in the interest and the great success in the South of his administration."

NECKLACE OF 4000 RUBIES FOUND IN EGYPTIAN TOMB

These Were Mounted in Gold; Drawing on Wall Shows Family Mourning for Dead King.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 20.—Further finds in the ancient tomb discovered recently near the Sphinx were made known yesterday. Archeologists were quoted as expressing the belief that the chief prize was a large gold vase containing flowers fashioned from gold. This vase is thought to have adorned the dining room of the High Priest Rawer.

A number of additional necklaces have been found. One is composed of 4000 rubies mounted in a magnificent gold chain. It probably belonged to the mother of Rawer.

These valuable objects were discovered in niches reserved for statues of the dead. More than 20 of these niches have been found, one of them containing a statue of Rawer surrounded by alabaster vases which probably contained natural flowers when he was buried.

National City Bank to Merge With Franklin-American Trust

Latter to Pay $1,500,000 for Assets, Directors Agree—$46,000,000 Resources Make Its Fourth Largest Depository.

Acquisition of the National City Bank by the Franklin-American Trust Co. for approximately $1,500,000 was approved by the directorates of both banks yesterday and will be submitted to the stockholders for ratification.

The National City Bank will be merged with the Franklin-American Trust Co. under the latter's name. Headquarters will remain at the southwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets and the National City building, adjoining on the west, will be remodeled to house some departments.

The merger plan provides for an increase in the capitalization of the trust company from the present 20,000 shares to 26,000. Of the new shares, 5000 will be used to acquire the National City Bank business, and 1000 to pay for the recently acquired business and certain assets of the Real Estate Mortgage Trust Co.

The shares are quoted on the St. Louis Stock Exchange at around $300, giving a market value of $1,500,000 to the 5000 shares. Par value is $100 a share.

The National City Bank has capitalization of 10,000 shares, $100 par, and under the plan one share of Franklin-American will be offered in exchange for each two shares of National City.

The merger will strengthen the trust company's position as St. Louis' fourth largest bank, with resources in excess of $46,000,000, an addition of approximately $15,000,000. Capitalization will be $2,600,000, and surplus and undivided profits approximately $2,000,000.

The Franklin-American Trust Co. was organized in April, 1938, through a merger of the Franklin Bank and the American Trust Co., the Franklin Bank moving from its quarters at Broadway and Washington avenue to Seventh and Locust. The National City Bank was organized eight years ago by its president, B. F. Edwards, and moved to its present building two years ago.

Senior officers of the trust company are: James L. Ford Jr., president; C. L. Sager, first vice president; John H. Sills and Benjamin S. Lang, vice presidents. They will retain their positions. President Edwards of the National City Bank will become chairman of the Executive Committee of the trust company. E. A. Schmid, vice president, and other officers of the bank also will become associated with the trust company, and it is announced the entire staff of employes of the National City will be taken over. The actual merger is expected to take place in 60 to 90 days, as soon as details can be arranged.

STIMSON A BUSH LEAGUER, SAYS DUDLEY FIELD MALONE

Lawyer Home With Bride, Asserts U. S. Will Get Nothing at London Parley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Dudley Field Malone and his bride, the fromer Edna Louise Johnson, who became Mrs. Malone the third in London, Jan. 29, arrived here yesterday to visit Mrs. Malone's mother, who is seriously ill.

Malone commended on the naval limitation conference in London.

"The specific results that the United States will get," he said, "probably will be what she usually gets—nothing. The two great men of the conference are Ramsey MacDonald and Tardieu. Stimson is showing poorly. He has no imagination and no European experience. He is like a bush leaguer batting in the big leagues. Mr. Stimson, for one thing, handles the press very poorly. He is one of the few men I know who can strut sitting down. Our best men there are Senator Robinson and Dwight Morrow. It is too bad that a man like Morrow could not be head of our delegation."

INQUIRY INTO INTRA-STATE COAL RATES FIXED BY ILLINOIS

U. S. Commerce Body to Look Into Status of Interstate Traffic.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—An inquiry into the legality of rates fixed by the Illinois Commerce Commission for the intrastate transportation of coal mined in the state to determine if there is discrimination against interstate traffic was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The order for the investigation resulted from a complaint by all railroads hauling coal in the State that requirements of the Illinois Oil Commission had compelled them to establish intrastate rates preferential to shippers within the State as contrasted to those outside of Illinois.

HEAD OF SHIPPING BOARD ASKS THAT HE BE REPLACED

Chairman O'Connor Gives Health as Reason for Request; Would Retain Membership.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board today requested President Hoover to replace him as head of that Government agency, but said he would retain his membership on the board.

O'Connor said his health made it necessary for him to be relieved of the chairmanship.

ITALY AGAINST CUSTOMS TRUCE

Attacks Proposed Trade Treaties at League Conference.

GENEVA, Feb. 20.—Italy outspokenly attacked the entire framework of the proposed European customs truce at yesterday's session of the League conference at which 30 nations are seeking means to tear down barriers to international trade.

Giuseppe Bottai, Italian Ministre of Economy, said that the proposed multilateral treaties undermined traditional two-side commercial agreement between nations, abrogation of which would prove extremely dangerous and would create serious economic disturbances in many countries.

PRESIDENT'S SON ASSERTS RADIO IS VITAL TO AVIATION

Herbert Hoover, Jr., Declares It Is Becoming As Essential for Planes as for Ships at Sea.

ENGINEER DISCUSSES TECHNICAL POINTS

Describes Elimination of Motor Ignition Interference, in Address at Aeronautic Meeting.

Radio equipment on transport airplanes will be required by the Government within a short time, Herbert Hoover Jr., radio engineer for Western Air Express and son of the President, predicted today in a discussion of radio in air transport operation before the national aeronautic meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The sessions, held in conjunction with those of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, will close tonight.

Speaking as a radio engineer, Hoover said the use of radio is essential to safe flying and that its efficiency depends finally upon the work of engine and airplane manufacturers in eliminating ignition interference.

"Radio is rapidly becoming as vital to the pilots and operators of transport airplanes as it is to the captains of ships at sea," Hoover said, "and it is essential to the continued success of air transportation, not only from the standpoint of general operations but as a matter of public policy."

He outlined the present radio facilities for aeronautics, describing the ground stations of the Airways Division of the Department of Commerce and the service afforded by the Weather Bureau.

Enables Pilot to Hold Course.

Voice broadcasting is used in the transmission of weather information, he said, while code letters, blending into a long dash, aid the pilot to stay on the charted airways.

"But transport companies need something more," Hoover asserted, "for they require reliable two-way communication with their pilots at all times. Position and progress of planes must be followed continuously. Special messages may be necessary at any moment and in case of emergencies or forced landings, calls for assistance are vitally necessary. The Department of Commerce stations obviously will not be ably to carry this additional load of communication and still perform their major function of broadcasting information and transmitting beacon signals. This means that a second network of ground stations is necessary. This problem is entirely a function of the transport companies."

Discussing some of the difficulties of radio communication between planes and land stations, Hoover said that "skip" effects at night disrupt the wave lengths. Good daylight communication can be obtained for 150 miles or more, he said.

Wave Length Shift Troublesome.

"In order to obtain continuous communication it appears to be necessary to make a shift in wave length from one band to the other, in the morning and again in the evening," he explained. "This would be simple if ground stations alone were involved, but it presents greater difficulty when planes are in flight. Either the plane must stop at an airport and take on a new transmitter and receiver or else switching devices must be incorporated to allow the desired change during normal flight. Both methods have their complications."

Fixed antennas on planes, strung usually between the fuselage and wings, are safer and better than the trailing wire antenna, he said. He discussed technical details concerning power units and other radio apparatus and stressed the need of a solid type of harness to replace the braided wire sheath enclosing the high tension wires from the magnetos to the plugs in airplane engines.

Each spark plug in the engine is a miniature radio transmitting station, he said, and a great deal of interference is occasioned, much of which can be avoided. He gave details of methods for reducing engine interference.

"The manufacturers of radio equipment, the Department of Commerce, and the transport operators are doing everything in their power to make flying safer and more reliable by employing all known means of radio communication and navigation," Hoover asserted, "and the one thing that is holding up progress at the present time is shielding against ignition interference. The responsibility for the future rests almost entirely with the manufacturers of engines and airplanes."

RADICAL SOCIALIST CHOSEN TO FORM FRENCH CABINET

MANY DIFFICULTIES FOR HIM PREDICTED

Political Observers Say He Has Little Chance to Get Ministry — Predecessor Refuses to Take Post.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Camille Chautemps, president of the Radical Socialist party, was called on today by President Doumergue to form a new Government, replacing the Tardieu Ministry, which resigned Monday.

Chautemps at once began consultations with his supporters and leaders of other groups in search of a Cabinet combination which would give him a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

The Cabinet crisis seemed as far from solution as ever. Political observers said Chautemps had only a small chance to form a new government.

Doumergue, however, had virtually no alternative to Chautemps' selection. Andre Tardieu, retiring Premier, was said to have asked to be allowed to stand aside for the present. Many reasons were given for his request, principal among them being a desire for rest after his illness and an exhausting three months as Prime Minister.

Tardieu was the first one Chautemps asked to take a portfolio in the new Cabinet, so he could remain at the head of the French delegation at the London naval conference. Tardieu late today definitely refused to accept a post.

Shortly after announcing Tardieu's attitude, Chautemps said Aristide Briand, veteran Foreign Minister, had accepted the portfolio of Foreign Affairs. It was this acceptance by Briand which induced him to continue in his efforts to form a cabinet.

Chautemps is confronted with serious difficulties, especially withing his own party. The radical socialists, despite their name are further to the right than the socialists.

The division of the radical socialists was brought out at a meeting of the executive meeting last night. One section favored an all-left Cabinet with the support of the socialists, if that collaboration could be obtained. This group rejected the proposal of the other section for a ministry based on all groups, running as far to the right as possible.

Apart from this several central groups upon which Chautemps would have to count in case of "concentration" already have declared themselves against him. The prospects are that Chautemps will be unable to form a Cabinet.

Chautemps failing, recourse may be taken to Senator Clementel or some other Senator of the same political creed. In any event it appeared that whatever ministry is formed its existence will be precarious and will depend almost entirely on the skill and personality of its chief.

Millionaire Peer and Third Bride

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER.

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER WEDS FOR THIRD TIME

Wealthy Peer Gives Tenants Week's Rent Free and Cancels Arrears.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The Duke of Westminster today married Miss Loella Ponsonby, daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, treasurer to the King, at Prince's Row Registry Office.

Because of the many guests, among whom were Winston Churchill and his daughter, the ceremony was held in the board room, which was decorated with flowers The bride was accompanied by her father.

A great crowd waited outside the registry office during the ceremony, many being tenants from the Westminster District of London who had come to show their appreciation of the Duke's gift to them, a week's rent free and the cancellation of all payments in arrears, in honor of his wedding.

A reception at St. James's Palace followed the wedding. Meanwhile steam was up in the Duke's yacht, Cutty Sark, anchored in the Thames, ready for the honeymoon to the Mediterranean.

The Duke of Westminster is 50 years old, and an extensive property owner in Cheshire, Flintshire, and London, and in Scotland. He made a distinguished record in the South African and World Wars. His first marriage, to Constance Edwina in 1901, was dissolved in 1919. His second marriage, in 1920 to Violet Mary Geraldine Rowley, was dissolved in 1926. He is the second Duke of his name.

One of Wealthiest Peers in England: Income $5000 a Day.

With an estimated income of $5000 a day, the Duke of Westminster is reputedly one of the wealthiest peers in England. He allows his two former Duchesses incomes of $50,000 a year.

He never entrusts his more important personal letters to the mails. These he invariably dispatches by footman. It does not matter whether the recipient is in Scotland or the Duke abroad. The Duke merely ends a telegram stating that his messenger will call at such and such a time with a letter. He has little liking for ceremonials. It is only on rare occasions that he is seen in full evening dress. He prefers to wear the dinner jacket. He sticks to the old-fashioned satin roll collar.

Each of the Duke's three wives has been partly or wholly of Irish blood.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The American naval delegation held a secret meeting in the conference room of the Ritz Hotel this afternoon. Every attempt was made to withhold information on the meeting, even to the fact that it was held. A press announcement at headquarters simply stated that Mr. Stimson was in his office and was understood to be clearing his desk for the week-end.

At 4 p. m. Secretary Stimson and Senator Reed walked to the House of Commons for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The naval conference today stood in adjournment till next Wednesday to await the formation of a new French Cabinet. All official activity, except work by the Experts' Committee in listing ships by categories, will necessaarily be suspended till France sends delegates to resume the conversations abruptly broken off by the fall of the Tardieu Cabinet.

America's delegates welcome the breathing spell in the negotiations, which, with the production of the high French tonnage figures, had reached a tense stage. While this development had not been unexpected, the situation was in danger of becoming embittered by the hostile reaction of the British press to the French demands and the consequent anti-British expressions in the French newspapers. LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Helium Co.'s Explanation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

RECENTLY the Post-Dispatch commented editorially on the helium situation, praising the Bureau of Mines and condemning the Navy and the Helium Co. It is very apparent that the Post-Dispatch had only the Bureau of Mines' argument as its guide in preparing the editorial.

To be sure the Government's expensive plant should not be shut down, if by doing so the Government would increase the price of helium to itself. Unless, of course, it is deemed advisable from the standpoint of national defense to conserve the helium-bearing gas that has already been bought and paid for by the Government.

As a matter of fact the so-called Government cost is simply the transfer price and not the whole Government cost. This transfer price does not include interest on invested capital, depreciation on plant, and depletion of the gas wells and gas pool. It does not even include normal upkeep costs, because the Amarillo plant is so new that no maintenance or replacement has yet been required. The Government's real cost today is in excess of $46 per thousand cubic feet, and if this total cost is compared with our selling price to the Navy of $34 per thousand cubic feet, the extravagance of Government operation becomes apparent.

No private industrial concern can compete with a Government bureau which is engaged in a similar manufacturing enterprise with the unlimited resources of the United States Government behind it and no accounting required of capital invested and used up. We are unable to match our selling price, which includes a fair profit, against their interdepartmental bookkeeping, which is only a partial cost to them. On any common basis of comparison our showing will be most favorable.

The Government has been in the helium business since 1917. They have spent more than a million dollars each year on helium procurement during all this time, and the average quantity of helium they have produced is about four million cubic feet per year. This is an average over-all cost of $250 per thousand cubic feet. The transfer price has never exceeded $50 and today it is less than $15.

Members of Congress seem to have got the impression that the Fort Worth project was just an experimental venture, even though it cost $12,000,000, and that now the Government has settled down to economical production in the new Amarillo project, which has already cost $2,200,000, and which will cost from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 more for additional wells, pipe lines and equipment. There are at present only three producing wells on the entire 37,000 acres included in the Government reservation. The impression has been created in the minds of members of Congress that now the Government has tapped a never-failing helium supply that will cost nothing to get except the small cost of processing the gas. The facts are that the Government has just begun to spend money at Amarillo and they will probably continue to spend money and at the average rate of $1,000,000 a year just as they did at Fort Worth during the entire life of this Amarillo project.

Economic Results of Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment has published some very fantastic figures to prove that this country has lost $936,000,000 per year on account of prohibition.

Of course, few persons believe that these figures bear any relation to the facts. None the less, let's suppose that they are true. Even then the United States has made a mighty good bargain. A number of the economists, including the most outstanding scientific men of the nation, have estimated that the United States has saved from five to seven billion dollars per year through prohibition.

If the loss which the association estimates be admitted, and the lowest estimate of saving submitted by any recognized economist used, namely five billion dollars, the result would be a net profit of more than 500 per cent per year.

That isn't so bad, is it?

"Bostonizing St. Louis."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial on "Bostonizing St. Louis" meets with my approval. By all means make the theaters put on nice, lady-like pictures and then censor their ads! Make them put nice, lady-like ads in the paper, just mere announcements set in faintest type, so that only a few will be led astray and venture in to see these bold and naughty plays!

The people who love most to attend shocking shows are good men and women who never dare to do anything unconventional, but who secretly would love to. And I think it's high time we were stopping their fun. I think an anti-coffee and tea society should be started at once, and everything that's interesting should be stopped.

ANXIOUS.

MANUFACTURING CRIME.

At a time when our own Congress is authorizing two new Federal prisons; when many of the states, led by New York with a $34,000,000 program, are expanding their prison capacity; when prison riots testify to overcrowding, and when crime is so prevalent that a commission appointed by the President is considering what can be done about it, prisoners have declined 70 per cent in 16 years in Great Britain and 27 prisons have been closed.

What could better prove that we are manufacturing crime upon a wholesale scale, or what could more graphically illustrate the truth that instead of so many solemn considerations of what we can do with the consequences of crime we should be trying to abate its causes? The British are never too stiff-necked to learn from us. When they find our industrialism surpassing their own, they send over a delegation of observers with a view to availing themselves of what we have learned. When British labor finds that our workmen are better paid than British workmen, that their hours are shorter and their output greater, it too, sends observers over to profit by our experience.

An equal wisdom upon our part, and a like willingness to learn from the experience of others, would speedily dispatch to England a commission of observers in the field of crime. The report of that commission would revolutionize the crime survey now going on at Washington. Instead of seeking ways in which to relieve the congestion of the Federal courts, and instead of jeopardizing that right of trial by jury guaranteed the people by the Constitution, the experts who are studying this problem for Mr. Hoover would be telling us why crime is increasing in the United States while it is declining in Britain.

Crime is increasing in the United States because of sumptuary laws which seek to regulate the lives of the people and because of laws which, like the anti-narcotic act, make a bad matter worse. We are running at full blast the greatest crime factory that man has ever devised. Crime is decreasing in England because the experience of that older Government restrains it from making crimes of what are not crimes and from attempting by the strictures of law to make felonies of the tastes, habits and frailties of men.

Britain has fortunately done with that spasm of intolerance which grips the United States. Only the bitter school of experience has possessed her of that wisdom which in 16 years has closed 27 prisons. Philip Gibbs reminds us that "under the four Georges England was brutalized by frightful penal laws, Nelson won his victories by the aid of the press gang, Wellington fought Napoleon with soldiers who were flogged unmercifully for trivial offenses." Even in Victoria's reign "boys and girls who had stolen a few potatoes or smashed a threshing machine, Irish rebels, pickpockets and poachers, were sentenced to transportation for life and died like flies in the prisons and hulks." All the prototypes of our prison riots, our overcrowded penitentiaries, our congested courts, and our man-made crimes, were one-time England's.

And what has been the effect upon England? Mr. Gibbs tells us in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post about the England of today:

> A great deal of the old squalor has been removed from English life. Apart from overcrowding, still frightful in certain areas of London and great cities and small villages, the life of the laboring classes and all small wage earners has been lifted up amazingly. There is nothing like so much of that wretchedness, that ghastly, ragged, hopeless misery which used to disgrace the East End of London and the poorer districts. In streets where, before the war, one saw the derelicts of civilization and the tatterdemalions of the slums, one now sees troops of young girls in silk stockings and good frocks, and legions of young men smartly dressed. Their manners have changed. They have a different outlook on life. Drunkenness, which was due to horrible conditions of life and no chance of decent recreation, has largely disappeared.

What a lesson to ourselves!

BEWARE, DR. NUNN!

This is Dr. Nunn's first year as weather forecaster in St. Louis, and we know he will not resent being told something about the blandishments of the present season.

Yesterday the temperature mounted to 76. There was a caress in the southern wind, a tonic in the smiling sun. No doubt the famous Shrewsbury robin woke the morn, and perhaps a crocus thrust its golden head through the mold in Forest Park. It was a day arrayed in the bright livery of spring; but beware, Dr. Nunn!

This is only our mock spring, as false as it is lovely, as perilous as it is bewitching. Its bitter fruit is the mock orange, and its design is to blight the unwary bud. How many times have we seen its ruse successful, its fell purpose fulfilled in the blizzard of an arctic March!

Stop it, Dr. Nunn!

REDUCING THE ILLITERACY TOTAL.

Dull statistics about illiteracy took on color and meaning last fall when President Hoover, after an interview with an untutored mountain youth at his Rapidan camp, set on foot a movement that has now resulted in the opening of a school in that district. The incident called attention to a large problem in the development of our country. We learned that of every 100 Americans, aged 10 or older, six were illiterate. If we accept ability to read and write as one of the criteria of civilization, then this country must admit the superiority of England, Wales, Scotland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Scandinavian countries and Switzerland, which have lower rates of illiteracy.

The movement to extend the rudiments of education among our people has received another impetus in the first efforts of the Advisory Committee on National Illiteracy, headed by Secretary Wilbur. This group has as its immediate goal reduction of the illiteracy percentage in the forthcoming census to a figure as far as possible below the showing of the 1920 enumeration. Several Southern states are co-operating by a campaign to teach illiterate adults to write their names, to be followed by general instruction. The Census Bureau has been asked to supply the names and addresses of illiterates over the country, and to give other essential facts and figures, which, according to Mr. Wilbur, have never been compiled.

Missouri is intimately concerned in this campaign, for it has 83,403 illiterates, a number greater than the combined total for seven other states: Colorado, Iowa, Oregon, South Dakota, Vermont, Utah and Wyoming. The 1920 census showed 2 per cent of the State's native white citizens, 9.6 per cent of its foreign-born and 12.1 per cent of its Negroes were illiterate. Since 36,063 of Missouri's illiterates are under 44 years of age, it is evident the State can improve its standard of citizenship for generations to come by educating this neglected sector of its population. With literacy come demands for better living conditions, improvements in health standards and greater earning ability. The illiterate is both a national and a state problem.

KAROLYI SPEAKS HIS MIND.

It is well that Count Karolyi is permitted to speak his mind in America. The ogre conjured up by former Secretary Kellogg vanishes when he speaks. He did not stir a pulse here with his now obsolete program of Socialism, which is dead as a door nail in America and apparently dying in Europe. The Socialist political parties there are shadows of Marxism. Even in Vienna, where the Socialists rule, the farthest they have gone is to erect excellent tenement houses for workingmen.

The Count evidently does not know that Socialism is dying. He doesn't realize that it is being eaten up by its fiercer cousin, Communism. The economic and political conflict now going on in the civilized world is not between Socialism and capitalism but between communism and capitalism. Lenin, not Marx, is the apostle of the revolutionary forces. Fascism, which Karolyi justly criticises, grows out of communism. It is the reaction from the red terror, the dictatorship of the proletariat, exemplified by Russia. The despotism of the Russian Soviet is bloodier and more devastating than Fascism.

Count Karolyi's brief rule as President of Hungary was only a prelude, a stepping stone, to the Bolshevik regime of Bela Kun. He followed Karolyi and his destructive rule was the cause of the revolt of the conservative Hungarians under the leadership of Horthy against Bolshevism. They rid the country of communistic rule to save it from chaos. It must be admitted that the Horthy dictatorship is mild compared with that of Mussolini in Italy or even De Rivera in Spain. He holds office as the regent of an exiled King, and Parliament functions under the Hungarian Constitution. We hold no brief for the Horthy regime, but it has the co-operation of liberals and many beneficial reforms have been accomplished. The country, despite its limited resources, has been put on its feet financially and economically.

Count Karolyi's theory is not so dangerous in itself because it is impractical. It runs counter to sound logic and to all the experience of mankind. But it is dangerous in its tendency, in the direction in which it leads. He has a vision of a United States of Socialist Europe as the only way to peace. It is a long road and the journey's end is doubtful. He is a bleating lamb in a wilderness of wolves. We are inclined to believe that if he had his way he and his followers would fall into the maw of the Russian wolf.

As a Socialist Karolyi is a critic of existing conditions. That is the principal function of the Socialist. It is easy to find defects in capitalism and its workings here and in Europe, but no better system has yet been either demonstrated or formulated.

The Count in this city indulged in criticism and vague visions, but gave nothing constructive which appeals to reasonable minds. His great personal sacrifice for his cause seems futile. He is now lecturing for a living.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF SCENTS.

We congratulate President E. R. Kinsey of the Board of Public Service on a profound contribution to science.

"I think," said he, when asked about the effect of the Hog Haven odors on public sensibilities, "it is largely psychological. It depends on what one thinks after he smells." There you have it! Is the next-door neighbor letting the cabbage boil dry? Sniff-sniff! Ah—verbenas! Are the liver and onions scorched a bit? Sniff-sniff again and, ah—heliotrope!

SCHOLASTIC RECORDS OF ATHLETES.

What the "Baneful A A A," as discussed by Dr. Heller elsewhere on this page, does to the scholastic record of student-athletes is a frequent subject of educational research. The latest report, by Dean Hawkes of Columbia, shows that the university's athletes made grades averaging only 4 per cent below those of the other students. This small variation is virtually the same as those quoted by the Carnegie Foundation from other schools, and dismissed by that body as of slight statistical significance.

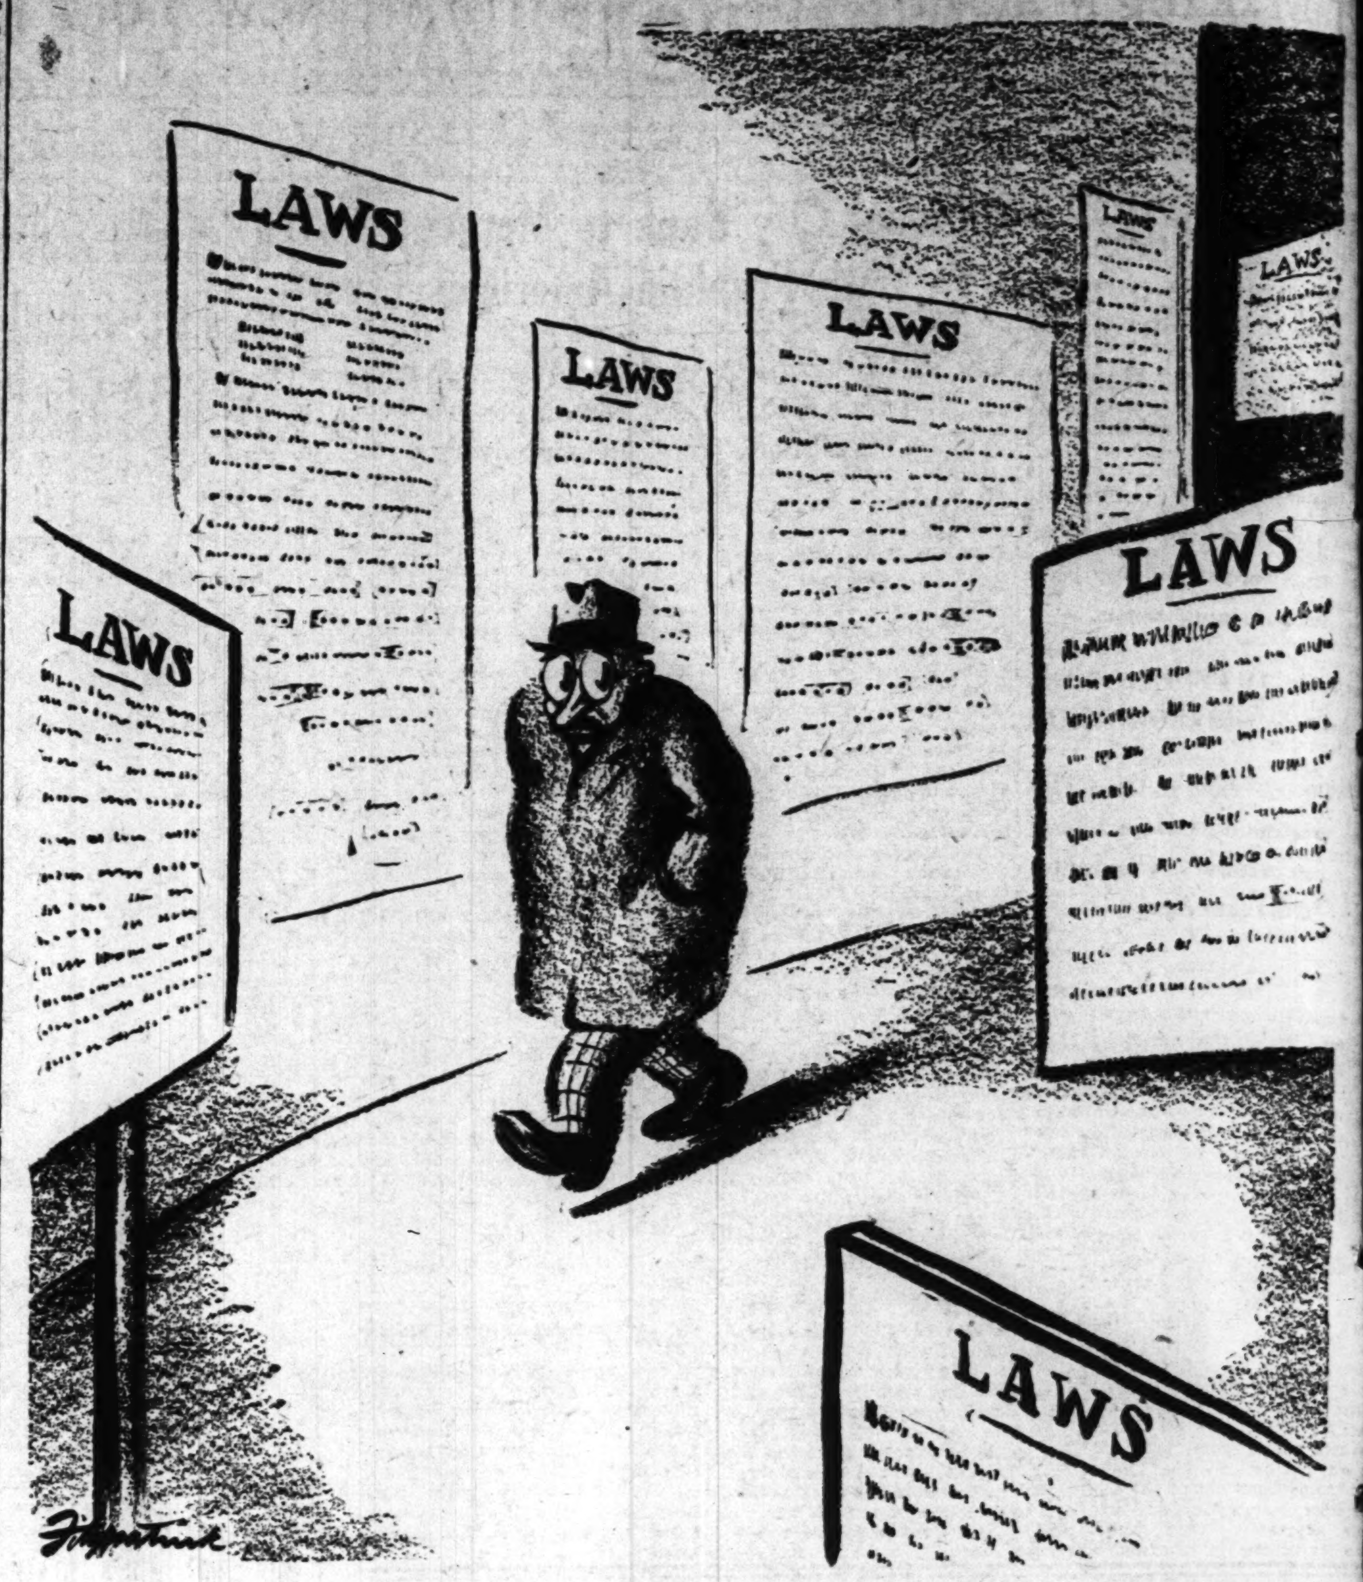
However, creditable as are athletes' average grades under the circumstances, the Foundation thinks, on the basis of intelligence tests, that they should be much better. Possessing a sound body, that proverbial auxiliary to a sound mind, students of athletic type should surpass others, intelligence tests have shown. A group of Pennsylvania colleges found athletes averaged 636.37 points in native ability while the Statewide average for all students was 568.9, an advantage of 67.47 points for the athletes.

Why does not this mental superiority show up in college grades? Simply because of the "Baneful A A A." Football is the most commercialized and most strenuous sport on the college calendar, and gridiron men, in all surveys, make the lowest grades. In the Columbia report the varsity squad was 8.5 per cent below par, and the freshman squad was 14.5 points below. The best grades for athletes are made by men in sports which have to some extent escaped the ballyhoo; namely, swimming, rowing, wrestling and track. For the others, the time spent in practice, the glare of the spotlight, the fatigue of contests and the injuries reduce the intellectual value of college even more than can be judged by class marks.

NOTE ON HERO WORSHIP.

Some industrious chap should bring down to date Thomas Carlyle's book on hero worship. In this new edition should be a list of the curious manifestations of this human trait. It would include, of course, an account of what happened in Los Angeles when Calvin Coolidge, out for a walk, flipped a cigar stub into the gutter. A crowd which had been following the great man staged a near-riot as they fought for this memento. In the end, a woman emerged from the melee with the prize, put it in her pocketbook and walked away.

More understandable is the act of an unknown person who wheedled from Mr. Hoover a leaf from a desk scratch pad on which the President had absent-mindedly sketched fantastic figures. The souvenir was later sold to a collector for a handsome price. But we refuse to believe that the Los Angeles person's act was tainted with commercialism. That girl was just crazy about Cal.



WATCH YOUR STEP!

The Baneful A A A

Childishness not always inherent in college students, but is called forth by an environment dominated by unholy alliance of Athletics, Alumni and Advertising; these three factors tend to distort the whole picture of the university and to obscure its true objectives.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Otto Heller, Dean of the Graduate School, Washington University.

ANY freshman who goes to college of his own accord and not because he is driven or "spiked," expects to step abruptly from adolescence into adultness. That miracle would hardly happen even if colleges were maintained solely for the people for whose benefit they were founded.

But to every organism its peculiar pest is allotted by fate, and one would tolerantly accept the college parasite as a necessary affliction, were it not for his noxious effect on the better class of students. Instead of giving him that sudden upward propulsion toward a worthy purpose, campus life in the first stages pulls the novice back to outgrown puerilities.

I will not shirk the humiliating admission that the failings of the college are largely chargeable to us teachers. Notwithstanding those flamboyant (usually anonymous) protestations in the popular magazines, there is no rebellion in the professorial soul against certain extant conditions. Patiently we carry on by the lines of least resistance, borrowing comfort from the old hack that boys will be boys, and side-tracking the rather important consideration that boys will be men. The net result, at least in logic, is that men will be boys. And they are.

However, not all the odium of dereliction falls on our gray and devoted heads. Some of it is traceable to other influences to which undergraduates are peculiarly subject, and whose names lie coyly concealed in the head of this article. The triple A sprang from the mellow fancy of no less eminent a leader than President Lowell one evening when, indulging in postprandial candor, he paid his respects to the unholy alliance of Athletics, Alumni and Advertising.

The triad is linked, more closely than by the accident of alliteration, in the popular superstition that universities must be Advertised through their Alumni by their Athletics. In such a purview, the whole picture of the university is distorted, and public attention is enlisted for the incidental "activities" of college life to the obscuration of its true objectives.

That the university has to bring its opportunities to public notice; that it should make itself favorably known throughout the land; further, that it should instill love in the souls of its graduates; and lastly, that in its program the care of the body should not be overlooked and ample provision should be made for leisure, recreation, sociability, all that goes utterly without saying. It will be granted on the other side that these considerations must not be permitted to trespass on the educational right-of-way and to hamper the primary and superior purposes.

The good to be derived from strenuous educational advertising is questionable. Since it is not feasible to endow the true values of the higher education with visibility in the eyes of the running reader, the institutions themselves have unintentionally assisted the movies and talkies in vulgarizing the popular conception of the college by featuring their more advertisable commodities. Expensive follies have more than once sprung up from the high pressure instigation of "enthusiastic" advertisers: the erection of costly stadiums, the hiring of super-coaches at more than twice the professors' salary, the relaxation of scholastic standards for the sake of intercollegiate games, and so forth. This ruinous form of advertising, however, is passing away with the waning mania for numbers. Besides, the drawing power of football is found to have been overrated. After the defeat of Harvard by Centre College not many years ago there followed no depopulation of Harvard due to wholesale migration to Kentucky. Intercollegiate football is one of our sorest problems. It cannot live on a small economic basis, and on a big scale its self-support becomes a speculative and precarious investment.

Also there is the related problem of physical education. With football returned to the normal the college might be enabled to shift the athletic interest from the bleachers to the field and the gymnasium. Alumni would soon reconcile their minds to the disaster. Football, of course, is thrilling sport when played honestly and before a fair-minded crowd (conditions that call syntactically for the preterite subjunctive). But that is no reason why we should put upon it any fallacious sanctions. Its educational value is nil, and Bulletin No. 23 of the Carnegie Foundation for the Improvement of Teaching has made this much clear, that the moral integrity of competitive athletics is not insured by the existing controls.

There lingers a fear that any drastic relegation of football to lower prominence in college life would alienate the affections of the old graduates. The alumni body of a university, representing as it were the fruitage of its efforts in the concrete should be its chief pride and strongest buttress. But out of the total number there is likely to spring into glamorous notice in most institutions a small but busy set who do not help but harass the authorities in the conduct of their business.

Their antics do not reflect the aggregate aspirations of alumni. At banquets and other "get-togethers," these vociferous children, long weaned from Alma Mater's nourishing breast, take lustily to the bottle. Don't misunderstand. It is only "college spirit" that they uncork, and the jag quickly wears off.

Apart from educational questions, there is an economic hitch in the agitation of alumni for more students; namely, this: a gain in numbers, in the absence of new endowment, is liable to make Alma M. go into red ink, because the cost of education is so much higher than its price. We are told that the gratuitous part of the tuition, averaged for all students in all colleges, represents something like $117.50 a year per caput. What an opportunity for the alumnus! If my arithmetic is sound, he owes his institution (apart from that universally admitted debt of love and gratitude) the snug little sum of $470. With which gentle reminder to solvent alumni and alumnae I conclude this particular fragment of my true confessions.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.

BACKWARD though she may be in politics, Pennsylvania is setting an example for other states in proposing a fine State memorial as part of the beautification of the capital program.

Under the leadership of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Gov. Fisher and members of the Senate and House delegations from the Keystone State, an offer has been made to Congress to present the city what is described as "the most beautiful fountain in the world."

That description covers a lot of territory, but it is said the Pennsylvania leaders are willing to spend an unlimited amount to accomplish their purpose. They attach but one condition. They desire the fountain to adorn Pennsylvania avenue at some point. That seems appropriate, especially since, according to a bearded gag, the states were named after the avenues in Washington, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania picked the most widely traveled of all the thoroughfares to name itself after.

STOCKY, robust, bespectacled Representative Louis C. Cramton of Michigan believes in restoring and preserving those places historic in the annals of America. Unless such projects are executed with reality, however, all the support they will get from him is a snort of disgust. And Cramton's snort is a matter of concern in the House of Representatives. More of'en than not it spells defeat for someone—as it did recently.

In Wakefield, Va., there is a move on foot to reproduce the house in which George Washington was born. The association interested in the project appealed to Congress for $65,000. The Senate passed the bill and sent it over to the House. Bland of Virginia urged immediate passage on the ground that a handsome gift from the Rockefeller Foundation would be lost if action were delayed.

And if it hadn't been for Louis Cramton and his ideas on realism, the bill probably would have passed. As it was, the appropriation was held up because Cramton said he wanted to satisfy himself Washington's new house would bear some resemblance to his old.

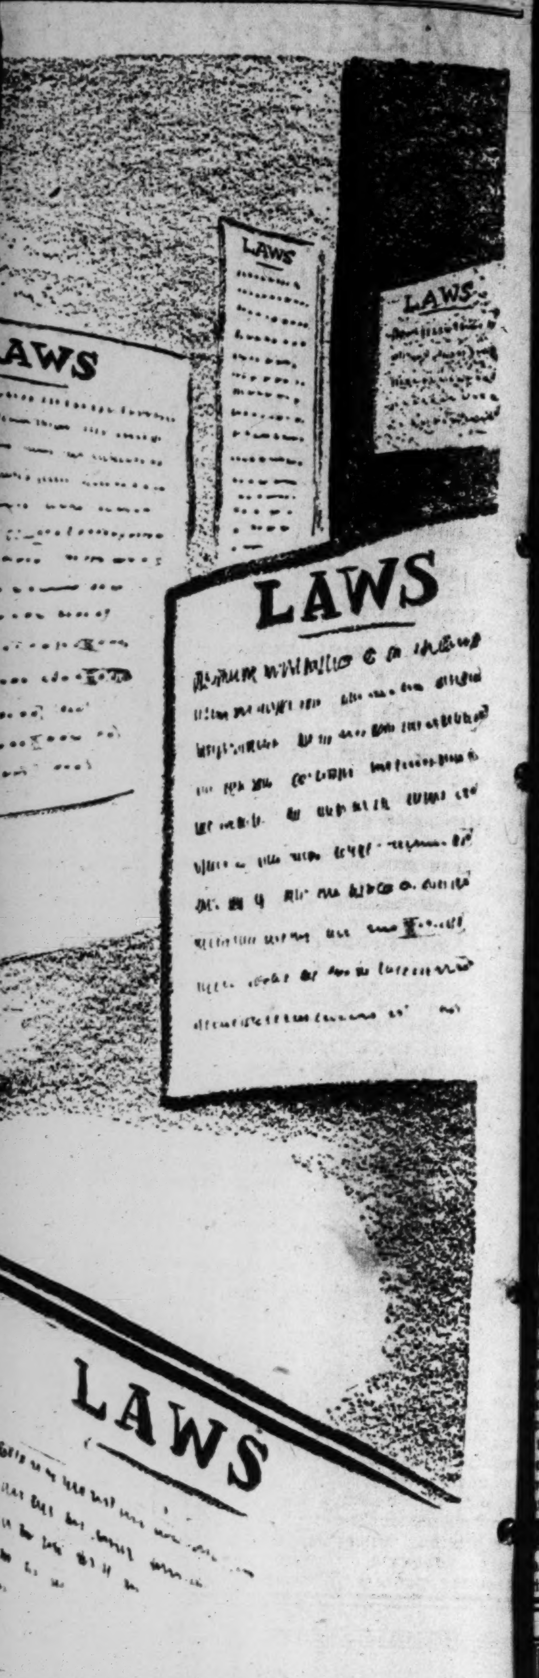
"I OBJECT to the expenditure of money," Cramton said bluntly, "to erect the kind of house somebody thinks ought to have been there when we have definite information as to the type of house that was there."

He clung so doggedly to this conviction of debate that Bland finally gave up, resigned to wait until the Michigander's mind was at rest on that point. Cramton said that he had been interested in the project for a month previously—that during this time he had tried to get assurance the association would build according to information that can be secured as to what Washington's birthplace looked like.

"I have not yet been able to get this assurance," he said. "I shall insist that such assurance be given."

Little did it help Bland that he had the majority and minority leaders, the Speaker and the chairman of the Rules Committee on his side. Louis Cramton's passion for realism triumphed.



WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.

BACKWARD though she may be in politics, Pennsylvania is setting an example for other states in proposing a fine State memorial as part of the beautification of the capital program.

Under the leadership of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Gov. Fisher and members of the Senate and House delegations from the Keystone State, an offer has been made to Congress to present the city what is described as "the most beautiful fountain in the world."

That description covers a lot of territory, but it is said the Pennsylvania leaders are willing to spend an unlimited amount to accomplish their purpose. They attach but one condition. They desire the fountain to adorn Pennsylvania avenue at some point. That seems appropriate, especially since, according to a bearded gag, the states were named after the avenues in Washington, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania picked the most widely traveled of all the thoroughfares to name itself after.

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Rare Quality

TRADER'S WIFE. By Jean nyon McKenzie. (Coward Mc- ann,.

HERE is a class of books— d it is relatively a small one the value of which depends t wholly upon a quality that t be conveyed in other words those of the author. Such s must be experienced at first , and any effort to transmit appreciation of them is likely 't in either apparent or ac- exaggeration, for their gth is concerned far less with t is told than with the vividand intensity with which the t matter was conceived be- there was any setting down words. An extreme example is ard Jeffrey's "Story of My rt." Try to tell why that book ressed you deeply, if it did, and will find that you will be tell- almost nothing of what you nt to tell. Such books are not ssarily to be described as at," but whether "great" or they are remembered as le; and they are so, being al- s the authentic expression of istinctive personality.

The Trader's Wife," by Jean nyon Mackenzie is of the sort gested here. The story is that an African trader's wife dur- the time when the antislavery tation in New England was ching its height. Harford, for- rly an African slave merchant, reformed and become a re- ctable trader for ivory. When tale begins he has just married ushing idealist who is com- cently ignorant of the world as husband knows it. The lady, is quite the managing type, sts upon going to Africa with husband. She goes, and the of the strange tale is con- ned with her tragic disillusion- t and death among the prim- blacks.

is does not seem to be much story; but any sensitive reader be deeply impressed, never- less, by the mood that ws steadily throughout the k. Also, the extraordinary uty and economy of the au- r's style will yield rare pleasure those who care for writing that xquisite, not because the words been chosen consciously to t end, but because they have unconsciously out of the au- 's original conception and are ctly adequate. With most iters the process is reversed, a fact which explains much bad or commonplace writing.

It is said that the author spent 14 years in the Cameroons, and evidently what we have here is the distilled essence of her African experience.

THE NEW GERMAN REPUBLIC. By Elmer Luehr. (Minton, Balch.)

The progress of the German people from monarchy to democracy makes a fascinating story. The revolution itself, occurring dramatically in November, 1918, as the result of the military's failure, is the least of it. There was virtually no bloodshed in that swift hauling down of colors but Germany was not then committed to a Republic. Establishing a stable government was an ordeal, despite the instinct for order possessed by the German people. This book is an account of how domestic peace was finally established, how the Weimar Constitution came into being, and how Germany now is making progress toward its former standing among the nations.

The book begins with the armistice, as viewed on the other side of the allied lines. Germany was a country wrecked and starving, its manhood shattered by the ravages of war, its credit non-existent, its name denounced as that of an outlaw. The Socialists took power, after the Kaiser's hasty departure, but their hold was precarious. Even up to the last few years the Communist threat has figured in German politics, the monarchists have not been silent and there have been factional differences galore. In the Weimar Constitution, these parties united in a series of compromises. This document, which is discussed in detail, contains many curious differences with the American Constitution, but these are made necessary by the character of the Reich, so long dominated by Prussia's influence.

Prof. Luehr is on the faculty of Chicago University. His book has been praised by experts in the field as the best available summary of recent German history. Of necessity, the work is incomplete, since the processes of conciliation with other nations and of domestic economic and political development are still going on. This history ends with mid-summer, 1929, and many things have happened since that date and are still to happen. By use of the record compiled by Prof. Luehr, however, the observer will understand the background of events in Germany and will be guided in evaluating future occurrences there.

TEACHERS MAY AID SCHOOL TAX CAMPAIGN IF THEY WISH

Contributions Are Not Required in Effort to Retain 85-Cent Rate.

Announcement has been made by the Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee that contributions from teachers and other employes of the public school system are acceptable, but not required, and there is no rule as to the sums they may give, for the fund to finance the campaign for retention of the 85-cent school tax rate. There will be a special election on March 25 on a proposition to keep this rate for four years more. Unless the proposal carries the rate will revert to 60 cents on the $100.

Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, said many teachers and other school employes had inquired whether they might contribute and how much they ought to give. The committee answered that the campaign was purely a citizens' affair and that the school workers, as private citizens, might do whatever they pleased about aiding it. Many teachers have made contributions. Copies of Dysart's letter setting forth the committee's attitude were sent to all the schools by Superintendent of Instruction Gerling.

Gerling has said there was a chance that failure of the tax proposal would force a reduction of teachers' salaries and that it might cause abandonment of summer school and other special activities and that it likely would curtail the purchase of sites and erection of new buildings. The school income would be reduced about $2,500,000 a year if the proposition failed, he pointed out.

Among scheduled speakers are Dean A. S. Langsdorf of the Washington University Schools of Engineering and Architecture; Isaac Lippincott, professor of economics at Washington University; Judge S. E. Hoyt, New Haven, Conn.; Prof. H. S. Hower, head of the Department of Physics at Carnegie Institute of Technology, and Dr. Clarke E. Mickey, head of School of Civil Engineering at the University of Nebraska.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.

IT is possible these long winter nights to bring the feverish gayety of Monte Carlo into your home. A mere telephone call does the trick. An alchemist at an address on West Seventy-second street is prepared to transmute your living quarters into a gambling casino.

He appears to have no compunction about the legality of such entertainment for in his elaborately engraved announcement which he sends out indiscriminately he gives his name, address and telephone number. On the manifesto are bright etchings of crowds playing roulette, baccarat, chuck-a-luck and chemin de fer.

We quote from his announcement: "You may arrange an evening of unusual interest for your guests by transplanting to your own home or club the attractions of the famous casinos of the world. This can be expertly managed, without inconvenience to you, on fairly short terms.

"I am prepared to provide you with equipment and operators comparing favorably with the best here and abroad and personally supervise. If the games are banked wholly or in part by you or through co-operation of guests, I will participate to any extent you desire."

It is said he shows no interest in queries coming from any save "class addresses." He wants only people who will gamble high. Those who have seen his paraphernalia pronounce it magnificent and his croupiers are suave and tight-lipped old-world types.

The chief game keeper—an Adonis in evening clothes—is reported to be a famous inside man in the days when Canfield flourished. The gambling outfit is delivered in several compactly filled trunks, and in three hours everything is ready for a night of play.

THERE are still many gamblers of other days knocking about the Tenderloin and in striking contrast to the oily and overconfident modern types. They have a silver-haired dignity and the urbanity of a Chesterfield. Most of them have seen better days and live off the precarious fruits of small stake poker and dice games or serve as house players in billiard halls. No matter how sedate their dress, there is always a gaudy "give away" to distinguish them—a huge cameo pin, a fancy vest or a glittering finger ring.

THE professional gambler is rarely able to escape a nickname among his guild. And they are usually picturesque. Among the better known are Silent Holcombe, Wee Willie, Titanic, Nigger Nate, Peaches, Happy Hal and Whistling Tim.

ONE of the most pathetic sights we have seen lately—next to ourself in a looking glass—was a 200-pound gentleman in a great fur coat trying to coax along a tiny Pomeranian attached to a red ribbon while a group of young debutantes, waiting for limousines in front of Pierre's, tittered.

NOTHING is so disconcerting to a man's vanity as the sudden giggle of a pretty maid. Whatever conceit he fosters vanishes like a flash. He imagines everything that is the matter with him, including, perhaps, a set of slightly bowed legs, has suddenly become as public as a statue in the park.

ONE of the best of the recent paragraphs, to my notion, is by W. W. Scott, who observed: "New Yorkers will stand for anything save a woman in the subway."

SUCH obvious paragraphs are most elusive of all for nit-wits who must think them up. A fellow never reads a homely reflection by Abe Martin without a reminder he has often observed the same thing.

THEY were wondering about a very handsome actor who takes his very unattractive wife with him wherever he goes. "Maybe," someone suggested, "it is because he hates to kiss her good-by."

SOCIAL SECRETARY SUES MRS. CORA WEIL'S ESTATE

Seeks to Get Either $25,000 Bequest She Says Was Promised, or $17,000 as Wages.

A claim ranging from $17,000 to $25,000 on the $200,000 estate of the late Mrs. Cora Weil, was filed in Probate Court yesterday by Mrs. Weil's grandniece, Mrs. Gladys Krisman, wife of Harry E. Krisman, vice president of the Krisman-Frey Jewelry Co.

The claim sets forth that Mrs. Krisman acted as Mrs. Weil's business agent, social secretary and companion between Dec. 23, 1922, and Nov. 12, 1929, the date of Mrs. Weil's death. Mrs. Weil, according to the claim, promised Mrs. Krisman a legacy of $25,000, but bequeathed her only $500.

In the event the promise is held invalid, the claim asks $17,971 as payment for Mrs. Krisman's services at the rate of $50 a week, with interest. The bulk of the estate was left by Mrs. Weil to Jewish charities.

GERMANY TO PROTEST AGAINST FRENCH-PORTUGUESE AIR PACT

Reported Agreement Gives France an Aviation Monopoly Over Azores.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The German Foreign Office, it is understood, soon will protest against a reported French and Portuguese agreement giving France an air monopoly over Portuguese territory.

This protest, it was said, will second one understood to have been lodged by the American Minister in Lisbon.

According to information published by the Berlin Tageblatt the monopoly would secure to France complete air control of the Portuguese colonies in the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands, upon which landing would be forbidden to all planes except those belonging to the French monopoly. The paper says this would materially interfere with German and American trans-Atlantic flying plans.

JACOB MEYER, FIRST HEAD OF COLUMBIAN CLUB, DIES

Jacob Meyer, 83 years old, former president of the Meyer-Bannerman Harness and Saddlery Co. and first president of the Columbian Club, died yesterday at his home, 329 Belt avenue, of the infirmities of age. He had been a resident of St. Louis for 61 years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanche Meyer, and four children.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at an undertaking chapel at 5216 Delmar boulevard.

MRS. JAMES C. JONES DIES

Mrs. Clara M. Jones, wife of James C. Jones, attorney, 3 Kingsbury place, died yesterday at Mayo Brothers Hospital, Rochester, Minn., after an operation performed a week ago. She was 67 years old.

Her husband and a daughter, Mrs. Dodderidge Farrell, 6376 Waterman avenue, were at her bedside. The funeral will be in Chicago, Mrs. Jones' former home.

HOPE FOR NAVAL PACT BRIGHTENED BY PARLEY RECESS

Americans feel that the delay may result in a cooling off on both sides and improve the chances of a compromise.

Possible Briand May Return.

The possibility was seen at the American headquarters, on the strength of advices from France, that Aristide Briand might return as the chief French delegate. Since Briand is co-author of the peace pact, it was felt he might be more inclined than Andre Tardieu to reduce French tonnage requirements in exchange for the "implementation" of that treaty with a purely consultative provision. Tardieu had never indicated he would be content with anything less than a security pact containing guarantees and sanctions.

The tone at American headquarters was one of guarded optimism regarding the ultimate outcome of the conference. The feeling manifestly was that "anything might happen."

Postponement of the negotiations coincides nicely with the waiting game being played by the Japanese delegates till after the elections in their country tomorrow. For some time it has been obvious that, pending the elections, the Japanese would make no move toward compromising their demand for 70 per cent of American strength in auxiliary vessels. The American delegates have been careful likewise not to force the issue. The result of the elections probably will be known here Monday, after which time it will be possible for the two delegations to get down to cases.

The Italian note of last night contained no surpises. Typical comment in the British press was that it "happily blended tact and firmness," and the impression created on the Americans was no less favorable. The keynote of the document was a renewal of the Italian claim to parity with France. Italy abstains, however, from any endeavor to frame a definite naval program for 1936, and hints that she would not necessarily build up to the French standard. Part of the memorandum is seen as an adroit effort to place France in an untenable position of isolation if the latter persists in a refusal to moderate her demands.

Senator Robinson's speech to newspaper correspondents yesterday was a significant restatement of the known American determination not to enter any political pact carrying guarantees and sanctions. It did not, however, close the door to the addition of a consultative clause to the Kellogg pact.

PRESIDENT'S SON DECLARES RADIO IS VITAL TO AVIATION

also, a technical description of radio apparatus used for aircraft communications, by E. L. Nelson and F. M. Ryan of the radio development department of the Bell Telephone laboratories.

Kenneth M. Lane, technical expert for the Department of Commerce, speaking at a joint banquet of the society with the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce last night, proposed that the society form a committee for the specific study of spin characteristics of airplanes, which he mentioned as one of the defects of modern aircraft.

Urges Careful Advertising.

Lane advocated also the formation on an independent agency to furnish accurate data on planes in order to curb dishonest advertising. Honesty in aeronautic advertising is essential, he said, because if manufacturers yield to the temptation of advertising false speeds, competition tends to produce planes in which safety is neglected for speed.

The aviation industry has not progressed as well in aerodynamics as in structural soundness, Lane said, and mentioned several defects which should be remedied.

Work remains to be done, he declared, in curbing the tendency to spin at low altitudes; in lessening the fire hazard of airplanes; in perfecting lateral control; in lowering propeller tip speeds; and in eliminating fuel problems, especially vapor lock.

Lane recommended also that airplane manufacturers test their materials themselves and cautioned them to avoid uneven stress distribution and to seek more exact weight calculations.

He asserted air sickness is caused mainly by the psychological reaction to the noise of the air whistling about the plane. Some of this whistling can be eliminated, he said. Better ventilation and heating arrangements for cabin planes should be perfected, he asserted.

Ralph Hazlett Upson of Detroit, designer of the metal clad dirigible and pioneer balloonist, was awarded the Wright Brothers medal by the Society of Automotive Engineers for outstanding contributions furthering the progress of aeronautic engineering and design. The award was based specifically upon his paper, "Wings—A Co-ordinated System of Design." Dr. George W. Lewis, a member of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, presented the medal.

Charles Lawrence, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and designer of the Wright Whirlwind motor, was the toastmaster, introducing each of the famous engineers and aviators who sat at the speakers table. Lawrence presented Maj. Albert Bond Lambert as "the patron saint of aviation in St. Louis."

Amateur Gliders.

Commenting on the use of gliders, Lawrence said that too many amateur glider enthusiasts "particularly boys who glide off the roof" will cause many accidents unless restrained. He suggested at another point that manufacturers employ slack production months in doing research work. E. P. Warner, president of the society, outlined its objectives and said that it intended to serve the entire field of aviation and sought co-operation from every quarter.

Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co., will discuss production schedules tonight and William F. Wise of the Ex-Cell-O Aircraft and Tool Co. will discuss factors peculiar to the manufacture of airplane motor parts. When the meeting adjourns it will have completed discussions of engines, fuels, instruments, radio and production of airplanes.

7 Hours in Bed and N
7 Minutes of Sleep!
The Toll Acidity Takes
You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.
Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.
A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100 year old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole. Washington Made a Will

WASHINGTON, from boyhood, lived a busy life. In his years of military service and as the first President of the United States he doubtless was much more occupied with pressing matters than the average busy man today.

Yet he found time to make a will, and disposed of his estate according to a very carefully studied plan. He created several trusts and there is every reason to believe that had the facilities of our modern institutions been available during his time, he would have named a Trust Company as executor and trustee.

Certainly the Father of his Country sets an example for men of our age who "are too busy to make a will".

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

COALITION FEARS ENDANGERING OF DEBENTURE PLAN

Its Members Give This as Reason for Opposing Drastic Increases in Farm Schedule.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Senate today checked to some extent the onrush on increases in tariffs in the agricultural schedule after warnings had issued from both camps of the coalition forces that undue increases in farm rates would endanger the chances of the retention of the debenture plan in the bill.

The warnings, from Democrats and Republican Independents, were issued when Senator Brookhart, Republican Independent, Iowa, sought to increase by more than 300 per cent existing rates on lard and oleo and oleo stearin.

The Iowan's proposal to increase the lard duty from 1 to 4 cents a pound was rejected, 53 to 23. This allows the 3-cent rate in the bill stand. The oleo increases were rejected without a record vote.

Fears for Debenture Plan.

Norbeck, Republican Independent, South Dakota, contended the oleo duties would have no effect. Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, in opposing the lard increase, said there were no imports and that exports amounted to 778,000,000 pounds. He realized Brookhart wanted the rates high so the farmers would get the full benefit of the debenture, but if made too high the opponents of debenture then could assert that it would cost the Government too much.

Under the debenture provision now in the bill, exporters of farm surpluses would receive certificates equal to half the tariff on similar imported commodities.

The Hawes amendment to increase to 3 cents a pound in the duty on crude horseradish was approved. The present rate is 50 per cent.

The Harrison proposal to reduce the bill rate on preserved mushrooms from 10 cents a pound on drained weight and 60 per cent to 10 cents and 45 per cent was adopted. The present rate is 45 per cent.

Another effort to boost rates failed when the Frazier amendment to increase the duty on mustard seed from the bill rate of 2 cents a pound to 3 cents was rejected. Approval then was given the Goldsborough motion to reduce the mustard seed duty to 1 cent—the existing levy.

Upon reconsideration, Frazier won his contest for an increase in the tariff on mustard seed. The presiding officer held that his amendment to advance the rate from 2 cents to 3 cents was approved in place of the Goldsborough amendment to cut the duty to 1 cent.

Increases in the bill rates on alsike clover seeds from 5 cents to 8 cents a pound, on crimson clover seed from 1 cent a pound to 2 cents, on sweet clover seed from 3 cents a pound to 4 cents were put through on motion of Frazier.

Another Frazier amendment to cut from 30 per cent to 20 per cent the rate on biscuits, wafers, cake, cakes and similar baker articles, was rejected.

Bread Tariff Starts a Protest.

When Frazier gave notice he would ask for a tariff on bread, a roar went up.

"I never thought," shouted Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, "that I would live to see a tariff seriously proposed on bread—the staff of life. It shows how mad and drunk we have become."

The bread tariff was withheld for the time being.

The Senate then rejected a Frazier amendment to increase the duty on timothy seed from 2 to 3 cents a pound.

Connally (Dem.), Texas, won approval of a rate of three-tenths of a cent a pound for all vegetable oil cake and oil cake meal not specifically provided for in the bill, which places these on the same basis as soy bean oil cake. All these products are now on the free list.

St. Louis County Growers Say Imports Caused $500,000 Loss.

Spokesmen for the 600 growers of horseradish in St. Louis County and for 500 or more additional growers on the East Side stated recently that importation of foreign horseradish deflated the market to the extent of causing a loss as high as $500,000 in a single year to growers of this area. It is estimated that, in a good year, from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds of horseradish is shipped from this territory. St. Louis County is one of the outstanding horseradish producing areas in this country.

The price of horseradish on the St. Louis market today was 1½ to 3 cents a pound, according to quality.

An increase of $43,665,540 in real estate assessments, over last year's, and a decrease of $22,587,930 in personal property assessments, are shown in the tax report of the City of St. Louis, forwarded today by Assessor Gehner to the State Tax Commission.

The real estate assessment for this year, now completed on the basis of last year's values, for the taxes of next fall, is $1,086,002,630. The personal property assessment it $144,167,940, making a total of $1,230,170,570. Last year's corresponding figures were $1,042,337,090 real and $166,755,870 personal, a total of $1,209,092,960. The net increase of this year's assessment over last year's is $21,077,680.

Public utility assessments are not included in the foregoing figures. They will increase the taxable total about $88,000,000 or $90,000,000.

The most important factor in the decrease of personal property assessments was the shrinkage of the assessments of banks and trust companies, from $49,520,540 last year to $33,323,820 this year. This is due in part to bank mergers, the capitalization of merged banks being less than their former total separate capitalizations, but it is more largely due to the device of holding companies.

These holding companies, organized within the banks, take over Federal and other securities which, when held by them, are not taxable, but which would be taxable if they were part of a bank's capital stock. The banks hold the stock of the holding companies, which is not taxed, as stock held by banks in other corporations is non-taxable.

Automobiles owned in St. Louis were reported last year as numbering 101,892, and were assessed at $28,835,440. This year 103,389 cars are reported, with a valuation of $24,853,420. The explanation is that car prices have been reduced, and that St. Louisans are buying the lower-price cars more extensively.

Art and science keep step in seven-league strides of progress in "Son of the Gods".

Never has the superb dramatic skill of Richard Barthelmess reached such peaks of compelling power . . .

And Vitaphone marks its greatest technical advance to date in production and reproduction!

With the tenderness of "Tol'able David", the exotic beauty of "Broken Blossoms", the sweep and power of "The Patent Leather Kid", and the humanness of "Weary River", "Son of the Gods" is all Dick Barthelmess' best roles rolled into one.

Tense as the clash of the two strangely contrasting worlds it pictures, is the conflict of emotions in this unique romance.

Can true love find a way—across the line that severs East from West?—What happens when a daughter of wealth falls in love with a son of mysterious gods?—And what was the sinister secret that made a society beauty horsewhip her millionaire fiancé?

These startling questions and their equally startling answers made "Son of the Gods" the greatest of all Rex Beach's great best-sellers.

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY EXPLAINS DRY VIEWS

Admits Saying He Would Be Too Busy to Look for Liquor Cases.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller said today he had no objection to the statement of former Senator George H. Williams, before a House Committee at Washington, that "the Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, in announcing his candidacy, said he would not enforce the Volstead act."

"There is nothing incorrect or unfair about that statement," the Circuit Attorney said, "though it would be possible to state the matter more fully.

"I said in my primary campaign and again before the election that I expected to be busy prosecuting major crimes of violence, and that I would not have time to be looking for violations of the State prohibition law. The Federal Government has special prohibition enforcement machinery, and I continued the arrangement which existed previously in this office, of leaving prohibition cases to the Federal officers.

"Most State liquor cases are misdemeanors, but there are some felony cases under the State prohibition law, and if the police were to bring in evidence in such cases, this office would handle them. We prefer that they should turn over such cases to the Federal authorities. I found a few such cases when I came into office, and disposed of them, taking pleas of guilty.

"My belief is that the prosecution of liquor cases, under both State and Federal statutes does constitute double jeopardy, though I am aware that the United States Supreme Court has held otherwise. I feel, also, that to present cases to local juries, which will not convict, is a waste of the time which the Circuit Attorney needs for other duties. For all these reasons, I made it clear in my campaign that I was not going to hunt for liquor law violators. I did not wish any votes cast for me under a misapprehension. I got some letters of complaint because of this stand, but I was elected by a large majority.

"I have stated also that I personally believe the prohibition laws have failed to reduce lawlessness, and that better control of the liquor business could be established under a system of strict regulation."

$50,000,000 POOL ENDS CHICAGO DEBT CRISIS

Wealthy Men Pledge Money to Meet Expenses Until Taxes Come in July 1.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—With millions of dollars available for a pool to conduct the debt-burdened local governments until July 1, at which time 1928 tax money will begin coming in, the financial crisis in Chicago and Cook County is considered to be at an end.

Whether the $74,000,000 estimated as necessary expenses will be fully subscribed is still uncertain, but nearly $50,000,000 are assured. Efforts were doubled to get long-overdue salary checks ready by Saturday for the thousands of teachers, firemen, policemen, nurses and other city and county employes.

The conference arranged by Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the Citizen's Relief Committee, and Lewis E. Myers, millionaire school trustee and representative of Mayor Thompson, solved the problem how the relief funds were to be obtained.

Eighty-five bankers, business men, railroad and utility heads and manufacturers gave their millions for purchasing tax anticipation warrants through the Cook County taxpayers' warrant trust. Warrants will be purchsed only as needed.

NINE ESCAPE FROM LAKE ICE

Michigan Coast Guards Abandon Launches Near Shore.

By the Associated Press.

LELAND, Mich., Feb. 20.—Nine coast guardsmen from the stations on North Manitou and South Manitou Islands were icebound on Lake Michigan for several hours yesterday but reached shore here safely shortly after midnight. They were forced to abandon their two gasoline launches about 100 yards from shore after plowing slowly through the broken field of ice to that point.

DIVORCES GUNNAR CARLANDER

Mrs. Agnes P. Leontine M. Carlander, residing at Hotel Coronado, obtained a divorce today from Gunnar Carlander, former wholesale druggist here, on the ground of desertion.

She told Circuit Judge Rosskopf that in March, 1926, her husband caused her to remove their household property to Florida and then left her, moving to New Orleans, La., with their 12-year-old son. They were married Dec. 20, 1916.

Theater Spooners Win Damages.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Married couples have a right to spoon in a theater, a jury held in effect yesterday when it awarded $12 damages to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dogert against a local theater proprietor who had them ejected for spooning.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical formula with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds and is excellent for building up the system after colds. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Automobile Insurance Rates Reduced!

Less than three years ago the Automobile Club of Missouri, after many futile attempts to persuade the Insurance Interests to lighten the burden of excessive automobile Insurance rates in this territory, organized an Inter-Insurance Exchange.

We stated then that this action would eventually result in a reduction of rates in our territory.

That this statement was not an idle boast is demonstrated by the fact that the first step in this direction prophesied by us has been taken.

There has just been announced a substantial reduction in rates.

The Exchange has set a record for all Missouri for rapid growth. Thousands of members are now enjoying this complete insurance service. Savings of over $113,000 have already been mailed to members on their expiring policies amounting to 20% of their premiums. Motorists are more and more realizing that no insurance at any price can be better.

CAR TRACKS TO REMAIN AT SIDE OF BROADWAY

Ordinance for Widening Street From Morin to Switzer Avenues Approved.

The Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday approved ordinances to place the car tracks in a separate, unpaved strip on the west side of Broadway, between Morin and Switzer avenues, in connection with a widening project.

It also approved condemnation measures to extend McCausland avenue for almost a mile south from Manchester avenue, to Leamington avenue, as a 100-foot street, and to widen Canterbury avenue from 50 to 80 feet for a block between Ellendale avenue and St. Louis-Maplewood limits. These projects will give improved access to the west end of the new Arsenal street viaduct.

The committee held up the bill to widen Goodfellow avenue between Natural Bridge and McLaran avenues and deferred action on the improvement of Spring avenue between Page boulevard and Chouteau avenue and on the repeal of the widening of Dale avenue, between Manchester and McCausland avenues.

The Broadway car tracks now are on the west side of the street next to Bellefontaine and Calvary cemeteries for 13 blocks between Morin and Switzer avenues, but constitute a hazard as they are open to vehicular traffic. The Broadway widening, from 60 to 80 feet, is for this section and northward from Switzer avneue to Hall's Ferry road. The tracks are in the center, paved, in the latter section and will remain so.

Many North St. Louis interests favored shifting the tracks to the center of the street and paving them, in the section at the side of the cemeteries, but the city objected to this, and the Public Service Co. threatened, if this alternative was adopted, to petition the State Public Service Commission for permission to substitute busses for trolleys on Broadway north of Taylor avenue, which is one block south of Morin avenue. The company objected to the expense of paving between its line.

People Want Trolleys.

Due to this threat, Alderman Kuhs told the committee, the people of the district decided to favor the city's original plan for putting the tracks in a detached, unpaved strip on the west side, as they desired through trolley service.

The Goodfellow proposal is to widen the streets from 60 to 80 feet between Natural Bridge and McLaren avenues, except the section between Lillian and West Florissant avenues which would be only 70 feet.

Sidewalk space, and not private property, would be taken, as a compromise. The roadway throughout would be 56 feet wide. Although it has long been planned to make this a major thoroughfare, residents of the vicinity have objected to the expense. Spokesmen of the City Plan Commission and Council on Civic Needs argued yesterday for adoption of the proposal but Alderman Wimer spoke against it. The committee voted three to three on a motion to approve it. As a result of the tie it was held up and an attempt probably will be made to kill it.

For the Spring avenue project there are five ordinances pending, in regard to widening and cutoffs. The committee held them over, without a vote, after Engineer Bartholomew of the Plan Commission said the proposed 60-foot width was insufficient for a major street and argued that the scheme, if adopted, should be considered only a local improvement not subject to financing by bond funds.

Dale Avenue Widening.

The Streets Committee held a public hearing last night on the repeal of the measure for the widening of Dale avenue from 40 to 60 feet. Eighty-two property owners on the street appeared to favor the repeal, arguing that traffic was too light to justify the expense. The street was paved recently. One woman property owner was the only person favoring the widening. The committee deferred action.

The Loughborough Community Property Owners' Association was formed at Gardenville School last night to continue the protest of the neighborhood against the widening of Loughborough avenue from 60 to 100 feet between Gravois and Brunswick avenues and its extension from Brunswick to a projected cross-town boulevard near the southwestern city limits. The association favored a plan which would increase the roadway width from 36 to 46 feet without taking private property. Ernest G. Speh was elected president of the organization. City planners regard the 100-foot thoroughfare as necessary for the development of that part of the city.

SIX ST. LOUISANS SURVIVE IN PLAY FOR NATIONAL "Y" HANDBALL TITLE

PRESENT HOLDER OF CROWN WILL MEET EASTERN ENTRY TODAY

Second Round Results.

H. Hobleman, Baltimore defeated Milton Smith, St. Louis, 18-21, 21-11, 21-14.

Merrit Bates, Columbus, O., defeated M. Lehr, St. Louis, 21-16, 21-19.

Sam Atcheson of Memphis, Tenn., Y. M. C. A. handball champion of the South, was eliminated in the first round of the National Y. M. C. A. handball tournament at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. last night by J. Endzevitch of Cleveland, in three hard-fought games, 21-17, 16-21 and 21-9. Atcheson's defeat was the big upset of the first day's tournament play.

Endzevitch took the first game by four points, but Atcheson turned on him in the second and captured it with a 5-run margin. The first two hard sets told on Atcheson, who dropped the third, 21-10, tiring in the final innings. It was the best games played during the day. Endzevitch, with a strong drive, baffled Atcheson with his returns often in the first and third games.

One-Armed Star.

George Quam, one-armed handball star of Minneapolis, had little difficulty in quashing Fred Savin of Little Rock, Ark., 21-4, 21-8. Savin, who had heard of Quam's prowess, was beaten, before he stepped on the courts. He was like a "Big Boy" Peterson facing a Primo Carnera. Quam drives the ball powerfully with his one hand and his returns at times were impossible for Savin to retrieve because of their speed. Quam's placements were also fine and accurate.

Joe Griffin of Detroit, Mich., National Y. M. C. A. champion, drew a bye in the first round when George Cook of Denver, defaulted. Griffin will go into action this afternoon against John Flannely, a brilliant player from Philadelphia, who entered the second round, by defeating Milton Strauss of St. Louis, 21-3 and 21-4. The match is scheduled for 4 p. m.

Robert M. Larmore, St. Louis, handball veteran, won his way to the second round, by defeating Abe Marcovis of Des Moines, 21—13 and 21—12. Trailing at the start in both games, Larmore made a great comeback in both contests, his play being especially brilliant in the second, his returns tiring Marcovis.

Larmore is paired with the one-armed Quam in the second round which will be played at 3 p. m., and which should be one of the best matches of the afternoon.

Milton Smith of St. Louis, who won his way to the second round, by blanking Ray Stockdale of Kansas City, Kan., in both games, will meet H. Hobleman of Baltimore at 2 p. m., which is the first match of the afternoon. This should be another hard fought game. Robert Weiller of St. Louis, will meet Joe Goodreau of Cleveland at 4 p .m.

Kammann Loses.

Walter Kamman of St. Louis, after being forced to go three games by Carl Gallup of Kansas City, to win the preliminary round match, 21—7, 7—21, 21—7, was eliminated by Sam Wolff, fellow-townsman in the first round play, 21—14, 21—18. The Kammann-Wolff matches were hard fought, Wolff holding the lead in both contests. Gallup made some wonderful gets in his matches with Kammann but experience won out over youth in the end.

Lehr was outclassed by Goodreau in their setto, Lehr not being in the best of condition.

Weiller played a smashing game against P. Kratzmaier of Kansas City, Kan., to enter the second round, although the Jayhawker gave him a good run in the second game.

Merrit Bates of Columbus, O., eliminated Ted Lemmers of Detroit, 21—4, 21—17. Lemmers, inexperienced in tournament play, put on a performance below his ability. Bates, a calm, easy player, showed excellent control with both hands.

Looks Easy—But Try It

BEN REESE JR.

The star running guard of the league-leading Soldan High School basketball team and the high-scoring guard in the league, is shown holding a basketball in each hand. Reese, 17 years old, is 6 feet 3 inches tall, and has proved one of the best players ever to represent Soldan.

SOLDAN HIGH IS FAVORED TO CLINCH TITLE

In all probability the championship of the City High School League will be decided in the second game of tonight's doubleheader at the St. Louis University gymnasium when the undefeated Soldan team meets Cleveland. The first game will be between Roosevelt and Beaumont.

If Cleveland wins, Beaumont must defeat Soldan in the final game, in order for Cleveland to tie with the West Enders. On a basis of previous results, it is unlikely that Cleveland will win tonight or that Soldan will lose to Beaumont.

Coach Bert E. Fenenga will start the same five that lost to Roosevelt last week—Ralph and Ray Landry, forwards; Kenneth Bieber, center; Roy Paglusch and Louis Schneemann, guards.

Although Coach Harry White was unable to be at two of his team's practices because of a wrenched shoulder, the regulars have performed smoothly in practice and Soldan is in top form for the game. Barney Passer and Keith Walker will be the forwards; Capt. Dave Cook, the center, and Bill "Red" Jones and Ben Reese, guards.

If Roosevelt maintains the fast pace it has set in its past three victories, Beaumont is going to have a difficult task remaining in third place. Coach Walter Lorenzen will start the Roosevelt five that repulsed Warrenton, Mo., earlier in the week. Capt. Albert Alvis and Ward Parker will be the forwards; Kenneth Dillman, the center, and Maupin Patton and Charley Yeager, the guards.

Opposed to this combination will be the recently-discovered powerful Beaumont offensive of Arthur Gerst and Bob Kalbitz, forwards; Ray Toberman, center, and Bernie Walsh and Arthur McLeod, guards. The probable Beaumont replacements are John Guhman, forward, and Otto "Bud" Schwandt and Campbell Elliott, guards.

The team standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Win.	Lose.
Cleveland	5	2	.714	.750	.625
Beaumont	3	3	.500	.571	.429
Roosevelt	2	4	.333	.429	.286
Central	0	7	.000	....	....

FIRST GAME.

ROOSEVELT.		BEAUMONT.
Alvis	R. F.	Gerst
Parker	L. F.	Kalbitz
Dillman	C.	Toberman
Patton	R. G.	Walsh
Yeager	L. G.	McLeod

SOLDAN.		CLEVELAND.
Passer	R. F.	Ray Landry
Walker	L. F.	Ralph Landry

Reese	R. G.	Schneemann

U. CITY BASKETBALL TEAM TEACHES 'PROFS' HOW TO PLAY GAME

The University City Junior High basketball team showed their faculty how to play basketball, when they overcame the lead held by the teachers in the last few minutes of play, to win Tuesday afternoon, 25-24.

Both teams displayed fine tactics and the game was a tight affair throughout. George Thompson, coach of the Junior High team, was the high point man for the faculty, while Burock and Bushyhead did practically all the scoring for the Juniors. The game was played yesterday afternoon as a benefit for the Junior High paper.

Charley White 7-5 Choice to Defeat Perlick

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLEY WHITE and his 39 years, including six years of retirement, today was a 7-to-5 choice to celebrate his comeback attempt in Promoter Jack Dempsey's show at the Coliseum tomorrow night to defeat Henry Perlick, the Kalamazoo (Mich.) lightweight twin.

In training White's famous left hook has worked impressively and he is confident of stopping Perlick, who is about 18 years his junior. The bout is for six rounds.

Crystal City and Schenbergs Win in Girls' Basketball

The fight for first place in the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball Association remains unsettled and the Schenberg and Crystal City clubs, still tied for the lead, must now settle the matter in a game at Crystal City next Wednesday. Both teams came through victorious in their games at the Armory last night as the league was closing its 1929-30 season here.

The Schenbergs were compelled to play an extra period to down the Headlights in the opening game, 29-22. At the end of the regulation playing time, after the Schenbergs had staged a brilliant rally to overcome a 22-16 lead, the score stood at 22-22. Mildred Schworm, Headlight guard, was on the foul line shooting a free throw as the final whistle sounded. However, she missed the toss and her team failed to win by this "break." Then came two field baskets and a free throw by Winifred Kendrick, followed by a setup by Doris Foley to give the Schenbergs enough points to win.

In the second game, Crystal City held a commanding lead of 15-7 going into the final quarter. Long shots by Leah Nolan and Agnes Grunloh enabled the Bachelors to creep to within two points of the "Red Devils," but the latter team braced and a free throw by Miss Conardy in the closing seconds assured the down-staters of victory.

RIBBY MURPHY WILL REFEREE CUP GAME HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Announcement has been made by Winton E. Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer League and member of the U. S. F. A. Cup Committee, that Robert (Ribby) Murphy, the regular league referee, will be the "third man in the ring" in the Hellrungs-Tablers cup game, scheduled for next Sunday at Sportsman's Park.

SMITH AND SARAZEN WILL MEET FARRELL BROTHERS IN EXHIBITION

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 20.—Horton Smith, Joplin (Mo.) professional, and Gene Sarazen, winner of the $25,000 Agua Caliente open, have been teamed to meet Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, and his brother, Jimmy, in an 18-hole exhibition match here Sunday.

FAVORITES WIN IN MUNICIPAL ELIMINATIONS

Pre-game favorites came through successfully in the first round of the Municipal elimination basketball series, played last night at Sherman Park Community House.

Two of the winners, however, barely eked out victories over opponents they were doped to defeat by a big margin. One of these was the Los Angeles club, present city champions, whom the gun apparently saved by halting hostilities when the count stood 28 to 26, with the Celt aggregation hitting from all angles and the Los Angeles five in rout.

Trailing by 10 points with less than four minutes to go, the Celts started an offensive that threw their most seasoned opponents into a panic.

Johnny Coccoran, main spring of the Los Angeles five all season, again proved his worth by counting 12 points while Perlman, diminutive Celt captain, led his team with nine.

The touted Y. M. H. A. cagers, favored to romp over the Fitzsimmons outfit, can thank the good work of Paul Jacobson, center, for last night's 40 to 33 victory. Jacobson played virtually a lone hand in his team's conquest, totaling 26 points on a dozen field goals and two free tosses.

The Bell Accountants showed versatile strength in defeating the D. A. Club, 35 to 27. Thirteen field goals were fairly evenly divided between four members of the team while Morfeld and Grandom accounted for the major punch in the D. A. attack.

Shell had little trouble in disposing of St. Anthony, 25 to 14, having a commanding 16 to 5 lead at the end of the first half. An interesting feature of this contest was the work of L. Wessling and A. Wessling, Shell guard and St. Anthony forward, respectively. These boys, brothers, played outstanding games against each other, the former scoring seven points, the latter eight.

The contests were witnessed by approximately 1000 persons.

Girl Sprinter Equals Record In Hurdle Race

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20.—Catherine Donovan of the Prudential Insurance Co. A. A., equalled her own world's record of eight seconds for the 50-yard low hurdles in winning her preliminary heat at the annual Metropolitan A. A. U. championship women's games of the Prudential Organization last night. She won the title by taking the final heat in 8 1-5 seconds.

Eddie Roll, former Colgate star, beat Victor Burke of Georgetown in a two-man race for the Hartley quarter-mile trophy. It was his fifth successive victory. The time was 51 4-5 seconds. The Hartley quarter is limited to athletes whose high school training was received in schools in the vicinity of Newark.

Chet Bowman, Newark A. C. star, led his teammate, Bill Bruder by a yard to win the 60-yard dash in 6 3-5 seconds.

GIRL CHAMPION TO ATTEMPT TO BREAK HER RECORD IN SPRINT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. — Stella Walsh, Cleveland sprinter, will attempt to better her own indoor 220-yard record at the New York Chapter K. of C. games at Madison Square Garden March 12. She will compete against Dallas Creamer of Toronto, Catharine Donovan of Newark, N. J., and Mabel Gilliland of New York. She set the present record of 26 4-5 seconds at Philadelphia recently. She also may try for a new 40-yard record.

Two Butler University stars will be entered in the same meet. They are Bert Nelson, who already has beaten the world's indoor high jump record once this season, and Joe Sivak, miler.

Dummy Mahan Wins

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—Fred "Dummy" Mahan, deaf mute welterweight from Tombstone, Ariz., made an impressive "talk" with his fists last night when he knocked out "Arizona" Joe Rivers of Phoenix, in the third round of a 10-round bout here. Mahan weighed 148 pounds, to 146 for his rival.

MEHLHORN HAS HOLE-IN-ONE IN SAVANNAH PLAY

By the Associated Press.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 20.—Bobby Jones, national open golf champion, set a dazzling pace on the outward nine in the first 18 holes of the Savannah open tournament today, reaching the turn in 32, five under par. Jones played with Horton Smith and Ed Dudley, each of whom had 36.

By the Associated Press.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 20.—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn furnished the thrill for the gallery following early starters in the first round of the $3000 72-hole Savannah open tournament by sinking his tee shot on the third hole this afternoon.

Mehlhorn, who is affiliated with a Pensacola, Fla., club, used an iron on the 141 par three hole. Mike Howden, Savannah amateur, and Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., pro, were playing with Mehlhorn.

The largest gallery of the morning trailed Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, who treated them to a rare exhibition of putting as he blazed down the first nine. Farrell's touch was excellent and he sank a 25-footer on the first green, and dropped putts of lesser distances on the second and third.

Perfect weather prevailed as the threesomes followed each other off the first tee, but most of the gallery hung back for the afternoon to watch Bobby Jones play around with Horton Smith, sensational young Missouri pro, and Ed Dudley.

Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., pro, turned in a card of 68 to take an early lead for the first 18 holes.

STEIN AND THOMA CONTINUE BOWLING MATCH TOMORROW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 20.—Trailing after the first half of his 60-game tenpin match with Otto Stein Jr., of St. Louis, here, Sykes Thoma, the Chicago-Peoria crack, is ready for the final 30 games to be rolled in St. Louis tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday nights. They will be rolled in blocks of 10 games each. Thoma's split finger is healing and he will leave here tonight for St. Louis.

Stein's lead after the first half of the match is 124 pnis, gained in the last 10 games to overcome a 34-pin advantage held by Thoma after 20 games.

HUBBELL OF GIANTS TO BE LATE REPORTING BUT IS NOT HOLDOUT

SHAWNEE, Ok., Feb. 20.—Carl Hubbell of Meeker, Ok., lanky southpaw hurler of the New York Giants, isn't a holdout, as reports from San Antonio, Tex., yesterday, indicated, but he does intend to stay in Shawnee a few days longer before reporting at the Giants' training camp.

Hubbell was married last week to Miss Lucille Herrington of Shawnee, and he isn't ready yet to desert his bride.

He said he would leave Oklahoma for the Texas training camp the latter part of the week. His bride will join him in New York after the season opens.

BENCH COMMITTEE IS CHOSEN FOR DOG SHOW

The personnel of the bench show committee of the eighteenth annual dog show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, to be held at The Arena, April 4, 5 and 6, includes the most prominent dog breeders, exhibitors and judges in this part of the country, according to Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., president, who said the committee members were selected wholly on their experience in handling previous canine exhibitions.

Delbert L. Findley, secretary of the St. Louis Collie Club, and a nationally known collie breeder, is chairman. Other members are: Arthur H. Gale III, bull terrier fancier, who is officiating as judge this week in Boston at the Eastern Dog Show; John E. Holman Jr., last year's president of the St. Louis Shepherd Dog Club, who has been an exhibitor in shows held in all parts of America; Dr. Louis R. Padberg, breeder and exhibitor of Newfoundlands; Asa B. Wallace, whose Great Danes have won honors in more than a dozen shows; W. D. Wilkinson, fox terrier raiser, whose "Beson Show Girl" was adjudged best dog in the 1927 local show, and S. G. Wilson Jr., sporting dog fancier, whose Llewellyn setters have carried off first honors in all recent major field trials.

SEPPALA WINS FIRST LEG OF DOG DERBY

By the Associated Press.

QUEBEC, Feb. 20.—Leonhard Seppala, veteran Nome, Alaska, musher, today won the first leg of the eighth Eastern international dog derby, covering the 40 miles in an elapsed time of three hours, 53 minutes and four seconds.

Emil St. Goddard, youthful musher from The Pas, finished less than five minutes back of Seppala for second place.

WRAY'S Column

Dempsey vs. Carnera?

IF any bait could induce Jack Dempsey to forego retirement and return to the ring, it would be the prospect of meeting Primo Carnera. In the argot of fight promoters, this is a "natural," meaning that it promises a great ring spectacle and an outpouring of cash and customers unparalleled in history.

It will take an exceedingly strong inducement to alter Dempsey's resolution not to fight again. But a great big target like Carnera and a sell-out at the Chicago Stadium for about $2,500,000 might well shake the strongest determination.

Many conservatives are predicting that this will be the great match this summer, if Carnera comes through with a good fight or two against deserving foes.

One of these clairvoyants is Joe Woodman, who for many years managed that dusky dreadnaught, Sam Langford. In a letter to the Post-Dispatch Woodman writes from New York:

"I think they are planning to show Dempsey and Carnera in Chicago next summer. It looks like a money-maker. I watched Carnera work out in the gymnasium here and was much impressed. He seemed to know considerable about boxing. Good judges who saw him in Europe think he will amount to something. Of course, he is meeting a lot of bum heavies now, but his contests are all on the level.

"Really, I think he is as good looking a big man as I have ever seen. However, I have never thought that anyone who was taller than Dempsey would ever be a real success, and I personally would rather have a man who was about six feet tall and who weighed about 185-195, than one of these giants."

Not Being Done.

DEMPSEY may not test his punch against Carnera's great bulk, but if he doesn't, he will join the ranks of those who have refused a million dollars in cash.

At present the society of those who have refused a million numbers 0 members.

At Last a British Champion.

IN Jack Berg, Great Britain at last appears to have produced a champion. Berg climaxed a series of successful fights in this country by beating Mushy Callahan for the "junior welterweight title," Tuesday, in London. Berg stopped Callahan, by way of proving that he is something more than a boxer.

Berg is properly a lightweight and can still do the 135-pound mark at 2 o'clock, it is reported. That means Sammy Mandell is in for a busy time, some spring day, when promoters bring this pair together.

Since his advent to this country last May, Berg has fought 18 battles, winning all of them except one with Loayza, which resulted in a draw.

His victories include three over that cagey Negro, Bruce Flowers, two over Mushy Callahan, one a technical knockout, and one each over Herman Perlick, Harry Wallace, Spug Meyers, Tony Canzoneri, George Balduc, Eddie Elkins and Tony Caragliano.

Sammy and his manager should harvest all the casual kale before tackling Berg, or they will leave a lot of unreaped fields to the enemy.

Derby Not a Test.

THE Kentucky Derby is becoming just a function, not a test to reveal the 3-year-old champion. Seldom are the six best 2-year-olds of the season before brought to the barrier in the Derby. This year will be no exception, for neither Whichone nor Boojum, the outstanding 2-year-olds of 1929, will go to the post. They are not even entered.

As a result it will be midsummer before the pick of the country, including the Whitney pair, will get together.

But, as a spectacle the Churchill Downs classic will continue to sardine customers into the grounds. It undoubtedly grips racing folks throughout the country, more than any other horse race.

Some Drawbacks.

THE early season, the short distance of the race, the absence of the late developing 3-year-olds, and the uncertain track condition, due to seasonal rains, all combine to prevent this feature from being the race of the year. A July date, over a mile-and-one-half route, at equal weights, with a five-pound sex allowance, would make this race a real derby.

The New Favorite.

FROM the bettors' standpoint the failure of Whichone and Boojum to enter the 1930 Derby will make a better race of it. There remain several horses now on approximately equal footing. Among them probably will be Flying Heels, Gallant Fox, Gallant Knight, Desert Light and other good ones.

If Flying Heels wins, it will be the second time in history that the son of a Derby winner has captured the Derby. Alan-a-Dale, son of Halma, is the only famous son of a famous sire to bring the Derby honor back to the family.

Mr. Coccoske Is Lucky.

JACK SHARKEY, born Coccoske, is one of those fortunate fighters who thrive on defeat or indifferent performance. Besides being one of the wealthiest of our pugilistic bloc, Sharkey is shaping up for a "big shot" with the title and another fortune, the same depending only on his success at Miami against Scott. There seems to be little doubt about the result of this event, since Scott was hand-picked by Sharkey as his opponent.

Then will come Schmeling and a packed arena, in a New York open-air stadium.

When it is considered that Sharkey has been knocked out twice, lost five decisions and was held to a draw by poor Tom Heeney, the extent to which the wealthy Mr. Sharkey is indebted to Lady Luck will be appreciated.

A week hence he will be presented with $100,000, and a chance to get $500,000 more, a few months later.

Snapper Should Know, but—

SNAPPER GARRISON, a great jockey of long ago, declared in a recent interview, that Man O' War was no better, and probably not as good as one of the mounts he rode to victory 40 or more years ago—Tammany.

There is no way of gainsaying Garrison, except that Man O' War stands out in his day to a greater degree than did Tammany in Garrison's time.

Man O' War's races not only excelled the best feats of rivals of the day, but he showed his class at all distances over all kinds of tracks in mud or on fast courses and could carry weight and do his stuff just as well.

There was no test in which he did not measure up to championship proportions—a racer without a weakness.

He did all that was asked of him—and more—for he transmitted his fine qualities to his progeny to the extent that for three consecutive seasons his offspring proved to be standouts, two of them winning the 3-year-old championship on successive years — Crusader and American Flag.

It is probable that future generations of breeders will remember Man O' War when Tammany's name has been forgotten.

PEETZ BASKET TEAM CHALLENGES WINNER IN GIRLS' ASSOCIATION

The Peetz Girls' basketball team, which, playing independent basketball this season, has won four out of five games, has issued a challenge to the winner in the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball Association, for a series to decide the girls' championship of St. Louis. As a member of the Association last year the Peetz team won the championship.

COLUMBIA WINS FROM CORNELL AND AGAIN TIES FOR LEAGUE LEAD

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Columbia regained its tie with Pennsylvania for leadership in the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball league last night by defeating Cornell, 41 to 34, in a fast and rough game. Each of the leaders now has won four games and lost one.

Columbia led at [illegible] time by a 12-point margin.

N. B. A. ASKS IF DEMPSEY WILL FIGHT AGAI

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The N tional Boxing Association contro ing the ring sport in 33 stat started to smoke a statement of Jack Dempsey yesterday co cerning his intentions of returni to the ring.

Leonard Sachs, Dempsey's bu ness manager in Chicago, has re ceived reports that the Boxing As sociation wanted to know Demp sey's intentions regarding a retur to his trade as a heavyweig fighter, so it could be guided its attitude toward the winner o the Sharkey-Scott fight at Miam Fla., Feb. 27, and of the propos battle between Max Schmeling a the winner of the Florida conte

JOHN BURROUGHS TO MEET COUNTRY DAY IN A. B. C. CONTEST

John Burroughs and Country Day meet for the second time tomorrow, in an "ABC" League basketball game. The Codasco five are now in second place, having won three of the five games they have played. The Burroughs team, however, does not rate this high, having lost the four games they have played. The last time the two Varsity teams met the Blue and Gold was defeated by the score of 34-7.

Both coaches are anxious to win this game. The Country Day quintet is unusually so because of the fact that if they lose they will be thrown into a tie for third place with Western Military Academy. If they win, however, they will threaten Principia, which is in third place.

The probable line-ups are:

By W. J. McGoogan

"I'm not going to spend any more coin to see hockey games," declared an irate fan at the Winter Garden last night when Tulsa took a 1 to 0 lead over the Flyers in the first few minutes. "This game is going to be just like the one Tuesday night. The Flyers couldn't score then and they won't score in this one. They're just a buncha bums, I'm through."

Now listen to the same spectator roadcasting at the end of the first period, after the Flyers had scored three goals and led 3 to 1: "Wow what a game. Gee, I'm glad I didn't miss it. Did you see Billy Hill back check, Larry Goyer passing the puck, Clark, Breen and Cameron shooting? They look great tonight."

And at the finish with St. Louis winning 4 to 3: "I believe I'll reserve two seats for those two games with Tulsa, March 17 and 18. They might be as hot as this one and I wouldn't want to miss them."

Actual Words.

That, gentlemen, is no fiction but the actual words of a spectator. He was not alone, there were many in the small crowd of 1500 who felt disgusted at the start but by the time the whirling dervishes—ervishes do whirl, don't they—finished 60 minutes of wildly exciting hockey, they were won back to the game again, especially since the home team won.

The start was dreary. Tulsa got off into the lead within five minutes when Ade Johnson, taking pass from Sheppard, caught Kearney asleep and drove the puck past him for the first score of the evening.

That only seemed to liven the Flyers, however, for Clark took things into his own hands two minutes later, drove down the center of the ice and with a smashing shot from the Tulsa blue line which McCusker couldn't stop, tied the score.

Then Denny Breen swung into action shortly afterward, took a pass from Goyer, aimed deliberately and scored. That goal was a tough one for Tulsa because they had two men off the ice and Breen counted just as one of them got back into the game after the Oilers had succeeded in keeping the Flyers from scoring.

One minute later, Cameron took a pass from Goyer and scored the third St. Louis goal of the period.

Two goals behind, Dick Carroll, Tulsa coach, pulled his defense men off the ice and sent in five forwards and from that time on it was a rough house all the way. Carroll's tactics bore fruit one minute after the opening of the second period, when McPherson scored after a pass from Marker.

A Weak Defense.

But Tulsa's continual disregard of their defense enabled the Flyers to score their fourth goal a minute later Clark and Goyer got free of the pack, took the disc between them down the ice close to the Tulsa goal. McCusker came out to meet them but Goyer passed to Clark and Nobby shot it through McCusker and into the net.

At least Goal Judge Vincent Hoechst ruled the puck had gone into the net and when Referee Conroy took his word for it the goal was allowed. That was the final score of the evening and the Oilers probably will always feel that they were robbed.

They were pretty angry and Carroll refused to permit Hoechst to continue to officiate. His place was taken by Gus Jacobs, although Conroy said afterward that he thought the goal had been scored legally.

The incident disclosed a very weak practice of the American Hockey Association for goal judges are not paid officials of the league but are employes or patrons at the various rinks and are permitted to act as goal judges, who say whether a goal has been scored or not. Of course, the referee's word is final but he usually takes the word o when he is in dou there is a question

N. B. A. ASKS IF DEMPSEY WILL FIGHT AGAIN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The National Boxing Association controlling the ring sport in 32 states, started to smoke a statement out of Jack Dempsey yesterday concerning his intentions of returning to the ring.

Leonard Sachs, Dempsey's business manager in Chicago, has received reports that the Boxing Association wanted to know Dempsey's intentions regarding a return to his trade as a heavyweight fighter, so it could be guided in its attitude toward the winner of the Sharkey-Scott fight at Miami, Fla., Feb. 27, and of the proposed battle between Max Schmelling and the winner of the Florida contest.

Demands have been made on the N. B. A., according to Sachs to have the winner of the Sharkey-Scott fight recognized as the world's champion, but Sachs says that inasmuch as Dempsey knocked out Sharkey and has lost only to Gene Tunney, Dempsey still must be regarded as a leading contender for the title vacated by Tunney.

"I know that Jack has been made several flattering offers, but due to the fact that he is tied up for the present in many business ventures, any information concerning what he intends to do must necessarily come from him himself," Sachs said.

"Jack's business will detain him in Los Angeles until the last of February and he will return to Chicago on March 2, according to Sachs.

Amateur Boxing Card Tonight at North Side "Y"

The North Side Y. M. C. A. will enter the amateur boxing field tonight with a program of special and preliminary bouts at the North Side Y, at Grand and Sullivan, opposite Sportsman's Park. Admission will be 50 cents, with no reserved seats.

Advance interest centers around the match between Babe Davis, 230-pounder of the Jewish Community Center, handled by Benny Kessler, and Jack Walker, 210, of the Alton Y. M. C. A. Their battle is billed as the feature of the card.

Paul Fenner, who holds the Ill-Mo Y. M. C. A. middleweight championship, will meet Herman Shapiro, star of the Downtown Y boxing squad, in another special, while the third special will bring together Virgil Sehl of the North Side Y and Jules Schneider of the Jewish Community Center.

Twenty-eight entries have been received for the preliminary events, assuring 10 or more bouts.

Harry Kessler will referee, with Seneca Taylor and Judge Robert Hall as judges.

Of course, the referee's word is final but he usually takes the word of a goal judge when he is in doubt himself and there is a question about the score.

After that squabble the game continued to the finish in the same wild way and the play was so rough that the spectators stood throughout. The players were working so hard that both coaches switched their men frequently. Tulsa scored its final goal midway of the second period on Wakeford's pass to Sheppard.

The victory helped the Flyers put last place another point behind them for Minneapolis and Duluth tied. The Flyers are fifth, three points ahead of Minneapolis and four points behind Tulsa and Duluth which are tied for third place with 38 points each.

The Flyers depart tonight for an extended road tour, during which they will play every city on the circuit before returning to the Winter Garden to meet Tulsa in their last two home games on March 17 and 18. They play at Tulsa Feb. 21 and 22, Kansas City Feb. 24 and 26, Duluth Feb. 28 and March 1, Minneapolis March 5 and 7, St. Paul March 9 and 11.

Named Baseball Coach

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Nels Norgren, head basketball coach at the University of Chicago, has been named by Director A. A. Stagg, as varsity baseball coach, succeeding H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, who has become director of athletics at the University of Minnesota. Norgren will not be new to the baseball job, having coached Maroon squads from 1922 to 1926.

FISTS FLY AS ST. MARKS LOSE TO ST. MATTHEWS

The St. Matthews soccer eleven defeated the St. Marks team, 3 to 0, at Forest Park yesterday afternoon to win the championship of the Parochial School Soccer League. This was the third game of the series, St. Matthews winning the first game 2 to 0, and the second resulting in a 0 to 0 tie.

This marks the third successive year that the Sarah street lads have won the final series from the team from Academy avenue. In the four successive years that these two teams have been finalists, St. Marks have won but once, the first time they met.

About 200 fans witnessed the contest between the "Fighting Irish" and those who craved action were well entertained as the game was hard fought and well played. In fact action got the better of some of the players, and with five minutes to play, the game was ended when the players engaged in fisticuffs, followed by the fighting of over-excited spectators. During the melee some one departed with the ball, and finis was at hand. Lack of proper police protection, or whatever supervision is needed at soccer games, marred an exciting and spectacular exhibition by these 12 and 14 year old lads. Especially were the grown-up spectators in attendance at fault.

The climax of the game came when Referee Joe McConnell sent Capt. Bob Murphy of the St. Marks from the game for fighting, and a spectator ran on the field and hit the young player, knocking him down. Thereafter a Donnybrook resulting in bruised heads and battered hands, took the place of soccer.

A Fluke Goal.

Five minutes after the start of the game St. Matthews counted the first goal when Goalie Ryan of St. Marks fisted a shot which hit Fullback Bob Murphy in the forehead and bounced into his own goal.

With the kickoff, the heavier and taller St. Matthews eleven pressed hard, and two minutes later forced a corner kick, on which Fogarty scored the second goal. At this point Fitzgerald and Hart exchanged blows, and both were put out of the game, both clubs finishing the half with 10 players.

The St. Marks half back line was weak, and whatever chance they had of scoring was hindered by their dismal play. Starting the second half Capt. Bob Murphy moved up to center forward. With seven minutes gone Left Fullback Cummins handled the ball in the penalty area, and Fogarty sent it into the net for the third and final goal of the game.

With 10 minutes to play Bob Murphy was put out of the game for landing a right cross to the chin of Fogarty. St. Marks then put on a rush toward the St. Matthew goal, and Bob Murphy caught the referee with his back turned, slipped into the game in time to shoot the ball between the uprights, but the goal was not allowed, and time was called while the player was taken from the field. Play was then resumed, and with barely five minutes more to go the free-for-all was on and the game ended.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BASKET ELIMINATIONS WILL BEGIN TONIGHT

Elimination games to decide the championship of the Sunday School Basketball League will begin tonight at the Battery A gymnasium, Grand and Hickory. Two tourney games will be played, in addition to a preliminary contest.

The strong Kingshighway Presbyterian quintet, West End division champions, will oppose Third Baptist, Downtown division winners, in the first tournament game, starting at 8 o'clock. In the second elimination Lafayette Park Methodist, South Side champions, will meet the Ascension Greens, runner-up to Kingshighway in the West End division.

Junior teams from the West and North End divisions will meet in a game at 7 o'clock.

WHILE the Browns are openly in the market for a third catcher to round out their 1930 squad, the Cardinals are wondering what they are going to do with all their backstops. Now that Commissioner Landis has decided that the Cardinals must stop kicking Gus Mancuso around and either keep him, sell him or give him his unconditional release, the Red Birds have five catchers and probably the strongest receiving staff in the big leagues.

There's not much work left for other backstops after Jimmy Wilson catches his quota of games and Earl Smith probably will be able to work most of the contests that Jimmy misses. Then George "Mickey" O'Neill will be in uniform at training camp and if he comes back with his old throwing arm, he will be a mighty valuable man to keep on the bench.

Mancuso is another player who does not thrive in the dugout. He needs regular work. A few weeks on the bench and he is lazy and listless. Some young catchers can stay in condition by warming up pitchers and working in batting practice. But not Mancuso. It's either regular work or hook worm.

It's too bad the Cards and Browns can't get together on a deal for Mancuso. The Browns, instead of a feast, have a famine in the catching department. They have Rick Ferrell and Clyde Manion and must have a third receiver. For the good of Mancuso and the Browns, it would be an excellent thing to keep this young man in a St. Louis uniform. However there have been few trades in baseball between clubs in the same city. It's a risky thing to do. If Mancuso should move to the Browns and become an outstanding catcher and a sudden need for backstopping talent should develop on the Cardinal team, it would be too bad.

Carleton to Have Chance.

JAMES CARLETON, who was a very good pitcher in the International League last year, will have a chance to show whether he is ready to take the jump to the big league. He has not been transferred to the Cardinal roster, but he is included among the young pitchers who will go to Bradenton with Manager Gabby Street. If he is ready for fast company and shows it in the spring exhibition games, Manager Gabby Street may ask that his contract be changed for a big league document.

Paul Derringer is another young hurler whose work at Bradenton will be watched with interest. He still needs experience, it is said, but he has a world of stuff. It is considered a certainty that in another year or two he will graduate to the major leagues. He reported to the Cardinals at Avon Park in 1927. He was very green then, but it doesn't take long to slick up a young man in the Cardinal organization.

Browns Not After Hufft.

THERE is no chance that the Browns will purchase Fuzzy Hufft, slugging outfielder, from the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League, Business Manager Bill Friel said yesterday. Wade Killefer, manager of the Missions, recommended Hufft highly to his brother Bill, leader of the Browns, and suggested that the St. Louis Americans take Hufft south for a trial. Friel, who scouted the Pacific Coast clubs for a month last summer, was attracted by Hufft's batting, but decided his fielding and other things would bar him as a prospect as far as the Browns were concerned.

Polvo	111	3	7	8	8	8	8	8	G. Cimcrak	28.50

Tommy Tickle displaying the most speed from the start, set a good pace under light restraint to the stretch where he held on gamely under energetic handling to outfinish Borough Monger. Latter moved up resolutely on the inside but was out-finished. Golden Cloud tired. Punkie met with sharp interference rounding into the stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Tommy Tickle, win $7.10, place $3.50, show $2.70; Borough Monger, place $5.80, show $3.80. Golden Cloud show $3.70.

THIRD RACE—$1000, allowances, 3-year-olds, six furlongs: Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post 3:02½ p. m. At post 2 minutes. Winner blk. c 3, by Black Servant-I Win. Trainer W. Hurley. Time :22 2-5, :46 3-5, 1:13 1-5. Value to winner $750, second $150, third $75, fourth $25.

H. Thurston	110	3	5	5	5	5	5	J. Mann	13.95

Black Cloud slightly outrun early, saved ground entering the stretch and responding well to pressure, was drawing clear. Whileaway displaying most speed in pace-making, lost ground entering the stretch and held on fairly well in the final drive. High Foot well up from the break, weakened as if short.

$2 mutuels paid: Black Cloud, win $6.40, place $2.70, show $2.20; Whileaway place $2.90, show $2.20; High Foot, show $2.50.

FOURTH RACE—$1200, allowances, 4-year-olds and up, six furlongs—Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post at 3:32½; at post 2 minutes. Winner, blk. g. 4, by High Time—Movie. Trainer, J. Tigue. Time, :23, :47, 1:12 2-5. Value to winners, $850, $200, $100, $50.

Macbeth	105	2	4	$6^{1\frac{1}{2}}$	7	7	7	R. Cramer	220.10

Film, breaking well and displaying good speed, took the lead after going a quarter mile and continuing well thereafter, held the race safe under vigorous handling. Taddywawa out-breaking her opposition, led for the first furlong and continued well after being headed to out-game Agitator for the place. Latter well up all of the way, finished in resolute fashion but could not get up. The Southerner had no mishap.

$2 mutuels paid: Film, win $14.20, place $4.90, show $2.70; Taddywawa, place $4.20, show 2.30; Agitator, show $2.20.

SHARKEY ALMOST 3-TO-1 CHOICE TO DEFEAT SCOTT

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—If the big heavyweight fistic festival, featuring the Scott-Sharkey and Campolo-Risko bouts, isn't a a social success, it will not be the fault of the 600 millionaires, more or less, gathered under the chaperonage of "Big Bill" Carey and Frank Bruen, the masters of Madison Square Garden.

The ballyhoo has made a strong point of the fact that the very best people have been buying ringside seats and to clinch matters today, Messrs. Carey and Bruen formed an expedition to the ultra-exclusive Oasis Club in Palm Beach. The program called for a mixture of punch-tossing, informal bouts, tea on the lawn and a dance in the patio—an elaboration of the "boxing teas" that have been a novelty of the season at this resort.

Perhaps on the theory that something should be done for Phil Scott socially, at least, even if not much hope is held out for him in a fistic way, the elongated British heavyweight was to be trundled along for the party, with four sparring mates and his managerial staff, while Jack Sharkey stayed at Miami Beach for a day of rest.

Already established at Palm Beach, Tommy Loughran, who boxes Pierre Charles in one of the preliminaries on Feb. 27, also was scheduled for a part in the society program. Elaborate preparations were made for a very stylish introduction of Scott and a manifestation of enthusiasm for the manly art by the folks who take up a lot of space in the social register and Who's Who in America.

The second annual battle of the palms is exactly a week off but the experts now in training here have found very little to arouse advance excitement. Damage to one of Scott's fingers caused a mild flurry but Phil seems to have survived that. Wagering on the main go is conspicuous by its absence for Sharkey is held at least a 2-to-1, if not a 3-to-1, favorite, making him a prohibitive choice. Speculation is more rife over the outcome of the semi-final betweed Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, with the Argentine apparently gaining support.

Bruen and Carey have reached a positive and final decision, they say, not to broadcast the bouts a week from tonight, although some plans already had been formulated to do so on a national hookup basis. Bruen announced they were prompted by purely business reasons. The only long-distance carrying device at the ringside will be the clarion voice of Joe Humphries, veteran ring announcer, who has been called to the colors.

Concordia in Workouts for Kirksville Game

The Concordia Seminary Preachers will endeavor to annex their sixth straight victory when they meet the Kirksville Normal five at the Armory Saturday night. Should the Preachers win, it will be their eighth victory in nine starts.

Kirksville will bring down a rugged team composed almost entirely of veterans, whose splendid team work in spite of many early season injuries has brought them the runner-up position in the M. I. A. A. Conference, with a record of nine victories and six defeats.

While many of Concordia's followers regard this game as something of a breather before the important Concordia-St. Louis U. game, to be played next week, "Doc" Eber Simpson, coach of the Preachers is taking no chances and will start the regular combination that flashed a brilliant style in gaining a 41-32 victory over Iowa U.

Now that "Hoss" Brauer, lanky forward has recovered his early season scoring ability, especially while under the hoop, the Preacher offense has been distributed more evenly, which has enabled them to spend much time in smoothing out rough spots defensively and to develop a series of new plays to be tried out Saturday. Etzler, the guard who was recently declared eligible for competition, may be called upon to take over the duties of Spitzenfell, regular guard, who has absorbed considerable punishment in the recent hard games.

CLOSE GAMES EXPECTED IN MUNY SOCCER

At first glance it would seem that the Koisters and the Schenbergs should survive the Municipal Soccer League semifinals at Fairground Park Sunday afternoon but it would not be amiss to say either may finish on the short end of the score.

The youngsters who compose the Cook A. C. will have at least one advantage over the Koisters. They will be in better physical condition. The "kids" as they are regarded at Sherman Park, will maintain a speedy pace from start to finish, a pace which may upset the teamplay of their more experienced opponents. It is likely, however, that the Cooks will be vanquished after putting up a stirring game.

In the second half of the double-header, for which an admission charge of 25 cents will be made, the Longos will face the Schenbergs. If Manager Jim McCarthy has his Longo players in good condition the Schenbergs will have their hands full but in any event the teams are so evenly matched that an exciting contest is a certainty.

Harry Donovan will referee the Koister-Cook A. C. game while Dick Wall will handle the second game. The opening game will start at 1:15 p. m. and the second game at 3:15.

$60,000 GATE IS EXPECTED IN FIELDS' BOUT WITH CORBETT

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—Training peaks were reached today by Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw, who will meet here Saturday afternoon in a 10-round non-title bout.

The fight, in the making for the last year and a half, came a day closer to its realization with Fields still a pronounced favorite to dispose of his most persistent challenger, before and since he won the title. Odds of 2 to 1 were quoted that the champion will solve the left-handed style of his opponent.

Bristling workouts ended the heavy training of the pair yesterday. Corbett was slightly over the 150-pound top limit agreed upon but he expected to come down to about 149 pounds without difficulty. Corbett sailed through six rounds with three sparring partners and looked physically fit.

The ticket sale continued heavy and Promoter Ancil Hoffman anticipated a gate reaching better than $60,000. The advance sale already is more than $25,000.

PAULSEN LEAPS 212 FEET TO SET A NEW RECORD FOR SKI-JUMP

MAPLEWOOD IS CHOICE TO WIN COUNTY CROWN

The league-leading Maplewood basketball five has a good chance to clinch the County League title when it meets the Clayton High team tomorrow night in Maplewood's last league game of the season. In the other three County League games tomorrow night, Normandy goes to Wellston, University City to Ritenour and Ferguson to Jennings. Chaminade, a non-conference team, will play at St. Louis U. High, a Prep League school.

If Coach Wahlbrink's Maplewood boys win the game with Clayton, they will then have the undisputed right to the County League title. Due to past records, Maplewood will be favored to win over Hall's men easily. There will be one change in the Maplewood lineup, and that is Rhyne in place of Bittner at right guard.

Although it does not affect the league championship, the Normandy game at Wellston will probably be an interesting affair. Coach Halter's team was considered a little better than Normandy but since Wellston has lost its regular right forward, Gragg, the two fives are evenly matched.

The University City Indians will be favored to win over Ritenour, but the latter may surprise them as it did Kirkwood two weeks ago. Ferguson should take its game with Jennings High.

Coach Granger of Chaminade expects a hard fight when his team meets St. Louis U. High, who is leading in the Prep League circuit.

Sullivan Completes Card

Babe Ruth Only Yankee Player Still Unsigned

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.

WITH Babe Ruth classed as the only holdout, the Yankees have announced the signing of 34 players, who will be taken South for the spring training trip.

Col. Jacob Ruppert will leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4, for a conference with the home run king. The signing of Babe may be expected within a day or two after the conference, in the opinion of the Yankee officials.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 20.—Sir Thomas Lipton's new Shamrock V with which he hopes to recover the America's cup will be launched about April 14, it was announced yesterday. Tryout races with the Britannia and other crack British boats will begin on the Solent May 8.

Billiken Regulars To Start Game Here Saturday

When Oklahoma Aggies' team of veterans face the St. Louis University basketball squad, Saturday night in the locals' seventeenth game of the season, it will be the first time that the Bills and the Aggies have met on the court this season. An earlier game, to have been played at Stillwater, Ok., was canceled. The game will be played at the Billiken Gymnasium starting at 8:30.

Coach Mike Nyikos had his regulars back at work again yesterday and sent both his first and second teams against the freshmen in a fast scrimmage. Nyikos will use the same lineup in Saturday's game that played most of the Iowa U. game last Monday night. Ham Strong, the leading scorer of the Mid-Cityans will be at left forward with Capt. Oldfield at the other offensive post. Lyle Drury will play center but will have a capable reserve in Frank Kennedy, sophomore star. Joe Lintzenich, who started against Iowa, will give way to the regular, Leslie Hunt. Jack Joyce, leading scorer in the last game, will play the other guard position.

The Bills have three more scheduled games after Saturday night. They will meet Iowa University at Iowa City, Feb. 25, and then play the Concordia Seminary Preachers the following Saturday night. Their last scheduled game will be with the Washington U. Bears on March 5. In the event that the Bills defeat the Preachers or the Bears in their next meeting their schedule will be extended so that a third game with the defeated team may be played to decide the usual best two out of three contests. Both the Concordia and Washington teams have defeated St. Louis U. earlier this season.

Paddock and "Bo" McMillin Each Win Race

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kas., Feb. 20.

CHARLEY PADDOCK, the sprinter, split even in two races with "Bo" McMillin, former all-America quarterback here yesterday, but the Kansas Aggie football coach had to get Paddock into the water to win the second race.

Paddock worked out on the track with the Aggie team, demonstrating his starting method, and ran a 50-yard race with McMillin, which the Californian won easily.

"Bo" then challenged Paddock to a sprint in the college swimming tank and this time McMillin was victor.

Paddock is here representing a Los Angeles publishing house which has a local account. He expects to leave Manhattan today.

PITTSBURG PIRATES BUY THREE HOCKEY PLAYERS FROM CANADA

By the Associated Press.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 20. — Two young forwards and a goalkeeper will be taken out of the West next fall in an effort to bolster Pittsburgh's last place Pirates for the 1931 National Hockey League race, it was announced here yesterday by Frank Frederickson, pilot of the Buccaneers.

The Melville Millionaires, leaders of the senior Saskatchewan League, will provide the trio that are certain to get tryouts in the Pirate camp. They are Jimmy Kelly and Fred Carter, forwards, and Wilf Cude, goalie. All are products of Winnipeg leagues.

FIGHT IN SENATE ON H. M. TATE FOR COMMERCE BOARD

Southern Democrats Criticise Him as Prejudiced in Favor of Big Corporations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON Feb 20.—The same objection that was made to the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice of the United States is being raised in the Senate against the confirmation of High M. Tate of Knoxville, Tenn., as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Tate is criticized by a small group of Southern Democrats as one who by environment and professional association is prejudiced in favor of the great corporate interests of the nation as opposed to the masses of the people.

A vote on his nomination was deferred until today when vigorous opposition arose, resulting late yesterday in a spirited debate, with Black of Alabama, and Smith of South Carolina, carrying the attack and McKellar of Tennessee, rising to Tate's defense. All three are Democrats.

Black asserted that the nominee was attorney for the Southern Railway and the power interests, and in addition said that the appointment was a violation of the spirit of the law requiring a bipartisan commission. Smith followed with an expression of the same view.

In reply, McKellar read Tate's testimony before the Interstate Commerce Committee in which he said he had not served personally as counsel for railways or power interests although his law firm had some of their business.

Black read the law requiring that not more than six of the commission's eleven members be affiliated with any one political party and asserted that Commissioner Woodlock, who was appointed as a Democrat, had actually registered as a Republican. With the appointment of Tate as a Republican, he said, the commission would have seven Republican members.

This assertion brought three administration Republicans into the debate, Fess of Ohio, Goff of West Virginia, and Watson of Indiana, the party leader. They asserted that Woodlock had been recommended as a Democrat by such prominent members of that party as Bernard Baruch and had in addition represented himself as a Democrat.

While the opposition to Hughes was borne in large part by the Independent Republican group from the Middle West, their attitude toward Tate remains unknown. Only one member of the faction took part in the debate. He was Blaine of Wisconsin.

Black had called attention to newspaper reports that Tate was recommended by Jeremiah Millbank, a director of the Southern Railway, he said, who owns 50,000 shares of that company's stock.

Blaine asked if this was the Millbank whose houseboat President Hoover used for a week's fishing off the Florida coast and received an affirmative answer.

LA FOLLETTE ASSAILS SENATE'S APPOINTMENT OF POWER CHIEF

Selection of Charles A. Stone as Smithsonian Institute Regent to Be Reconsidered.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Senate agreed today to reconsider the selection of Charles Augustus Stone to be a member of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institute after Senator La Follette (Rep.), Wisconsin, asserted Stone was connected with "one of the greatest power organizations in the United States."

Smoot (Rep.), Utah, obtained unanimous consent for the consideration of the Stone appointment yesterday and it was approved without debate. He would succeed Charles Evans Hughes, recently elevated to the Chief Justiceship.

La Follette, who was absent when the matter came up yesterday, said today he wanted the Senate to have "an opportunity to decide whether we are to continue the policy of filling key positions in the Government by representatives of the power trust." La Follette said the appointment did not follow the routine procedure, having been referred to no committee. Smoot said he would announce later when the appointment would be considered again.

The Wisconsin Senator asserted he had learned that Stone was chairman of the board of Stone, Webster & Co., and added that the concern was "one of the greatest power organizations in the United States."

Mexican Rule Against Nuns Lifted.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20.—Prohibitions on the entrance of Roman Catholic nuns into Mexico, existing since the early days of the Calles administration, were lifted today with orders from the Department of the Interior to immigration authorities to permit entry of nuns of any creed. The permission of entry, however, is contingent on agreement of the nuns not to violate laws forbidding community or convent life.

Fliers Say Courage Varies with the Way they Feel

Member of the "Caterpillar Club" earns his right to membership by 5000 foot Emergency Jump.

AEROPLANE pilots tell us that their courage, their whole attitude toward flying, varies from day to day, with the way they feel. If they feel full of pep, healthy, they can try anything—nothing frightens them. Their nerve is unshaken; their skill keen; their flying is machine-like in its perfection.

It is an entirely different story, however, if they wake up in the morning feeling sick, down in the mouth. Then flying becomes a real danger.

This is the lesson we can learn from airmen. It is the lesson that points to Nujol—the simple, natural, normal way—without the use of drugs or medicines to keep the body internally clean of the poisons that slow it up. Every Day Take Your Vitamins Straight—Live Long-Keep Healthy

PRECIOUS VITAMINS OF COD LIVER OIL EXTRACTED AND PUT INTO TABLETS.

Now, Doctor: when you prescribe McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets for run down conditions, loss of weight, nervousness and other ailments where real Vitamins are sorely needed you can rest assured that your patient is getting all the good substance that Cod Liver Oil contains—the oily, useless fat is discarded.

Cod Liver Oil at its best is ill-smelling, and your patients hate to even look at it, so now that you are able to give them the same Vitamins by prescribing McCoy's, isn't it the part of wisdom to designate these health-building tablets?

Another thing to consider is this: people won't take Cod Liver Oil in summer because it often becomes rancid and no stomach could stand it.

But how different is McCoy's, Doctor; your patient can take them winter and summer and carry a week's treatment in his vest pocket if he cares to do so. Then there are the underdeveloped kiddies to consider, Doctor—Forcing them to take unpleasant Cod Liver Oil for rickets and an under-nourished condition when McCoy's in dainty sugar-coated tablets is just as rich in Vitamin A and D is really cruelty to children.

In McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets sickly, rundown, nervous people get the same beneficial substance—the same Vitamins that they get in pure Vitamin tested Cod Liver Oil.

They are sure to get them.

Even in two tablets of McCoy's your patient gets the equal of one teaspoonful of pure Norwegian Vitamin tested Cod Liver Oil and for every ailment, malady or rundown condition for which you prescribe Cod Liver Oil you will find McCoy's just as good. And you know, Doctor, that we would not be allowed to make this statement if it were not true. All druggists dispense them—precious but inexpensive. 60 tablets 60 cents.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co., pursuant to the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission dated Oct. 6, 1919, in Docket Ex Parte No. 54, and amendments thereto gives notice that it will receive bids for supplying its quarterly approximate requirements for renewals of brake shoes listed below for the quarter commencing April 1, 1930, and ending June 30, 1930, and to continue thereafter from quarter to quarter.

Driver brake shoes, plain. B-P-30906-A.

The prices quoted shall be subject to revision by the Vendor on the first days of July, October, January and April in each year during the continuance of the proposed contract No. 28. The Vendor, on or about each revision date, shall mail to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co., care of its Purchasing Agent, a notice setting forth the prices which shall prevail for the succeeding three months on all orders received after each such revision date. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co. shall have 30 days after each said revision date within which to reject by written notice to the Vendor, the prices so submitted. A rejection of the said prices by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co. shall constitute a cancellation of the proposed contract No. 28. Said contract may also be subject to cancellation by at least 30 days written notice before the end of any quarter, from either party to the other.

Subject to inspection by the Railroad Company. No patterns will be furnished by the Railroad.

2. Place of Delivery: F. O. B. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co.'s Tracks. If bidder ships from two or more plants, then the delivery to be F. O. B. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co.'s tracks from the plant nearest to the point of destination of shoes as ordered.

3. Time of Delivery: From time to time throughout the quarter above specified and succeeding quarters while the contract is in effect, as may be ordered by Purchasing Agent of Railroad Co.

4. Terms of Payment: Cash 30 days after receipt of invoices with B-Ls attached.

5. Sealed bids marked "Bid Serial Contract No. 28," but with no other marks of identification, must be submitted to J. R. Haynes, Purchasing Agent at his office, 547 West Jackson bl., Chicago, Ill., on or before noon, Central Standard Time, of Feb. 28, 1930, and will be received and opened by him, or agent appointed by him for that purpose at said office. Bids received after that time will not be considered.

6. Bids to be accepted must comply in all respects with Interstate Commerce Commission order of Oct. 6, 1919, above mentioned.

7. The successful bidder will be required to enter into and execute proposed contract No. 28 in the form now on file in the office of the Purchasing Agent at the above address, containing substantially the terms, conditions and references above mentioned, including full patent protection to the Railroad Co. and with service agreement.

8. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids, and to accept any part of any one bid.

9. Blue prints are now on file in the office of the undersigned, and may be examined free of charge on any business day by parties who may desire, or propose, to submit bids.

Dated Feb. 10, 1930.

NATIONAL LEAD VOTES EXTRA $3 DIVIDEND

Including Non-Recurring Profits Net for 1929 Was $26.58 Per Share.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—One of the day's most pleasant surprises was provided by the board of the National Lead Co. when it declared an extra dividend of $3 a share in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 a share. This action was made possible by the remarkable earnings rolled up in 1929, when the company showed net income, including considerable in the way of nonrecurring profits, of $10,560,598, equivalent after preferred dividends to $26.50 a common share. This contrasted with net of $6,180,361 or the equivalent of $12.45 a share in 1928. The head of the company stated definitely that no increase in the regular dividend rate is contemplated in the near future or at least until directors are sure of what can be expected as normal earnings. The company last year profited handsomely from the sale of a foreign subsidiary and another property which had previously been written off the books as a "bad asset," and also from high interest rates received on its large cash balances employed in the street.

NORTH AMERICAN CO. EARNS $5.03 A SHARE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The North American Co., large public utility holding organization, in its preliminary report covering 1929 operations, made public today, had net earnings of $28,806,824, equal to $5.03 a share, compared with $24,402,753, or $4.68 a share in 1928.

Net profits of the Delaware & Hudson Co. for 1929 were $7,808,713, equal to $15.14 a share, as against $6,358,759, or $12.33 a share in the preceding year.

The Penn-Dixie Cement Corporation and subsidiaries reported net profits of $332,263 for 1929, equal to $2.44 on the 7 per cent preferred stock, as contrasted with $1,293,851 earned in 1928, and which was equal to 90 cents a share on the common stock.

AUTOCAR CO. REPORT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The first annual statement of the Autocar Co. and subsidiaries of Ardmore, Pa., since the company was acquired by New York and Philadelphia banking interests, shows net earnings for 1929 of $960,045, compared with $570,369 for 1928, an increase of $389,676. Last year's earnings were equal to $15.62 a share on the old common stock of $100 par, or $5.20 a share on the new no par stock outstanding during the year. This compares with $10.10 a share on the old stock in 1928, and, on the same basis, $3.37 a share on the no par value stock which was created in the last quarter of 1929.

BUSINESS INDICATOR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Wholesale price levels last week, as represented by Census Bureau calculations, remained comparatively stable. Figures which follow give the index for all commodities at wholesale, constructed by treating average prices of 1926 as 100, for the week and comparable periods, and give also prices prevailing at like periods for a composite ton of steel products:

	All commodities.	Steel
Week ending Feb. 15	93.1	$35.24
Preceding week	93.4	35.24

RISE IN GOVERNMENTS BOND TRADE FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Another advance in United States Government securities was the most encouraging development in the bond market today. Gains in this important group were mostly small, but a moderately active inquiry made its appearance. The Treasury 3⅜c rose about ⅝.

Otherwise the market was a mixed affair, with advances and declines of minor proportions in the high-grade issues. New Haven 4s ranged down more than a point, while some of the speculative and less active rails had wider ranges. Trading, however, was thin.

Two small municipal loans were offered. One was a City of Los Angeles $1,500,000 issue of 4¾s priced to yield 4.25 to 4.55 per cent. The other was a $1,750,000 issue of Memphis, Tenn., 4¾s, yielding 4.50 for all maturities.

It was announced that the $16,000,000 issue of 6 per cent convertible 20-year debentures of the Pacific Northwest Public Service Co., formed to consolidate the Seattle and Portland properties of Central Public Service Corporation, had been oversubscribed.

Silk Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Raw silk futures closed barely steady; sales 1460 bales; March, $4.39; May, $4.39; July $4.33. Open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai steam, extra M, $4.45; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $2.85; Japanese crack double extra, $4.65.

Friedrich Krupp Works Report.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The Friedrich Krupp Works, once the largest armament concern in Europe, reports peace-time industrial profits for the year ending Sept. 30. Gross profits amounted to 38,160,000 marks and net profits to 10,920,000 marks, all of which was invested in new undertakings of the concern.

The report said that steel production had been placed on a new and greatly improved basis by the construction of new blast furnaces at Borbeck and that there were sufficient orders on hand to keep them busy for some time. Among recent orders was one from a foreign country for 80 railway engines.

Central States Electric Report.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Net income of the Central States Electric Corporation in 1929 was $17,591,821, including profits from the sale of securities, against $8,877,907 in 1928. The larger part of the company's assets are in the North American Co.; American Cities Power & Light Corporation, which reports net income of $9,899,172 in 1929, the first year of its operation; Electric Shareholders Corporation, and Shenandoah Corporation.

[illegible]T. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, [illegible] 20.—Wheat closed ⅛c lower on [illegible] and ¾c higher on July today after [illegible] had opened lower and ruled so most [illegible] the day. Corn closed ⅛ to ½ cents [illegible]er. The following comment was made [illegible] the wheat situation:

[illegible] All the leading world markets felt [illegible] the pressure of the huge supply of [illegible], with hand-to-mouth buying the [illegible] in Europe and North and South [illegible]erica competing to supply the export [illegible]. The United States visible supply [illegible] at 159,000,000 bushels, while a [illegible] ago it was 114,000,000 bushels and [illegible] average for the last 10 years has been [illegible] 47,000,000 bushels. Thus the wheat [illegible] in this country alone were more [illegible] 100,000,000 bushels greater than [illegible] 10-year average. The new crop har[illegible] was but four months distant.

[illegible] British trade estimate that European [illegible] buying would not again become [illegible] until April was cited as an influ[illegible].

May wheat opened at $1.12⅝. July [illegible] $1.13½ and May corn 88¼c.

[illegible]HEAT DOWN TO NEW LOW IN CHICAGO TRADE

[illegible] the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Stop loss selling [illegible]hich more than once attained avalanche [illegible] plunged the wheat market repeat[illegible]ly today into lower depths for the fourth [illegible]cessive day. Season low-price records [illegible] for wheat and corn went into eclipse, [illegible] wheat about 12⅛c a bushel down [illegible] last week's top point and about 34c [illegible] the best figures for the crop. Big [illegible] supplies of wheat in North Ameri[illegible] with no quick export outlet in sight [illegible] to be the chief disturbing fac[illegible], but frequently offset to a notable de[illegible] by unfavorable domestic crop com[illegible].

Wheat closed nervous, 1c to 2c a bushel [illegible] than yesterday's finish. Corn closed [illegible] to ⅛c higher, oats varying from [illegible] decline to ⅜ to ½c advance, and provi[illegible] unchanged to 20c down.

Although wheat futures contracts were [illegible] at prices 10c a bushel under the [illegible] value for equivalent cash wheat sanc[illegible] by the Federal Farm Board repre[illegible] of the Farmers' National Grain [illegible] and of the new Wheat Stabili[illegible] Corporation refused to issue any [illegible] on market purchases or holdings.

At noon, wheat was ⅛c to 1⅝c net [illegible], and corn at ⅜c to ⅝c advanced.

Predictions from a leading British trade [illegible] that European import buying [illegible] wheat will not again become active [illegible] April had a good deal to do with [illegible] rushes here and elsewhere. Open[illegible] ½ to 2⅛c off, Chicago wheat future [illegible] rebounded afterward to near yes[illegible] finish. Corn, oats and provisions [illegible] with wheat, and then rallied, [illegible] starting ⅛ to ⅜c off, and subse[illegible] scoring slight gains.

In connection with British advice current [illegible] that only hand-to-mouth import buy[illegible] of wheat for Europe from countries [illegible] would be witnessed for many [illegible] yet, word was also at hand that [illegible] today at Liverpool and European [illegible] centers was lacking.

On the new downward swings of wheat [illegible] today in Chicago, buying of future [illegible] rapidly increased, and at times [illegible] volume was of more magnitude than [illegible] witnessed this week. Today's [illegible] sellers who were in a position to [illegible] profits took the lead in buying. [illegible], when the market here had recov[illegible] to about yesterday's finish, fresh sell[illegible] pressure again became dominant, and [illegible] bottom-price records for the season [illegible] early today were again outdone, [illegible] values at one period going about 3c [illegible] bushel under last night's level.

WHEAT MARKET LOWER MOST OF SESSION

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 20.—Wheat closed ⅞c lower on May and ¾c higher on July today after both had opened lower and ruled so most of the day. Corn closed ⅜ to ⅛ cents higher. The following comment was made on the wheat situation:

"All the leading world markets felt the pressure of the huge supply of wheat, with hand-to-mouth buying in Europe and North and South America competing to supply the export trade. The United States visible supply stood at 159,000,000 bushels, while a year ago it was 114,000,000 bushels and the average for the last 10 years has been only 47,000,000 bushels. Thus the wheat stocks in this country alone were more than 100,000,000 bushels greater than the 10-year average. The new crop harvest was but four months distant.

"Opening fractionally lower wheat futures rebounded with May regaining loss. Liverpool came 2¼ to 2⅛d lower in cable and Winnipeg opened 2⅝c lower but recovered more than half of the loss early. Corn was a little lower early, with wheat subsequently showed fractional losses. Liverpool closed 1¾ to 2⅛d lower.

"A British trade estimate that European import buying would not again become active until April was cited as an influence.

"May wheat opened at $1.12⅞, July wheat $1.13½ and May corn 88¼c.

"Local wheat receipts, which were 39 cars, 107,800 bushels, compared with 107,800 a week ago and 61,600 a year ago, included 20 cars local and 17 through. Corn receipts, which were 170,800 bushels, compared with 204,400 a week ago and 162,000 a year ago, included 112 cars local and 10 through. Oats receipts, which were 81,400 bushels, compared with 127,000 a week ago and 99,000 a year ago, included 29 cars local and eight through. Day receipts were 10 cars local and four through.

WHEAT DOWN TO NEW LOW IN CHICAGO TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Stop loss selling which more than once attained avalanche headway plunged the wheat market repeatedly today into lower depts for the fourth successive day. Seanson low-price records for wheat and corn went into eclipse, with wheat about 12½c a bushel down from last week's top point and about 54c under the best figures for the crop. Big present supplies of wheat in North America with no quick export outlet in sight continued to be the chief disturbing factor, but frequently offset to a notable degree by unfavorable domestic crop comments.

Wheat closed nervous, 1c to 2c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ¾c higher, oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅜@½c advance, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

Although wheat futures contracts were traded at prices 10c a bushel under the loan value for equivalent cash wheat sanctioned by the Federal Farm Board representatives of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation and of the new Wheat Stabilization Corporation refused to issue any statement on market purchases or holdings.

At noon, wheat was ⅛c to ⅝c advanced, lower, and corn at ⅝c to ⅝c advanced.

Predictions from a leading British trade authority that European import buying of wheat will not again become active until April had a good deal to do with selling rushes here and elsewhere. Opening ½ to 2¼c off, Chicago wheat future deliveries rebounded afterward to near yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions weakened with wheat, and then rallied, corn starting ¼ to ⅛c off, and subsequently scoring slight gains.

In connection with British advice current today that only hand-to-mouth import buying of wheat for Europe from countries overseas would be witnessed for many weeks yet, word was also at hand that demand today at Liverpool and European continental centers was lacking.

On the new downward swings of wheat values today in Chicago, buying of future deliveries rapidly increased, and at times the volume was of more magnitude than heretofore witnessed this week. Today's early sellers who were in a position to collect profits took the lead in buying. However, when the market here had recovered to about yesterday's finish, fresh selling pressure again became dominant, and new bottom-price records for the season reached early today were again outdone, with values at one period going about 3c a bushel under last night's level.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Cotton was rather nervous and irregular today. Early declines influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and weakness in wheat, were checked by trade buying and covering but the rallies met further liquidation and some Southern selling was reported. The mid afternoon market was quiet and steady within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

Futures closed steady, 1 to 6 points higher; March, 15.28@31c; May, 15.58@60c; July, 15.76@80c; Oct. 15.96@97c; Dec. 16.17c; spot quiet; middling, 15.40c.

Cotton opened steady, 3 to 9 points off and soon showed net losses of 7 to 13 points under selling promoted by relatively easy markets in Liverpool and Bombay.

There was some trade buying and covering at the decline, but it was in comparatively light, while there was further liquidation and scattered selling which appeared to come partly from the South. This was in sufficient volume to give the market rather a nervous or unsettled appearance and after selling of to 15.44c for May and 15.83c for October, prices held within a point or two of these figures before the session had advanced far.

Liverpool cable reported continental and Bombay liquidation in that market and noted a slight improvement in demand for cotton cloth from India but said sales at the Shanghai auctions were disappointing.

The buying developed around 15.44c for May absorbed the early offerings and prices rallied during the middle of the morning on covering. This seemed to be promoted by reports of rallies in wheat and sent prices back to about or a shade above yesterday's closing quotations. May advanced to 15.55c and October to 15.94c. The demand tapered off on this bulge, however, and renewed weakness in wheat was accompanied by some increased selling of cotton. The market at midday showed net declines of 2 to 5 points.

Cotton Spinning Activity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The cotton spinning industry showed slightly decreased activity during January, compared with January last year, but an increase over December last. The Census Bureau announced today the percentage of activity for the month was 100.8 compared with 88.2 per cent in December and 111.0 per cent in January last year.

Spinning spindles in place Jan. 31 totaled 34,630,866 of which 29,198,134 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 34,585,304 and 29,069,510 for December and 35,334,736 and 30,757,552 for January last year. Active spindle hours for January totaled 8,173,380,372 or an average of 236 hours per spindle in place, compared with 6,769,932,181 and 196 for December and 9,225,309,037 and 261 for January last year.

CURB MARKET SELLS OFF SHARPLY LATE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Curb Market turned decidedly reactionary in the late dealings today, after showing a general sinking tendency throughout the day. Selling of the utilities was particularly heavy in the last hour, as bears took advantage of the unsettling influence of a pronounced reaction on the big board.

Electric Bond & Share, often called the "United States Steel of the Curb," dropped 4⅛ points to 95⅛. Such shares as American Superpower, American Gas, Middle West Utilities, American & Foreign Power and Northern States A lost two to three points. Standard Power & Light, a recent strong spot, lost more than five points. United Power & Light A, strong early in the session, when it touched a new peak for the year at 42⅞, more than lost its gain.

Oils held fairly steady until late in the day, when Humble and Gulf showed losses of about two points, and others sagged moderately. Several of the less actively traded industrials reached new high ground, and closed near their best levels of the day, but several soft spots appeared in this group. Crocker Wheeler and Deere were heavy. The old Deere stock, an erratic high priced issue, dropped 20 points in a few odd lot sales.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Feb. 20, 1930, $20,800,000; corresponding day a year ago, $23,100,000; this year, $947,800,000; corresponding period a year ago, $1,011,200,000. Report of debits for Feb. 19, 1930, were: Debits to individual accounts, $25,900,000; total to date, $1,233,100,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $17,600,000; total to date, $694,300,000; total debits to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $43,500,000; total to date, $1,927,400,000.

"In home construction it is common sense economy to use only materials that will last"...

WALTER E. FREW

BUILDING a home requires the same careful judgment and foresight that you use in your business investments. If you sacrifice permanent worth to initial saving, you are sure to lose. Bankers know this. That is why such men as Walter E. Frew advise you to insist on permanent, rust-proof construction.

Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts, Brass or Copper pipe and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. They give lifelong service without upkeep cost in home or skyscraper.

The slightly higher first cost of genuine rust-proof equipment is doubly justified. First, by its economy in the long run. Second, by the increased value it gives your property.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

YOU CAN'T GROW HAIR WITH Applesauce

FOR years you have been giving and taking more bad advice about your hair and scalp than about any other equally important part of your physique. You have been told that baldness is due to anything from sleeping in short beds or damp churches to wearing or not wearing hats. You have been dousing your hair with general "cure-all" remedies without regard to the specific cause of your hair loss. Yet you are still losing your hair and drawing nearer to baldness each day. No doubt you are realizing that most of the advice you have received is "just applesauce" and you can't grow hair with "applesauce."

If any other part of your physical structure troubled you—you would consult a specialist. Why not give your hair and scalp the same advantage? Let a skilled Thomas' scalp specialist give you a thorough scalp examination—without charge or obligation—and tell you truthfully just what has been causing your loss of hair, and what can be done to overcome the trouble.

Thomas' 15-year proved treatment helps to eliminate dandruff, stops abnormal hairfall, and helps promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots. The Thomas' will not accept you for treatment unless the specialist conscientiously feels that you may expect satisfactory results. You owe it to yourself to learn the TRUTH about your hair and scalp. Call today for the free scalp examination.

ADMITS HE BEAT BOY TO DEATH TO SATISFY GRUDGE

Orrville, O., Man Confesses Body of Child, Missing More Than a Year, Was Carried Off in Auto.

By the Associated Press.

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 20.—Melvin Horst, 4-year-old Orrville boy, was beaten to death with a two-by-four plank on the night of Dec. 27, 1928, by Charles Hannah, Wayne County authorities said Hannah told them in his third confession, made public today.

Hannah's statement absolved Earl C. Conald, who had been held for investigation in the case, but implicated three other men, among them Arthur Arnold, who had been recently acquitted of child abduction charges in connection with Melvin's disappearance.

According to Hannah's confession, he arranged with two Akron Italians to come to Orrville and they placed the child's body in the rumble seat of their automobile after the child had been beaten. Hannah told the investigators that they wrapped the body in a sack before it was taken away. He said the Italians were to receive the boy dead or alive.

According to the alleged confession, Hannah had his son, Junior, 10, bring Melvin to a garage in Orrville, where Hannah and Conald had parked an automobile in which they had been running liquor from Akron.

Had Old Grudge.

Hannah said, "I guess it was just a grudge the Arnolds and I had against the Horsts—that is, against Roy Horst."

In the statement Hannah said that he and the Arnolds had thought Melvin was the son of Roy Horst, who at that time was Marshal of Orrville, and who he said "kept watching me and the Arnolds in the booze-making business."

Hannah insisted he did not know whether Melvin was dead or alive when placed in the automobile. Conald fled from the garage when Melvin was struck down and was not aware of the arrangements made by Hannah and the others to do away with the child, Hannah stated.

Hannah said he did not mean to kill Melvin, but intended only to stun him and turn him over to the Akron men "to finish the job." He said Arthur Arnold had nothing to do with the killing. Hannah said he later told his wife and son what occurred and told Junior he shouldn't tell on me, but that he should tell on Arthur."

Snook Denied Stay of Execution.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 20.—Gov. Cooper today denied Dr. James H. Snook a stay of execution from his death sentence for the killing of Theora Hix. Snook is under sentence to be electrocuted Feb. 28 and his lawyers desired time to get the case before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mrs. Coke Mason Begins to Long for the Stage

IRON MAN

CHAPTER 28.

COKE hesitated.

"She's home," he said.

"Getting her trained, are you, boy?" Cahill put in.

"Mighty sweet kid," said Riley. "If I had a kid like that I'd be home with her."

Regan kicked Mandl under the table.

"Yeah?" said Coke.

"That is, I thought it was her," said Mandl. "Has she got a big black fur coat?"

"No," said Coke.

"Well, it wasn't then," said Mandl.

Coke laughed.

"I thought you was way off," he said.

The cards were dealt again. Regan opened and Cahill stayed. Regan bet.

"Up one," said Cahill. "I'm gonna keep you honest, George."

"All right," said Regan. "Up five more."

"I ain't curious," said Cahill.

Regan showed his openers and threw the rest of his hand into the discard.

"Come on, Coke," said Regan. "Pull up a chair and get a stack."

"No," said Coke. "I might just as well hand you guys my money. You're too smart for me."

"Too smart for me, too," said Mandl, "but I ain't got such good sense as you got."

BUT the next hand, Mandl drew to a pair of aces and caught an ace full. Regan was out, both Cahill and Riley had fair hands and stayed. Mandl won a big pot. He reached over and put his hand on Coke's shoulder.

"Stick around, champ," he said. "Maybe I can get even before the winners want to quit."

"Did you hear me make any crack about quitting?" Regan inquired.

Jeff came over and sat down beside Coke.

"Champ," he said, "you missed something when you missed the O'Keefe-Willis go. I never seen such a battle. Just like Firpo and Dempsey."

"I read about it," said Coke.

"I won a hundred bucks on that bum," said Mandl.

"You plunger," said Riley.

"Well," said Mandl, "you don't expect me to bet my roll on a guy that tramps on his own feet, do you?"

"You wait," said Regan. "When our friend William Coke Mason retires, O'Keefe's gonna fill his shoes."

"That's the only way he will," said Coke.

"You gonna match him with Joe?" asked Coke.

"We'll sign up this week," said Regan. "And if he licks old Joe, Bat's gonna give him a match."

"Well," said Riley, "I'll say one thing for the Rattler, it'll take a damn good man to knock him out. That guy Willis hit him on the jaw so many times he sprained his wrist."

"He's tough," said Jeff.

"Well," said Regan, "he wants to work out with you, Coke."

"I'll drop down to the gym some time," said Coke, "and we'll go a couple of rounds."

He put on his hat.

"Remember me to the missus," said Regan.

"All right," said Coke; then: "Say, George, why don't you never drop around and see us?"

"I'm waiting to be invited," said Regan.

"Say," said Coke, "don't I come to see you without being invited?"

"Sure," said Regan, "but I ain't got no frau. Anyway, I might run into some of your Four Hundred friends and I'd shock 'em to death."

Everybody laughed.

"None of you guys ever look me up any more," said Coke. "None of you guys ever drop around to see me except Jeff."

Jeff grinned and shifted.

"Well," said Regan, "you're the champion now, my boy, and champions are exclusive."

"Don't let him kid you," said Cahill.

"Well," said Coke, "so long."

HE went out. The wind was cold now and he took a taxi. It was about one thirty when he got up to his room. He undressed and put on his pajamas, then he lay down and began reading a magazine. He was asleep when the clock struck two.

At 2:30 Rose came in. Coke opened his eyes and sat up.

"Well," he said, "sure is time you was coming home."

"Coke," cried Rose, running over to him and putting her arms around him, "listen, I got the best news."

"All right," said Coke. "What is it?"

"You love your mama, don't you, honey?" said Rose, kissing him. "You ain't mad cause mama went and left you, are you?"

"No," said Coke.

"You want your mama to have a good time, don't you, Coke? You want her to be happy and contented, don't you?"

"Sure."

"Well," said Rose, cuddling up to him, "I got good news. Ivor Martin was down to The Viennese, and he came over to our table. When Paul told him who I was, he asked me why I didn't go back in the show business. But I said, 'Because my papa don't want me to.' But he kept insisting, Coke, and so finally we all went to a back room and he gave me a tryout."

"Yeah?"

"Well," said Rose, "I sang a couple of songs for him and danced. Did he like it? Ask Marty Wills. He said he had a spot for me in his big show. Not a chorus job, but a spot, Coke, a spot. But I told him I couldn't do nothing till I saw my papa."

"That's right," said Coke, scratching his head. "You don't need to go back in the business, Rose. Ain't I got plenty of money? Don't I give you everything you want?"

"OH, but I want to," said Rose. "'Tain't every girl that gets a chance to be in one of Ivor Martin's shows. It'd be great, Coke. Just think: little Rose with a spot in one of Ivor Martin's big shows. Only one season, Coke; that'd be enough. Just for the fun of it."

"I don't like it," said Coke. "I never would see you, honey."

"Course you would, Coke. You could meet me every night, and we'd have every day together. Be a sport, Coke!"

"I don't get the idea," said Coke, getting up and walking back and forth. "You got wonderful clothes, and a nice apartment and a big car and a chauffeur. What's the idea?"

"Let me ask you something," said Rose. "Remember that magazine the manager sent up here for you with your picture in it and all that?"

"Yeah," said Coke.

"Well," said Rose, "did you get a kick out of it, or didn't you?"

"Sure I did," said Coke. "I like to read articles about myself."

"Well," said Rose, "so do I. Everybody does, see? I want to be doing something for myself, Coke; so I won't feel like I don't amount to nothing. As it is, I'm just the champion's wife, that's all."

"Ain't that something?" asked Coke.

"Yeah, but it ain't to my credit. Anybody could be that."

"Oh no they couldn't."

"Well, in a way they could. Don't be so stubborn, Coke. Lots of husbands would be tickled to death to see their wives picked out like I was without trying or nothing."

"I bet Lewis done it," said Coke. "He and Coon are always talking about you going back on the stage. Lewis works for Martin, don't he? I bet he pulled the whole thing."

"Well, you just call him up and ask him if he did," said Rose.

Coke didn't say anything.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to Remove It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you remove it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your symptoms of dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and remove every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

DR PRICE'S VANILLA

Does MARRIAGE Feminize MEN?

By

ZONA GALE

Not So You Would Notice It—But They Are Being Civilized as to Cuisine, Art, Poetry and the Outlawing of War.

"When a woman grows to accept her husband's opinions,"—even in choice of gowns—as displayed by mannikins at the couturier's.

THAT a man enters marriage with a masculine outlook, that as the years pass his mentality switches to the feminine and his intellect becomes womanized, while his wife's remains feminine to the end, is a doctrine unusually flattering to women and immensely discouraging to men. If Prof. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford University is in this recent statement correctly reported, and if he is right, what are we all about?

Prof. Terman perhaps proceeds on the assumption that it is the man who seeks to please; that the man pleases by agreeing, believing that agreement is what his lady likes. Presently, having asserted long enough that he believes, that, with her, at last he does believe it.

Thus, he believes her liking to shoot and to fish, believing in war, approving capital punishment, tolerating lynching, preferring his meat cooked rare, enjoying shabby clothes and moments at least of going unshaven. But he finds her regarding the shooting season as a primitive survival, saying that she would like to go fishing if she could be sure of not catching anything, hating war, regarding both it and capital punishment as legalized murder, looking with horror upon lynching, inclining to the odors and flavors of meat roasted brown, and insisting on the immaculate in dress. Having no wish to be regarded by his wife as a savage, shortly he hears himself saying: "Well, a man doesn't need to shoot things." "Of course, we'll outgrow war." "Yes, I myself would like to see electrocution and hanging abolished," and "Oh, well, lynching is less and less employed now," and even, in a restaurant, "Well done, please." As for dress, he finds now that he always did enjoy being well-groomed.

SOMETIMES. But consider that there also exists the following condition:

When she marries him, she likes a kitchenette, but he likes a large kitchen, such as the one at home, where people don't fall over one another. So they build a house with a kitchen 15 feet square, round and round which she or some other woman must march for hours daily. When she marries him, she likes cats, which he cannot tolerate—and she gives away her cat. She marries him liking salads, which he never eats, and tea and fluffy desserts and tea rooms. In six months salads have disappeared from their menu, coffee is served three times a day, apple pie three time a week, and when they lunch out, they lunch at "the hearty places." She likes to wear her hair the new way, but he likes it as she wore it when she graduated—and so it is. She loves color, but he admires black—and she buys black.

In five years, what is to prevent her from actually preaching large kitchens, catless homes, coffee, apple pie, the slow service of tea rooms and conservative hair dressing, and from a habit of saying, "Yes, I feel more comfortable in black?"

IF there is feminization of mentality, there is also masculinization of intellect the world around. Which predominates?

Well, which has reason to predominate? Who was it who, down the ages, has had to please in order to find food and shelter, and in order to find a roof and a loaf for her children? Who is it who, among humans, has worn the bright colors and the plumes and the jewels, and why? No—not for love of them alone, but from the love and the necessity to please. This is a commonplace.

If anybody on all the earth has learned to say "I think so, too," it is pre-eminently the woman—and with reason. And if you say a thing for a sufficient number of years, you believe it and you are it.

In this intimate connection it is to be remembered that the recent so-called emancipation of women after all affects but a fraction of women. There are older women who can never adjust themselves to independent thinking; there are younger women so preoccupied in claiming a license which has really nothing to do with real emancipation, that their subjection to sex and its new traditions is as extreme as was their grandmothers' subjection. Both these groups are more or less "I think so, too" women—the one as thoroughly subjected as ever, and the other as deeply enslaved by the new taboo against scruples. Between these groups there is a group of independent thinking women.

On the other hand, all men have always thought independently—excepting, of course, when their religion or their country or their jobs or their party have dictated their convictions. Independent thinking is their tradition.

Feminization of his mentality?

Why should a man trouble? He has always had food, clothes and devotion without alteration of a single thought of his head.

BUT there is a third condition and a third possible set of results. If one has not yet observed these results, it may be because, as yet, these are not so prevalent as they will be in time. But who has not seen them sometimes prevail?

Who has not seen a marriage in which some of the woman's idealisms pass over to him, and in which some of the man's practicalities become permanently hers? Or it may be that his idealisms and her practicalities are exchanged—that also happens. He may go to concerts with her and grow to like them, but she may adopt his long walks and get interested in baseball scores, and both may even extend their human sympathies enough to like each other's friends. Members of a family tend to adopt or at least to understand and become tolerant of one another's ideas. They act as the best interpreters to one another of alien points of view. In a cultivated family this is delightful, and in an ill-mannered family this is painful to witness. But at the time this interpreting goes on—and especially between husband and wife.

In other words, that exercise in human relationship known as the unit of the family is principally an exercise in adapting oneself to the many-sided personality of others, by mutual understanding, and often by like-mindedness. And there are those who cannot agree that, at this game, man is so much more skillful than woman. Both practice it, and now and then one perfects it—or at least gets to a fair score.

There may be something else. It may be that there are waiting for us down the years certain standards of value that are neither masculine nor feminine, but merely finely and sensitively human. Here a man will respond to them first, and here it will be a woman who first responds. And if his mate and her mate can recognize this value when it is observable in the other, and if both have the sense to adopt it, too—then there will be no question of a mentality feminized or masculinized, but only of one squared up a bit more with things as they are. Perhaps it is like that.

BUT then, of course, it is true—and this thought might indicate to the psychologist that it is a woman and not a man who is writing these words—of course it is true that in many particulars it is a woman's views and not a man's views which more closely approximate that possible future revaluation, just called neither masculine nor feminine. For example, it was the woman who first hated war—and that is distinctly an emotion belonging to a revalued future. It is not a feminine attitude—it is a human attitude. And if men are now swinging to the outlawry of war, it is because they are humanized.

The same is true of a love of beauty—that does not reveal a feminine mentality. It indicates a sensitized mentality, either male or female. Men care more for beauty now than did the troglodyte, either male or female. A wise man said, "Civilization began when things became more beautiful than they needed to be." Woman responded to this wholly neuter-gendered fact first. When man came along and adopted it, too, he was not thereby feminized. He was merely civilized.

Men used to regard poets as half-witted. Even now in certain society, if poetry is quoted, it is met with a self-conscious hush from both sexes. It was the woman who first detected the value of rhythm, of poetry—as a lullaby, to be sure, but that was incidental. Then man began to rhyme, too, and at once appropriated the whole rhyming industry. Feminized thereby? No—only poetized.

MEN at large are not feminized because they are chefs, couturiers, smart milliners, for these occupations, performed first by women at home, are not feminine. They are the combining of ingredients and colors and materials as an art. And art is not a feminine province, heaven knows, but a fairly human province—rather appropriated by men, along with other provinces, for many years, but in reality a phase of a possible future order "toward which the whole creation moves'—or may stumble upon, if you like that better. A future order in which in many respects women have always found themselves already at home.

In any case, if women are not, by their idealisms, already more than are men, synchronized with a better ordered future than our present, at least they believe themselves to be so. And it is certain that they do—or they used to—strive to impress their opinions on men, by way of "saving" them. This, however, by no means signifies that they have succeeded in planting in men their opinions. For women were merely trying this through a sense of duty. Whereas man, when he has sought to turn women to his point of view, has done so fairly often for his own comfort, his own power and in the interests of his own way. And it is evident that he has fairly often succeeded.

HOWEVER, "it is the unconscious that always matters." Prof. Terman would doubtless say that it is man's unconscious feminization which constitutes his peril. Woman, he would say, seems to have no peril to speak of.

What is a "masculine mind"?

What is a "feminine mind"?

We know now that every mind has both aspects. When a man in whose intellect the alleged masculine traits are at first dominant is found accepting, so-called feminine points of view, he is merely being enriched by the unfolding of what are really man's own convictions, hitherto either dormant or existing as survivals.

When a woman grows to accept her husband's opinions, popularly called masculine, she is—or she may be—only appropriating what are really woman's own latent—or vestigial—mental functionings.

If Prof. Terman will say that to all his fears for man he may also add like fears for women, and that he may congratulate both—then we may agree with him. We may even congratulate one another.

An Ocean Hotel

THE Little Black Clock led John and Peggy into a most gorgeous hotel.

They could hear music, and people were wandering about just as they did on land. It hardly seemed possible that they could be walking through a hotel that was on a landing place, or seadrome out on the ocean.

"Yes," said the Little Black Clock, "there are a number of these right across the ocean now, and they aren't considered wonderful any more. People are getting quite used to them."

The Little Black Clock ordered some cocoa and bread-and-butter and cake for the children.

They heard people talking about going over to Europe to spend a day or so and deciding that they'd stop off for a little bite of something to eat on the way. They seemed to think nothing of it.

After awhile, when they were really tired from taking such an exploring trip over the seadrome, the Little Black Clock suggested that they should start off again.

So they took off from the landing deck with their plane and were flying over the ocean once more.

And right across the Atlantic Ocean, and right back again, the children and the Little Black Clock and their pilot flew so very rapidly, stopping from time to time at other great seadromes where they had refreshments and saw plenty of other planes and people.

"My, but it was luck that you lived in our house," said John to the Little Black Clock, "when you can turn the time ahead like this and take us along on adventures with you."

Meet GINA....madcap heroine of RUBY M. AYRES' thrilling new romance

Caught in a lie; it had robbed her of the only man she ever loved. To tell him the truth, she would have to admit her rendezvous with another man. She would have to reveal the secret of her one wild summer month of madness.

Gina was powerless in the net of circumstance that was closing about her. She was wanted in a sensational murder-suicide case. A social outcast—shunned by the very people she loved and wanted to protect. Was this the price she had to pay for one romantic mistake?

Has any girl the right to keep from her lover the secret of her past?

This is the amazing theme of Ruby M. Ayres' brilliant new novel "The Secret Witness" beginning in this week's issue of Love Story Magazine. Against a background of New York society Ruby M. Ayres has woven a vivid, unforgettable story of love and mystery.

Follow "The Secret Witness" in Love Story Magazine. It is Ruby M. Ayres' finest achievement. And remember, there are many other fascinating stories of love by famous writers in the big February 22nd issue. Get a copy today! Now on sale at all newsstands.

NED SPARKS

O have been a lad in the Alaska gold rush, to have lived the frontier life it demanded, to ve fought for a living in a ld-mad land, among strange aracters men since have cele- ted in story and song, might be deemed sufficient to give any man a "poker face."

Yet Ned Sparks got his famous "dead pan" in a a quest for something new in comedy. When he left Alaska by way of the stage, and landed on Broadway years later, after barnstorming America, he realized he needed that "something new" to register a real hit. He knew that thousands of comedians were cracking jokes and laughing heartily at their own wit.

The first night he tried the stunt he was a sensation. Talkies have been a boon to Sparks because of his style of comedy. He has been funny in many silent pictures, but in speaking his lines he invariably is a panic.

The "dead pan," incidentally, seems to have become a part of his real life, make-up as well as his screen characters. If he ever smiles, he must do it in secret.

MUSIC seems to be taking the role of the tail wagging the dog in the talkies, and the studio music departments consequently are becoming highly organized.

One studio has an "executive in charge of all musical activities," a "musical director-in-chief," and a "musical director" to boot. The latter's function, incidentally, is merely to conduct the orchestra.

PERHAPS it should not be told at the outset, but L. Wolfe Gilbert wrote the lyrics for "Ramona," one of the first of the movie theme songs.

And he wrote also the famous "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" with its line about "down on the levee in ole Alabammy," but what "popular song" writer in the old days ever bothered to find exactly where the lazy Mississippi flows, so long as Alabammy rhymed with Mammy? And what mammy-worshiper ever knew a real Dixie mammy?

In later years, perhaps, the denizens of Tin Pan Alley have been a bit more careful with their rhymes, but now that Tin Pan Alley has moved to Hollywood it is learning the actual meaning of research.

GILBERT, who is cited as an interesting example, used to be one of those half-starved cafe singers in New York. Many a well-known song writer of today knew the same beginning. They would write their tunes, sing them, get them danced to, and once in a while land a hit.

In "bad times" they would haunt the old theatrical district and write parodies, then popular, for none too well paid stage singers who would pay them with a cup of coffee or a meal.

WARNER BAXTER

Working under conditions like those may have been responsible for frequent triumphs of rhyme over reason in their songs. Certainly no time nor money was available to permit personal investigation into the habits of Southern mammies, Dixie moons and the lazy, muddy Mississippi flowing through the fields of cotton far away.

GILBERT, like some of his contemporaries, achieved success and royalties. Today, in Hollywood, he and his musical teammate, Abel Baer, are established with a piano in a studio office, one in a row of the other offices where other song teams beat out tunes to embellish the studio's celluloid. The "muse of popular music" has been caged in a factory.

The need for research arises in period pictures, where new songs typical of the old time and country are demanded. Warner Baxter sings an "old" Spanish song in a recent talkie, but it is a new product fresh from the office of Gilbert and Baer.

JEAN NASH

And Still Another Romance Comes to Cheer the Life of

By ARTHUR STRAWN.

WHEN war broke out Jean's husband, Winfield Sifton, was immediately appointed aide-de-camp to Gen. Sam Hughes of the Canadian army, and was stationed at the Val Quartier camp near Quebec. Jean took a country house at Lake St. Joseph nearby. At this time there were rumors of an estrangement between them, but when Sifton received orders to sail for Europe ahead of the troops with Gen. Hughes, Mrs. Sifton also went along.

Being on the staff of the commanding officer of the Canadian forces, Sifton had many privileges and being wealthy and of excellent social connections, he and his young wife were soon plunged into the very center of the fastest set in English fashionable society.

At first they made their home in London, where they were conspicuous participants in all the important social functions, but when the Canadian contingent was stationed at Salisbury Plain, 80 miles from London, Jean rented Derrington Manor, a charming estate two miles from camp, and it soon became the scene of many parties given by Jean and her husband and largely attended by other military personages.

One day Sifton was ordered to go to Plymouth to greet a new batch of Canadian troops who were arriving from America. Two days later he sent Jean the following telegram:

"Am expecting important letter from father. Go in to White Hart Inn, Salisbury, and ask for my mail. Love. Winfield."

WHEN she called for the mail she was given an envelope inscribed in beautiful feminine handwriting; but no letter from her father-in-law. The envelope was large and mauve and highly scented, with a great gold crown embossed on the back. It was, very obviously, a letter which Sifton had not expected to have fall into his wife's hands. Jean took the letter home. For two hours she resisted temptation, but being a woman, and moreover a wife, she finally yielded to the demands of curiosity and slit the envelope open.

The letter clearly revealed that its author had been on the friendliest of terms with Sifton even while he had been stationed at the camp in Canada. The writer thanked him for having secured for her husband an appointment on the staff of the Canadian Army, and the letter further disclosed that its author was then living in London where Sifton was apparently in the habit of visiting her.

Furious at what she had read, Jean promptly got into an automobile and drove out to the camp where the husband of the letter writer was stationed. The good man was already asleep, but Jean had him called out of bed and showed him the letter.

"Your wife," she said, her voice high with excitement, "has stolen my husband from me. It seems to me you ought to do something about it."

The officer looked at the letter and then smiled.

"But, my dear madam," he said, "this has nothing to do with me. The dear lady and I have been divorced for some time."

Captain John Nash Who Gave Jean the Name She Made Famous.

After an embarrassed apology, Jean hurried away, very much annoyed with herself and decidedly angry at her husband.

WHEN Lieut. Sifton returned from Plymouth his wife met him at the station. She had determined to be as calm as possible and to say nothing about the letter until they reached home. But as soon as she laid eyes on him she lost all self-control, pulled the mauve envelope out of her pocketbook and indignantly waved it in front of him, at the same time demanding an explanation, much to the amusement of his fellow-officers, but to his own acute discomfort.

This difficulty, however, was patched up, and in time peace was made between them. Sifton wrote a letter to the London lady bringing to an end their friendship, and all was harmony again in the Sifton menage. Soon after that they moved to London and took a house, and there some months later their daughter, Elizabeth, was born. At this time Sifton bought Jean a string of pearls worth in the neighborhood of $50,000, but whether this was to celebrate the safe arrival of the child or given as a peace offering to banish all memory of the mauve letter has not been determined.

Tiring of London life, the Siftons next leased a magnificent old country mansion called Froyl, located near Alford, a very fashionable region for country houses within easy distance of the city. Here they gave enormous and very gay parties, sometimes hiring the entire dance orchestra from Ciro's and often keeping the musicians for as long as three weeks at a time. They also gave occasional parties at their London house, and since money was a matter of no importance to either of them, because they had plenty of it, these parties were also extravagantly splendid affairs.

IT was at a house party and ball at the home of one of their London friends that Jean for the first time met Capt. John Victor Nash, a handsome, well-built young man of good family connections. The two became friendly, and Jean flirted with him quite openly, partly, as she later declared, to arouse the jealousy of her husband who had lately begun to be attentive to lady friends of his own. Jean soon met Capt. Nash again at another house party, and this time his attentions were so marked as to provoke several ill-humored comments from Sifton. Mrs. Sifton had succeeded in making her husband not only jealous, but very angry with it. Matters reached an acute state of strain when Jean, instead of driving back to London in her husband's car, decided to ride back with Nash in his roadster.

As a result of Nash's attentions Sifton and his wife had a violent quarrel when they reached home, and Jean, in a fury, packed up and moved over to Claridge's Hotel. Jean promptly engaged a well-known British lawyer, Sir George Lewis, to bring a suit for separation, and at the same time obtained an order from court giving her custody of their child. Sifton promptly wired an advertisement to New York papers warning tradesmen that he would no longer be responsible for her debts.

Jean then took a house near Ascot, where the famous races are held, and began to entertain lavishly, as if to show her husband that she was able to endure life very well without him. Her most constant, in fact almost inseparable, companion now was Capt. Nash, and their mutual interest soon became the subject of unlimited gossip and conjecture. By this time Jean had concluded that she didn't want a separation from her husband, but a divorce, for she had made up her mind to marry Capt. Nash, who, it should be added, was an enthusiastic supporter of the plan.

The English law, however, presented obstacles, for it provides that an applicant for divorce must not only prove infidelity, but, what is sometimes more difficult, either cruelty or desertion coupled with it. Jean determined, therefore, to get her divorce in Canada, where a bill of divorce granted by the Dominion Senate at Ottawa furnishes relief for husbands and wives unable to agree.

Jean appeared before the Senate committee and evidence of Sifton's relations with an American actress in London was presented. The actress named in the case was a beautiful musical comedy star, who, after having been the toast of London and Paris, later committed suicide in a cheap Parisian hotel by taking an overdose of veronal. The divorce was finally granted and Jean and Nash returned to England. At a quiet wedding in London Capt. Nash bestowed upon Jean the name which she has since made famous.

Poke Bonnet Seen In Paris Showings

ADVANCE spring hats which are being shown to professional buyers behind closed doors in Paris show a tendency to widen out and take on poke-bonnet lines.

Latest models reflect the strain Paris is undergoing in an effort to design hats to match the new flowing skirts.

Like skirts, the new hats are sharply divided into two classes—those for daytime wear in town and those for wear elsewhere.

But hats for wear with the dress-up type of afternoon clothes which women have rediscovered are going to make their own rules, more or less.

There are other big hats which have a brim on one side only. Some of the brimmed hats are cut and pleated in the manner of the winter's felt shapes.

Trimmings are mostly grosgrain ribbon and incrustations. Only a few of the advance models show flower or feather ornamentation.

Colors stressed in the early straws, many of them meant for Southern resort wear, are deep sunburn, faded blue, green and red and all shades of pink.

If you want the rice to be especially good and nutritious, boil it in milk.

Cut rhubarb into inch lengths to make a quart, and place in the lower crust in the pie tin. Sprinkle a mixture of 2 tablespoonfuls cornstarch and pinch of salt over the rhubarb. Cover with a top crust and bake at 450° for about 15 minutes. Finish at 350°.

RHUBARB PIE without sugar! Imagine it. Yet you would have such a pie, in all its sourness, if you used this recipe. Two cups of sugar are needed.

Many meals served today in countless homes are unpalatable and lacking in enjoyment because sugar has been left out. Vegetables are flat, fruits are sour and cereals tasteless. Try a dash of sugar on these most essential foods and see how much better they taste.

Sugar on protective foods makes them a pleasing carrier of the roughage, mineral salts and vitamins they contain. It does not change in any way their delicate, valuable elements.

Beautiful hair!

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant.

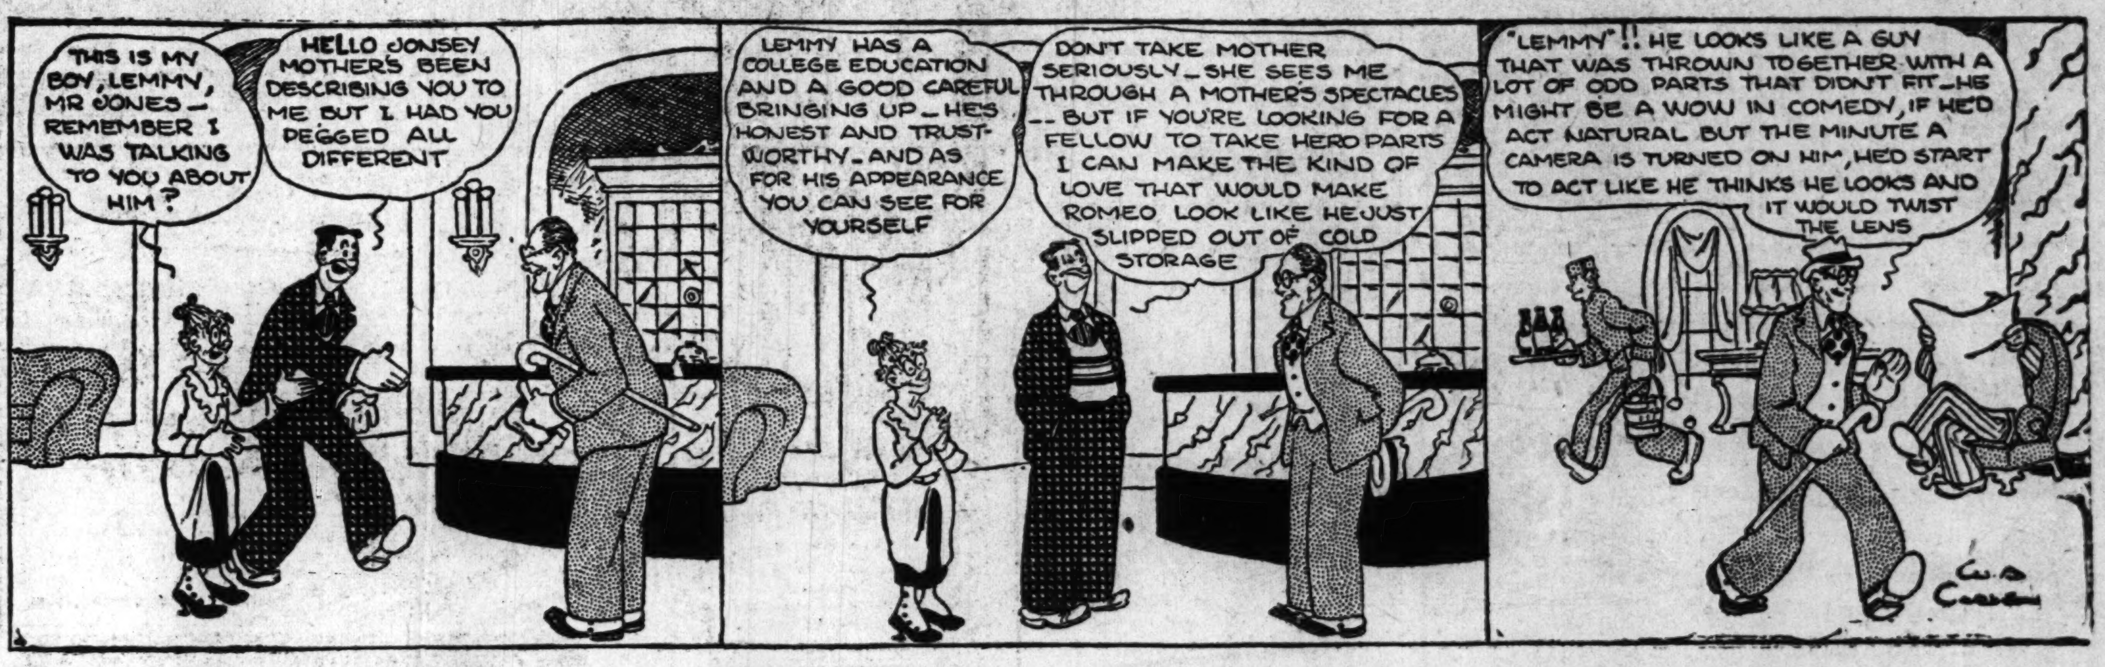
Lemuel the Great



THIS IS MY BOY, LEMMY, MR JONES— REMEMBER I WAS TALKING TO YOU ABOUT HIM?
HELLO JONSEY MOTHER'S BEEN DESCRIBING YOU TO ME BUT I HAD YOU PEGGED ALL DIFFERENT
LEMMY HAS A COLLEGE EDUCATION AND A GOOD CAREFUL BRINGING UP—HE'S HONEST AND TRUSTWORTHY—AND AS FOR HIS APPEARANCE YOU CAN SEE FOR YOURSELF
DON'T TAKE MOTHER SERIOUSLY—SHE SEES ME THROUGH A MOTHER'S SPECTACLES —BUT IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR A FELLOW TO TAKE HERO PARTS I CAN MAKE THE KIND OF LOVE THAT WOULD MAKE ROMEO LOOK LIKE HE JUST SLIPPED OUT OF COLD STORAGE
"LEMMY"!! HE LOOKS LIKE A GUY THAT WAS THROWN TOGETHER WITH A LOT OF ODD PARTS THAT DIDN'T FIT—HE MIGHT BE A WOW IN COMEDY, IF HE'D ACT NATURAL BUT THE MINUTE A CAMERA IS TURNED ON HIM, HE'D START TO ACT LIKE HE THINKS HE LOOKS AND IT WOULD TWIST THE LENS

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

The Kedroff quartet, singers of Russian folk and church music, will be guests of the Contemporary Club at its dinner meeting at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow night in Hotel Jefferson. The quartet, composed of two Leningrad music teachers and two Imperial Opera artists, was dispossessed by the Soviets in 1923 and left Russia for the Concert stage in other countries.

Base Hospital United 21, which served 23 months in France during the war, will hold its annual reunion dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at the Coronado Hotel. The unit, stationed at Rouen, was recruited under auspices of the Washington University Medical School.

The agricultural outlook for 1930 will be discussed by E. A. Logan, State crop statistician, and H. C. Hensley, professor of agriculture of the University of Missouri, tomorrow at 10 a. m., at Clayton Masonic Hall, under auspices of the St. Louis County Farm Bureau. The meeting is one of a series held in co-operation with schools of agriculture and indorsed by the Federal Farm Bureau.

Kitchen Boards.

We housekeepers dislike having a number of things about our kitchen that are not used and a series of cutting boards for each article is sometimes a nuisance. One way of solving this problem is to have distinct sides for the cutting. For instance, use one side of the board for fruits and more delicate vegetables and save the other side for meats and vegetables with strong flavors. You will find with a few usings the meat side will darken and you can readily see which is which. Then your board problem is solved with just one board besides the bread board.

HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston.

Seasonal Diseases

THERE are styles and seasons in diseases, as in other things.

The common cold is in fashion in winter, intestinal upsets in the summer. A host of other common diseases follow a regular wave-like rhythm.

It profits us to know of these periodicities, the so-called seasonal diseases, for with such knowledge we are enabled to anticipate them and to arm against them.

In January, February and March we find the pneumonia deaths at their height; influenza is at a peak, and deaths due to diseases of the kidneys, arteries and diphtheria mount high.

Tuberculosis deaths, on the other hand, do not reach their peak until March, April and May, from which time there is a decline, reaching the lowest point in the month of October.

Deaths due to diarrhea and disturbances of the digestive system are highest in the month of August and lowest in the winter months. Measles is at its height in April and May. Deaths due to accidents, as might be expected, are at the highest in June, and because of inclement weather are again high in the month of December.

The periodicities and variations in disease prevalence are not easy to account for, and yet in a general way it may be said that the respiratory diseases are more common in winter because during these months people tend to overcrowd; to associate closer than in the warm weather.

Careless coughing, sneezing and spitting undoubtedly help to spread disease. The lack of fresh air, overheated rooms and over-indulgence in food contribute to the undermining of physical resistance.

In the summer time, on the other hand, the careless handling of food, the consumption of spoiled milk, fruits, vegetables and other foods, contribute to the engendering of gastro-intestinal disturbances.

Fruit Rolls.

A healthful and delicious confection for the children. One cup dates, one cup seedless raisins, one cup prunes, two tablespoons orange juice. Soak prunes over night in cold water. Drain and remove pits. Put dates, prunes and raisins through the meat grinder. Stir in orange juice and blend well. Sift powdered sugar on the pastry board and shape the fruit into a thin roll, about one and one-half inches in diameter. Cut into one-inch slices, roll each slice in powdered sugar and wrap in waxed paper like salt water taffy.

Padded Linoleum

You have noticed, perhaps, how thick and heavy the linoleum seems in some of the places you visit. A very fine layer of sawdust is laid under the linoleum before it is put down and it not only adds to the life of the floor covering, but makes a softer substance to stand on.

Coffee Malted Milk.

Two and one-half teaspons malted milk are blended with a little hot water. The malted milk must be thoroughly dissolved. To this liquid is added one cup rich milk and the whole is put into a shaker with two tablespoons coffee, two tablespoons sugar, one egg and shaved ice and shaken for two minutes. Then strained into a tall glass. It is topped with two tablespoons of vanilla ice cream for serving.

Doubly delicious —a blend of TWO glorious maples
Vermont maple? what flavor! Canadian maple? what richness!
Yes, indeed—each has its fine point! But wait till you taste them together! Blended, maple with maple, and mellowed with pure Southern cane, they create Log Cabin Syrup—the syrup with the doubly delicious flavor.
Taste Log Cabin's glorious, snow-morning flavor on a steaming stack of griddle cakes—or hot waffles—or on roast ham—or in any number of delicious desserts —or on a dozen other mates for maple flavor.
Tap a tin of Log Cabin, and make a maple taste-test today. And hurry—you're missing something doubly sweet and good!

arket Irregular Most of Day as Bulls and Bears Stage a Tug-of-War With Prices.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The ock market closed with an out urst of strength after a day of e-saw movements. A brisk deand for the railroad shares, hich followed in wake of the Inrstate Commerce Commission's pproval of the proposed merger the Great Northern and North Pacific Railroads but with the icago, Brulington & Quincy exuded from the combination, feared the late buying movement. il, public utility and mail order ares also contributed several ints of strength.

The weekly mercantile reviews ntinued to report a spotty condin in business, which Bradeet's continued to characterize as ir to quiet." Dun's states that e situation in business, although t without further evidences of tterment and returning strength, mains of a mixed and varied aracter," adding that "in their ger aspects, conditions have not anged essentially this month, and widespread and decisive recovery om a major recession is yet to be tnessed."

Money 4 Per Cent.

Call money held steady at 4 per all day, although loans were eely supplied in the outside mart at 3½. The time money mart was quiet, with rates unanged. Directors of the Chicago ederal Reserve Bank announced change in the rediscount rates.

Wall street had heard earlier in e day that the Baltimore & Ohio d Chesapeake & Ohio were conering the filing of new plans to incide with the recently revised of the commission. At least a zen rails were marked up 2 to early 10 points in the last hour trading.

Buying of the oils, which have een under the depressing influnce of increasing production and eclining prices, was rather seective in character, with the deand centering in Standard Oil of alifornia, Houston and Mexican aboard.

Brooklyn Union Gas and Conolidated Gas led the rally in the tilities. Brooklyn Union Gas losed 4½ points higher, Consoliated Gas 3¾ and American Waerworks, American Telephone, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, North American Co. nd American and Foreign Power howed net gains of 1 to 3 points.

Some of the Advances.

J. I. Case was run up 6 points; llard Co., 5; Eastman Kodak, ; American Can and Gillette afety Razor, 3 each; Westinghouse lectric, 2⅞; Montgomery Ward, ¾, and General Electric, U. S. teel and Radio were among the any issues to show net advances f 1 to 2½ points.

Norfolk & Western, with a gain f 9¾ points, led the railroad list. hesapeake & Ohio advanced 2¾.

Except for a further decline in commodity price index, due argely to the recent sharp break n grain prices, there were few unavorable developments in the ay's news. A few consolidations ere annouced overnight, and avorable dividend action taken by few small corporations.

Exchange Undertone Firmer.

Foreign exchanges showed a irmer undertone. Sterling cables, fter an early period of heaviness, allied slightly above last night's lose to $4.86 3-16, and nominal ains took place in most of the ther continental currencies. The anadian dollar was slightly easier.

Wheat rallied fractionally on reports of large export sales and unavorable weather in the Southwest. Corn futures rallied in symathy. Cotton lost about 50 cents bale.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will e found on Pages 17C, 18C and 19C.
